Westernization of the Japs.

Kioto, Japan, formerly regarded as the sacred city of the Mikado, is being thoroughly westernized, having adopted the overhead trolley and arc and incandescent lighting. The power for the operation of the street railway is supplied by the waters of Lake Biwa, which are utilized through the agency of extensive canals, the plant being one of the largest engineering projects completed by native engineers.

A PHILIPPINE HEROINE.

One of the Philippine insurgents leaders is a beautiful woman whose life seems to be a tragedy. She has often rushed bravely into the very teeth of death from guns and cannon, but has never been wounded. Frequently she is seen in the company of her husband, but the only claim about her is that she keeps up the strength and vitalize their blood with the celebrated remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

The word "hairbreadth," now used for an infinitesimal space, was once a regular measure. It was the width of 16 hairs laid side by side.

Greenwich Time for Frenchmen.

The French clock of depression has finally passed a law that hereafter time shall be computed from the Greenwich meridian. Until this time France has counted time of the Paris meridian, which created great confusion in the railway time tables and connections.

"No, child. I'll do the best I can for you. I'll iron all the buttonholes out of your father's shirts."—Indianapolis Journal.

CONSULTING A WOMAN.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Inspires Confidence and Hope.

Examination by a male physician is a hard trial to a delicately organized woman.

She puts it off as long as she dare, and is only driven to it by fear of cancer, polypus, or some dreadful ailment.

Most frequently such a woman leaves a physician's office where she has undergone a critical examination with an impression, more or less, of discouragement.

This condition of the mind destroys the effect of advice; and she grows worse rather than better.

In consulting Mrs. Pinkham no hesitation need be felt, the story is told to a woman and is wholly confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., she offers sick women her advice without charge.

Her intimate knowledge of women's troubles makes her letter of advice a wellspring of hope, and a wide experience and skill point the way to health.

"I suffered with ovarian trouble for seven years, and no doctor knew what was the matter with me. I had spells which would last for two days or more. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken seven bottles of it, and am entirely cured."—Mrs. John Foreman, 26 N. Woodbury Ave., Baltimore, Md.

WHEN Joe Peterman and Polly May got married, it was a standing jest in Pineville.

Joe and Polly lived on adjoining five-acre lots, with only a fence between them. It was not a very high fence nor a strong one either, for it was almost rotted down in many places.

It was said that years ago Joe and Polly had been sweethearts, but that they had quarreled about some trifling matter, and that they had not spoken to each other since that day.

Joe had just been elected justice of the peace, and was looking around to see where the fees of the office were to come from.

As there was nothing for him to do in the office, he thought that it was his duty to go outside of it and hunt up something. In debating the question with himself as to what would be most likely to bring him in a few, his mind, of course, turned to marriages.

"When Joe Peterman and Polly May got married," he repeated to himself, smiling. "Well, it is a duty I owe to this community to end that quarrel of theirs the first thing, and it is a duty I owe to myself to see that they get married as soon afterward as possible."

Joe took a walk out to Joe Peterman's place, and found the latter at home.

"Joe," he said, after some talk on subjects in general. "Joe, I came out to see you on official business."

Bad Digestion, Bad Heart.

Poor digestion often causes irregularity of the heart's action. This irregularity may be mistaken for real, organic heart disease. The symptoms are much the same. There is, however, a vast difference between the two: organic heart disease is often incurable; apparent heart disease is curable if good digestion be restored.

A case in point is quoted from the New Era, of Greensburg, Ind. Mrs. Ellen Colson, Newport, Ind., a woman 43 years old, had suffered for four years with distressing stomach trouble. The gases generated by the indigestion pressed on the heart, and caused an irregularity of its action. She had much pain in her stomach and heart, and was subject to frequent and severe choking spells which were most severe at night. Doctors were tried in vain; the patient became worse, despondent and feared impending death.

"Say, Polly," he said, taking her unresisting hand, "I have been sorry for everything all these years; won't you say that you forgive me?"

Polly looked up into his face.

"I have been sorry, too, Joe. Oh, so sorry."

Just then Polly's cat, purring softly, rubbed herself against Joe's leg, and at the same moment old Dominick roared lustily on his own side of the fence.

Now, in Pineville, a good many things are dated from the time "when Joe Peterman and Polly May got married."

A Doctor's Bill.

A good true story is told of a San Francisco philanthropist and a doctor with a conscience. A wealthy lady several years ago developed an insignificant wen on her face. In her travels in Europe she consulted an eminent surgeon as to its removal, and was advised not to have it done. An Eastern surgeon of equal eminence also declined to perform the operation.

Returning to San Francisco, she happened to show it to a physician and surgeon of no national reputation—a humble homesteader—but a man whose skill was unquestioned. He examined it carefully, and said there would be no trouble about it; it was a simple operation. Breathing to risk it after such eminent warning, she delayed action, but finally asked another examination and opinion. The same conclusion was reached; and the operation followed, with wholly successful results.

One day, when the doctor called, his bill was asked for. He presented it, fifty dollars being the amount. The lady smiled and said:

"Do you consider that a reasonable charge, considering the circumstances?" to which the doctor replied: "That is my charge for that operation."

"That is my charge for that operation."

"That is my charge for that operation."

SHIP ITS OWN TUGBOAT.

New Propelling Device by Which a Vessel May Tow Itself.

A unique propelling device has just been invented whereby a vessel may in a measure become its own tugboat. It resembles an auxiliary propeller more than anything else, consisting of a cylinder pointed at both ends and carrying within a motor mechanism which receives its power ordinarily from the engine of the vessel to which it is attached.

At one end of the propelling device there is a screw propeller, and to the middle is attached a bar, or tube, connecting the ship and forming a conductor for electricity, steam, compressed air or other motive power. On either side of the tube radial arms extend, connecting with the ship in order to more perfectly secure the auxiliary craft to its greater consort.

The device may be attached to both sides, to either end, or to whatever portion of the ship may seem desirable. Two of them will propel an ocean steamer with sufficient force to give it headway, though very little speed. It is especially designed for the use of vessels which have suffered accident, or whose propelling machinery or engine has broken down.

By the place of the steering apparatus, and seems to be just about what has been needed for some time. Nothing can be more unmanageable than a ship without a rudder, and the inventor says it was really this idea that inspired him to conceive what promises to be a very useful contrivance.

Any vessel can be easily equipped with the new propelling device, and that, too, without complication of any sort. All that is necessary is to supply the avenue for the power to reach the device and to provide for its being secured to the side or end of the ship. When not in use it can be carried on davits, in the same fashion as the ship's boats. Thus when it is needed it may be easily dropped to the necessary point where it is to be fastened and receive its connections as easily and gently as when a boat is lowered in a heavy sea with proper precautions to prevent its being torn in against the side of the vessel.

Ordinarily the device would weigh one ton, and be of twenty-horse power capacity. Its dimensions would be twenty-three inches in diameter by seventy-two inches in length, though the inventor believes that packs and fast steamers would do better if the coil case were made longer so as to slip through the water more easily. This would not interfere with the capacity of the motor.

A Case of Heart Failure.

She was much frightened, but noticed that in intervals in which her stomach did not annoy her, her heart's action became normal. Reasoning correctly that her digestion was at fault she procured the proper medicine to treat that trouble and with immediate good results. Her appetite came back, the choking spells became less frequent and finally ceased. Her weight, which had been greatly reduced was restored and she now weighs more than for years. Her blood soon became pure and her cheeks rosy.

The case is of general interest because the disease is a very common one. That others may know the means of cure we give the name of the medicine used—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves.

How Barnum Won His Wife.

Barnum was Mayor of Bridgeport and a widower. He was handsome and his beautiful home, Walden, on the shore of Long Island Sound, was not much visited except by sightseers. He became interested in the beautiful daughter of John Fish, of Southport, England, a retired manufacturer, and solicited her hand in marriage. Barnum was well advanced in years and knew his fame as the prince of showmen was not sufficient to win the prize. In fact, the fame might hurt his suit rather than help it, for Miss Fish greatly disliked the notoriety attached to the "greatest show on earth" and after she had married its owner, always managed to hold herself aloof from the publicity her husband loved so well.

But the old showman's knowledge of the English love for celebrity led him to play a winning card. He had his photograph taken, with Walden as a background. The picture represented him seated in a showy landau, harnessed to four beautiful black horses, his coachman on the box and two footmen behind. Under the photograph were the words, "Lord Mayor of Bridgeport." A copy of this picture was forwarded to Miss Fish, and Barnum always thought it "did the business." At all events, it was not long before Miss Fish received the picture that she became his wife.

A Hasty Conclusion.

Attorney—"You say you had called to see Miss Billings and was at the house at the time the burglary was committed?"

Witness—"Yes, sir."

"Then how did it happen that when the prisoner dashed into the room and assaulted you, you kept through the window and went home, making no attempt to defend the lady or give the alarm?"

"I thought it was her father."—Life.
