It is not clear that Germany did not indirectly encourage her naval commander at Manila in his attempts to undermine Dewey's prestige, yet it is to be hoped that his action does not receive the approval of his government. For if so, it goes to show that the claim that Germany is jealous of our strength and commercial activity, leads her to wish us bad luck in our efforts to advance civilization and reduce suffering of down-trodden humanity.

The fabled "parity" between wheat and silver has been exploded so often, that it seems love's labor lost to again notice it. But when such papers as the Times-Mountaineer, of The Dalles, still hint that wheat and silver rise and fall together, with rare exceptions, one must even believe that there are some yet who profess to believe in the stock argument of an exploded theory.

A commercial war seems to be imminent between Portland and Astoria. The latter city threatens dire calamity to Portland unless she lets her have more of the trade with the interior. The fight will probably be "a tempest in a teapot," but in any event it will be of interest to us of Eastern Oregon to the extent that it may effect rates and prices on merchandise and produce, if it comes to that kind of competition.

The fortunes of war and the changes of time bring about peculiar circumstances sometimes.
About 36 years ago General Joe Wheeler captured the then Major Shafter and sent him to Libby prison, and now this year of our Lord, 1898, see the same General Joe Wheeler serving in the same army under the same flag and taking orders from Shafter.

Eastern papers, almost regardless of their political affiliations, are rapidly taking hold of the question of what to do with the Philippines, and the great majority are now advocating their retention by the United States. This is gratifying, for it shows that they are awakening to the fact that great opportunity await us there.

If the eastern states were directly interested in the trade present and prospective, with the Philippines, as we of the Pacific coast are, there would be less talk against their acquisition by the United States.

The Pacific Odd Fellow is authority for the statement that Claud Gatch will be a candidate before the next Oregon legislature for the United States Senate.

"GOLD AND PATRIOTISM."

In a recent sermon on "Gold and Patriotism," Rev. W. W. Wilson of Chicago, said:
"A year ago it was the Klondike and gold; now it is Cuba and patriotism. Then we heard much of the mad race for wealth, of man's selfishness, avarice and desire for riches. The dangers of luxury and debauchery were dwelt upon, and the possibilities of national degeneracy and ruin through greed and dishonesty were held up before us.
Our character as a people was being undermined by the desire for gold, which is growing on every hand, and which is emphasized and intensified by the discoveries in Alaska.

"But we see to-day that our people are not so far gone in base desires for gold as we supposed. There is a power greater than gold. It is patriotism. Thousands of men have gone to the Klondike in the search of wealth, but hundreds of thousands have gone forth in the cause of patriotism. Our nation is, after all, a nation of true freemen, and our citizenship is made up of noble-minded and intelligent men, who are devoted to the institutions of liberty in which we believe. The 'almighty dollar' has not yet destroyed and never will destroy the spirit of American patriotism.

"Alaska and the Klondike represent to us the prospects of material gain which influence men, but Cuba and the Philippines represent the principles which move the hearts of brave men to deeds of valor in noble and inspiring causes."

"Soon after the great California gold-fever, our civil war demonstrated that we were not a nation of grasping adventurers, but a band of freemen ready to die in the cause of liberty. Now, immediately upon the heels of the great Klondike excitement come the providential circumstances that appeal to the patriotism and humanity of our people; and they respond with an alacrity and fidelity that overshadow the hunt for gold with a manifestation of universal benevolence.

"Our patriotism is not a patriotism for gold. This is the characteristic of our enemy, which always has been a nation of greed and oppression. But our patriotism is a holy inspiration that leads us to use our resources for the blessing of all mankind.

"We have more fortunate men to honor to-day than those who secure great wealth. The soldiers and sailors of our flag, by their heroism and sacrifice, are winning laurels which money cannot buy, and are making records which outlast the glitter of gold."

The heavy increase in the cost of paper is giving newspaper publishers much concern. No Oregon papers have advanced subscription rates, but several have given warning that they may have to add 25 or 50 cents to the price. At present prices for paper it is difficult to
lar weekly.—Oregonian.

The Leader rises to remark that the subscription price of the leading Sherman county newspaper is yet only $1 and will so remain until due notice is given of an advance.
While the Oregonian is right, still we will trust to a liberal patronage to tide us over for a time, hoping that the cost of paper will be reduced again soon. Better subscribe at once, while you are sure of the dollar rate.

People Who Help The Prayer-Meet- ing.

The busy man who regularly attends it; the people, young and old, who sit in the front seats; the gray-haired old saint, who comes with a smiling face and always has something to say of the love of Christ; the timid people, who can only quote a brief passage of Scripture or utter a brief testimony, but whose lives show that they really love Christ; the young people, who testify promptly, utter short prayers, and sing sweetly; the soul who cannot speak, or pray, or sing, without increasing the spiritual sunshine; the social people who welcome strangers, and who do not hurry away when the meeting is closed.

"I object to that motion!" exclaimed Broncho Bob at a meeting of the City Council in Crimson gulch.

"What motion?" inquired Rat-lesnake Pete, who was in the chair for the first time.

"The one just made by Trepee Tom."

"Well," was the answer, "I didn't see the motion referred to, but the objection is sustained on general principles. In a gathering where there are so many seven-shooters, all in easy reach, gentlemen cannot be too careful about how they make motions."—Washington Star.

Sunday Family Reading.

The next Sunday issue of our paper will consist of the most paper and ink that we have ever put in any one of our copies. Your newsman will take it into your home on a wheelbarrow, charging only the usual price.

It will be especially fitted for Sunday reading, and we recommend that heads of families hide all the books, magazines and other ordinary mediums of mentality, and if possible have inmates attend only one church service during the day, so that they may have ample time to extensively partake of the great intellectual and moral feast which we will spread before them.

One of our very best things will be a word match between those two great exponents of the manly art—Corbett and Fitzsimmons; each will be given full license to say what he thinks about the other, and some elegant language may be expected.
It will aid your children in their own little family fights.

The portrait of a bicyclist's legs will be one of the prominent features of the number. No one can afford to miss a view of this wonderful pair of human motors, with the head and body left off. Five cents.

A man who tries to kiss all the women he meets in the night, and hence is called "Jack the kisser," will be so fully and accurately described that he cannot help being known if met anywhere in the dark.

All the divorce cases that have happened during the week, both in this country and in Europe, will be compiled, with their details. You cannot afford to let your daughters miss it.

One of the wedding-boots of a prominent statesman recently married will be pictured in full, and occupy a good share of one page.
Every one of the six buttons upon the same will be accurately reproduced, and the edges of the soles will be particularly life-like and realistic. A long article will accompany this wonderful creature of art, containing a full description of the leather comprised in these boots, and of the feet which they are to contain. The description of the big-toe nails and of a soft corn between the left little toe and the one contiguous to it will be found peculiarly interesting.

Two thousand six hundred and eighty-seven columns of advertisements will come on the wheelbarrows, along with the rest of things.
These are always very interesting reading—to the business manager.
They will include every department of want, from the innocent voicings of a street flirtation to wines, brandies and other remedies for the nerves. Only a nickel, and no family should be without it.

There will also be long accounts of how we managed to get our lady reporters to visit all sorts of uncanny places—such as burial-grounds, crematory-chambers, diving-bells, insane asylums, prisons, etc.
No crime of any description whatever that has occurred in the whole civilized or uncivilized world but that will be depicted with full details all ready for your family to read. Those of the previous week you will find in last Sunday's issue.
This paper is bitterly opposed to flash novels, and warns fathers against allowing any of them in the house. They cultivate bad tastes in the children, and often produce the committing of crimes, merely by the elaborate way in which they narrate them.

Rosy McShane was a fairly good maid-of-all-work, but, like most of her kind, she was woefully slack in caring for her own room. Her mistress was ill for two or three weeks, and on recovering she went up to Rosy's room, and found it in a state of dirt and disorder beyond description. Very indignant, she called Rosy, and said: "Rosy, I don't see how you can stand it to have your room like this!"

Smiling pleasantly, Rosy made reply: "Ah, thin, ma'am, but I was liver a patient person."—Harper's Bazar.

Going smilingly up to his mother one day, Tommy said:
"Ma, haven't I been a good boy since I began going to Sunday-school?"

"Yes, my lamb," answered the mother, fondly.

"And you trust me now, don't you, ma?"

"Yes, darling."
Then spoke up the little one, innocently:
"What makes you keep the mince-pies locked up in the pantry the same as ever?"
"Er man," said Uncle Eben, "ginirally makes a great mistake when he waits for rise in de makket, 'stid of gettin' up early hiss?"—Washington Star.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Another lot of castings were molded at the foundry yesterday.

The new barber shop and bath rooms for J. C. Williams will soon be completed.

Roberts & Sweeney expect to have their threshing outfit in first-class shape, and will begin to thresh next Monday.

Owing to unavoidable delay in reaching this office, a communication from the wife of Rev. Frank Spaulding relative to a pleasant surprise at the residence of Mrs.
Annie Elliott last week, has to be laid over until next week.

A horrible dust storm, the worst ever experienced in Moro, visited us Monday afternoon, and lasted perhaps an hour. The wind did not blow so very hard, but seemed to lift every particle of light dust up and carry it forward in dense clouds.

D. W. Gibson, advance agent of the Cadet Quartet of Vashon College, Tacoma, Wash., was in town yesterday. The quartet will appear next Monday evening, Aug.
15, at the Presbyterian Church.
See their program in this issue.

Emmett Swann will paint a beautiful drop-curtain for the Moro Opera House. In the center a space 8x14 feet will have a view of Mt. Shasta. Around the margin will be 26 advertisements of local business enterprises, in size from 2x2 to 2x4 ft. each. The draft has been submitted and approved, and the curtain will soon be painted.

JOHN ARCHIEY GINN.
John Archiey Ginn was born in Goodhue county, Minn., May 23, 1868; moved to Oregon with his parents in the fall of 1870; moved to Sherman county, in 1884; died at St. Mary's Hospital Aug. 5, 98, at 11:30 P. M., aged 30 years, 2 months and 14 days; buried at Weston, Oregon, Aug. 7, 1898.
Leaves a father, mother, 3 brothers and 5 sisters. One sister died at Weston, Oregon, in December, 72.
The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Homer Galagher, pastor of the U. B. Church, at Weston. A large number of friends and relatives followed the remains to the grave.

CONCERT.

The Cadet Quartet of Vashon

CLIPPINGS.

"By the way, did old Biggars tell you about my telling him some unpalatable truths?"
"He didn't put it that way. He said you told him things pretty hard to swallow."—Indianapolis Journal.

Papa—"Spring is here, my son.
Have you noticed how everything is coming out of the ground?" Bertie—"Have I? Well, I guess!
This is the first time in a dog's age I've got some decent bait without having to dig like a nigger for it."

"I see that glass bricks are coming into general use," said the popular science boarder.
"They won't invade the gold-brick field," said the cheerful idiot.
"They are too easily seen through."— Indianapolis Journal.

Lawyer—"Where were you when the trains collided?"
Witness—"In the rear car." Lawyer—"Then how could you say that the engineers were at their posts directly after the accident?" Witness—"Didn't the collision telescope the cars? Well, I saw through the telescope."

Father (severely)—"My son, this is a disgraceful state of affairs.
The report says you are the last boy in the class of twenty-two." Henry—"I might have been worse, father."

Father—"I can't see how."
Henry—"There might have been more boys in the class."—Boston Traveler.

When a man begins with, "What I am about to say will be said in kindness," he means to make him- self disagreeable.—Life.

Lady (in railroad train on windy day)—"Dear me! I can't get this window up." Gentleman (behind)—"I would assist you, madam, but I presume the railroad company has glued the windows down to prevent the loss of patrons by pneumonia."— New York Weekly.

They were talking of the civil war the other day, and the older members of the company had complicated reminiscences.
"Which side were you on during the war, Mrs. B?" asked the kit-tenish young girl of the party, turning to a pretty little woman who had been born in '62.

"I was in arms on the Southern side," was the quick reply.
"Say, said the frizzled man who stuck his head through the door, "do you know anything about war?"

"I guess I do," said the editor.
"Well, I want you to tell me how many Spanish flags a feller ort to burn to show his patriotism sufficient to indicate that he's did enough for the cause without goin' to war."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The following is how a writer in the "Clarion" analyzes the music of the bagpipes: "Big flies on window—72 per cent; cats on midnight tiles—114 per cent; voices of infant puppies—6 per cent; grunting of hungry pigs in the morning —54 per cent; steam-whistles—3 per cent; chant of cricket—2 per cent."—Glasgow Evening Times.

"Say, Mame," said Maud, as she placed on the marble slab the glass which had previously contained lemon phosphate, "who's Don Carlos?"

"Why, don't you know? He's the great Spanish pretender."
"But what's a 'pretender'?"
"A 'pretender'? Why a 'pretender' is what people in this country call a 'bluffer'."—Washington Star.

"I have ordered everything," he said, sinking wearily on the sofa.
"Did you see about the stoves?" his wife asked.

"Yes, I bought fourteen of them —a coal-stove and a gas-stove for each room."
"And the coal?"

"Yes; forty tons and eight cords of wood. They will all be delivered at our new place to-morrow." And next day they moved into their Harlem steam-heated flat.— Evening Journal.

Mr. Green—"Now I'm going to tell you something, Ethel. Do you know that last night, at your party, your sister promised to marry me?
I hope you'll forgive me for taking her away!"

Ethel—"Forgive you, Mr. Green!
Why, of course I will. That's what the party was for."—Punch.

If farmers will bring in their
