January 1st, 1918, will long be remembered as a very near perfect day as regards weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wallace of near Astoria are visiting with relatives and friends in the Valley.

Bob and Ed Masterson returned from Boise Friday. They report the weather in that section practically the same as here—rain and mud.

Stomach Troubles
If you have trouble with your stomach you should try Chamberlain's Tablets. So many have been restored to health by the use of these tablets and their cost is so little, 25 cents, that it is worth while to give them a trial.—adv

A CITY OF MANY SIEGES.

Verdun Has Figured in Wars Since the Time of Caesar.

The first appearance of Verdun in the pages of history was in the time of Julius Caesar, who established at Verodunum, as it was then called, a magna castra for his legions.

The Germans first attacked Verdun in the sixth century, when the Franks from the northwestern part of Germany took possession of the town. By the famous treaty of Verdun, made on this date in the year 843, Verdun formed part of the domain of Lothaire. It was taken and annexed to the German empire in 1099 by Otto I, and placed under the temporal authority of the bishops.

Verdun surrendered to France in 1558, but was not formally ceded to France until nearly a century later. During the French revolution, in 1792, the citizens of Verdun opened their gates to the Prussians after a bombardment of a few hours. The French commandant committed suicide and the revolutionary government executed a number of others who shared the responsibility for the shameful surrender, including fourteen girls who had offered flowers to the Prussian march. The Prussians were driven out after having held the town forty-three days.

The Teutonic huns penta swooped down upon Verdun in 1578. Unable to take the town by direct assault, they invested and bombarded it, and the French, after a brave defense, surrendered the fortress with 4,000 men and large stores of ammunition. Verdun was the last place abandoned by the Germans, the troops retiring in September, 1873.—New York World.

Difficulties of Mining.

Every time a ton of anthracite coal and rock is hoisted from a mine an average of eleven tons of water must be pumped from the mine.

It takes about the same amount of power to pump fresh air into a mine as it does to hoist the coal out of it.

In some mines with long drifts the air hoists may be as much as fifteen miles per round trip.—National Engineering.

Preserving the Pumpkin.

In colonial days pumpkins were pared, cut in thin strips of convenient size and dried for future use in "pumpkin" bread and "pumpkin" pie. This custom is one that we should imitate. Squashes and sweet potatoes, when they show signs of spotting, may be preserved by the same method.—Good Housekeeping.

He Was Posted.

"How old are you?" asked a little boy of his mother's caller.

"While," said his mother sharply, "you must not ask a lady a question like that; it isn't polite."

"Why, mamma," returned the youngster, "she isn't supposed to tell the truth."—Boston Transcript.

Real Nerve.

"Matt sure has got nerve, hasn't he?" "I guess, yes. The other day he asked an automobile salesman for a sample."—Lamb.

Pessimism is productive of paralysis and stagnation.

"Are you sure your mistress is out?" asked the caller.

"Oh, yes, sir," replied the maid. "She told me two hours ago she was out, and she hasn't come in since."—St.
