PLANTED BY BIRDS

Simple Reason for Uncommon Position of Trees.

Tall Palmyra Palm Growing on Top of Bengal Fig Presents Curious Appearance—Naturalists Explain Apparent Phenomenon.

Every one has heard of small trees getting soon on larger ones, and appearing like little babies on the branches of their hosts. But in India it is, in some parts, fairly common to see the tall Palmyra palm growing as if from the top of the tree called Bengal fig. The appearance this presents is most curious and it has engaged the attention of nearly all travelers in the Thana district of Bombay, where the palm is especially abundant.

If one fancies how incongruous a very tall telegraph pole fixed into the middle of an oak tree and surmounted by a small crown of fan-shaped leaves would look, it can be realized how astonishing the first encounter with the Palmyra palm must be, when similarly united with a fig tree. An explanation, of course, had to be found, and the first casual observers might be divided into those that thought it a case of a hybrid, and the remainder who considered it a graft. But botanists know that no hybrid or graft has ever been produced between two species that are so distantly related as those in question. As a matter of fact, the introduction of these two friends to each other is made by some of the pretty little birds that abound in the region, including a few of the humming birds. Their principal food, George Michael Ryan tells us, consists of the minute fruits of the wild fig trees.

After collecting a few of these, they usually fly off to the top of a tall palm to enjoy them in peace. Some of the seeds fall and become lodged in the joints where the leaves spring from the stem. Here, in process of time, they germinate, throwing out roots below and branches and leaves above. But the roots of these fig trees are not content to draw their moisture and food from the little pocket of sand and dust into which they happen to fall. They soon multiply and spread far beyond their original home, into a thick network that covers and envelops the whole of the lower part of the Palmyra stem. Branches at the same time multiply above, forming a large bush, which, with the roots, monopolizes the situation and makes the palm look like a mere adjunct. But the palm does not mind. All the air it wants is for the leaves above.

The encircling sheath of fig roots, moreover, cause it no inconvenience, because it would not, in any case, increase in girth after it had once risen from the ground. It is, in fact, a case of symbiosis or mutual accommodation between the two species. The palm gives the necessary assistance to the baby fig, and afterward support to its maturing branches, while the foliage which these bear provides welcome shade to the roots of its patron.—Journal of Natural History Society of Bombay.

Film Stars Musn't Osculate.

The police of Japan do not like to see kissing in public and therefore film stars are not permitted to osculate on the screen. In six months up to March 1 the police censors removed 2,350 kisses from films. Only one kiss was allowed to remain. It was a kiss granted to Columbus by Queen Isabella and was shown in Tokyo only, as the censors deleted it before permitting the photoplay "Columbus" to discover the provinces.

Three hundred and fifty-three embraces were omitted from films, states the Far East. The titles of 2,144 photoplays were altered by the censors and 127 murder scenes were killed. Reels entirely prohibited numbered 57. Most films shown in Japan are from America and a large proportion of them originally contain a little kiss or so, showing the difference in standards between east and west.

Trying to Kid Him.

Down at Kelly field an instructor left on a furlough and his cadets were assigned to other "flights" for their flying practice. By mistake one was attached to a "circus" squad.

When his turn came he climbed into the rear pit and the instructor took him up to 6,000 feet, swung the machine into a spiral nose dive, and waved his arms above his head to indicate that the cadet should right the machine.

When the machine had dropped to 2,500 feet, gaining momentum rapidly, the instructor became alarmed and looked back at the cadet, who waved his arms above his head and grinned. The pilot grabbed the controls and made a safe landing.

The cadet explained that this was his first flight, and he thought the instructor was trying to kid him when he waved, so he pretended he wasn't scared.

Mexico to Restore Ruin.

The palace of Cortez, in the suburbs of Coyoacan, is to be reconstructed by the government and used as a museum for relics of the Spanish conquest. The structure, 400 years old, has been allowed to fall into ruins. In the courtyard are ancient trees, under which Hernan Cortez and his familiars were wont to rest. These are hundreds of years older than the ancient building itself. The chapel attached to the palace is still in good condition.

TO CITE EMPLOYERS

Those Who Hire Service Men to Be Recognized.

Special Certificate Will Be Signed by Baker, Daniels and Colonel Wood.

Washington.—Patriotic employers who perform their duty in employing returning soldiers and sailors will receive a citation from the government. Col. Arthur Woods, assistant to Secretary of War Baker, announced.

Colonel Woods said his office has completed arrangements with both the war and navy departments for this recognition of employers who pledge themselves to take back employees who entered the service and to show preference to soldiers and sailors in taking on new employees.

For those who join this new legion of honor a special certificate will be given, signed by Secretary Baker of the war department, Secretary Daniels of the navy department, and by Colonel Woods, representing the war and navy departments. The certificate, which is headed "War and Navy Departments, United States of America," reads:

"This certifies that — has assured the war and navy departments that he will gladly re-employ everybody who formerly worked with him and left to serve in the army or navy during the great war. (Signed) Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War; Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Arthur Woods, Assistant to the Secretary of War."

In addition to the certificate, the council of national defense, consisting of the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy, the secretary of labor, the secretary of the interior, the secretary of commerce and the secretary of agriculture, will authorize the holder to display on his service flag the shield of the United States as a symbol that he has pledged himself to fulfill his obligations.

Certificates can be obtained by applying to Col. Arthur Woods, assistant to the secretary of war, war department, Washington, D. C.

Drilled for Water; Read What He Found

De Pere, Wis.—The discovery came too early for the day of the big thirst, but Jules Dufrene says he expects to enjoy for many a day to come four jugs of 300-year-old cognac.

The jugs bear the seals of Louis XIII, with the fleur de lis, and had been buried by early traders.

Dufrene found the jugs when drilling for a well on the site of an old French trading post.

Daniel is Fireproof.

Bristol, Pa.—Daniel Sweeney, a shipyard employee, is fireproof. Sweeney went to sleep in a bunkhouse with a lighted cigarette in his mouth. A few minutes later some of his companions noticed smoke issuing from his room. Sweeney was found sleeping peacefully with the bedding ablaze and his vest burned off. He did not suffer a burn. He was arrested and held until he could pay for the cost of the bed.
