PUT 10,000 ACRES IN BEETS

Yakima Valley Crop Expected to Reach Value of $1,500,000.

Yakima, Wash.—Mark Austin of Salt Lake City, agriculturist for the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, after an inspection of the beet acreage of the Yakima valley, says he estimates that 10,000 acres will be sown to beets this season, of which the company itself is farming 3000 acres near Moxee. He says he is assured the growers will average 13 tons to the acre or better, which will mean a gross return to the growers of this valley of at least $1,500,000 for the crop.

Austin says 50 per cent of the acreage is contracted for and already is planted, while 35 per cent will be ready for planting this week. He contrasts Yakima as a beet growing district with Idaho, where a heavy snow stopped the work of preparing the beet fields last week.

He says he is looking for a great increase in beet production in case the Yakima high-line canal is built. The Sunnyside and Toppenish commercial clubs this week are holding campaigns to add still further to the beet acreage in the hope of obtaining the completion of both sugar factories this year.

Milk Plant is Launched.
 Vancouver.—The Ridgefield Milk Products company of Ridgefield, Wn., has filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock is fixed at $3500, with 70 shares. The place of business will be in Ridgefield and the company will make cheese and other milk products.
