OREGON.

Oregon has reason to feel proud of her boys in the Philippines. On every side there is nothing but praise to be heard of the soldiers of the Oregon regiment.

IT IS A QUESTION.

It is a question whether the enormous number of emigrants arriving in the country from all parts of the globe will benefit the Inland Empire to the extent that is imagined.

THE FILIPINOS SAY.

The Filipinos say that if Aguinaldo is killed it would make no difference; he is only one man and only acts for a bigger man than he, and if the Americans kill him, another leader will be appointed who will do just as he is doing.

THE PROTEST.

The protest against the multiplication of national holidays is sensible and reasonable. Americans have too much work to do in the world to follow the Latin races in celebrating a holiday upon any and every sort of excuse.

We gather from several sources that sheep and cattle-buyers, who have been over the country, and have offered reasonable prices for stock, have been unable to procure many contracts.

The London Daily Chronicle prints extracts from a letter written by a distinguished British naval officer recently in Philippine waters, who dilates upon the difficulties facing the Americans there.

Some one has dug up a brother of General Miles in Massachusetts who has begun talking about the general as a presidential possibility, saying that the people would like to vote for him.

President Kruger of the Transvaal, has had his own way so many years that he really imagines he can successfully snub Great Britain.

It is well authenticated that the loss of stock on the ranges in Oregon, has been much greater than reported.

Mrs. Reynolds, a spiritualistic medium who could "call spirits from the vasy deep," and make them appear to come to, came to grief some evenings ago in Portland.

Because there is a little disorder here and there in Cuba no reason to suppose that things are not getting better on the island all the time.

The verdict of the Texas coroner's jury which sat on the bodies of three negroes who had been lynched—that they "came to their death from natural causes or were frozen to death"—was doubtless excruciatingly "funny" to those who can appreciate that style of fun.

The whole country rejoices to know that President McKinley returned from his short vacation feeling much improved by the rest.

The price of wheat is being affected already by the anticipated shortage in this year's crop. Reports have been sent in to the large markets of serious losses from winter freezing, and the impression has become general that the visible supply this fall will be much less than it was last fall.

A Tacoma physician in the habit of sleeping with his pistol under his pillow, shot his wife and killed her while asleep Sunday night.

The biggest "trust" in all this country is the newspaper. It trusts almost everybody, and for that reason the people like it.

Col. Watterson displayed his ability to correctly read political signs when he predicted that the democratic party would have a succession of squabbles within its ranks like the one now raging.

Surely the Eagle may be excused for an extra scream or two when an English railroad places an order for twenty American locomotives, as the Great Northern did the other day.

The Philippine campaign seems to be largely a sprinting match. The cable informed us several days ago that Gen. Wheaton's brigade chased the Filipinos fifteen miles.

CITY ELECTION!

Non-Partisan Ticket Elected Without Opposition.

The first election held in the city of Moro under the new charter, passed off quietly on Monday. Not a ripple of excitement was apparent to disturb the tranquil condition of the municipal atmosphere.

Mrs. G.—Why, you screamed the minute the dentist touched your tooth. I thought you said you had so much nerve." Mr. G.—"I did, hang it, that's what hurt."

A little Miss in one of our eastern schools says the United States is bounded on the east by the Atlantic ocean and on the west by Admiral Dewey.

Bill—Are you superstitious about opals? Nell—Well, I think it's unlucky to refuse them.—Philadelphia Record.

"What is raised mostly in damp climates?" asked the teacher. "Umbrellas," replied Johnny.

Memory and Childhood. (By Bathsheba Eastbrooks-Hummel.) Fond memory clings to childhood's days, And fingers o'er the past; Oh would that all those halcyon dreams Were not too bright to last.

I would recall those sunny hours, So fraught with life and glee, But those bright scenes and lovely flowers They cannot return to me.

Fond memory oft reverts to some Whose happiness I shared, And yet I cannot think them gone, Tho' I may yet be spared.

I see them in my dreams by night, And hear their voices clear; They sickly vanish from my sight; Oh why should I rejoice?

The brooklet and the sunny vale, So dear to me in youth, Are cherished yet in fondest dreams; With beauty, love and truth.

The mountain and the sunny vale, The hillside and the plain, Are cherished yet in fondest dreams; Would I were there again.

[The above lines, written by the lately deceased authoress, were read at her 87th birthday party.]

Sudden Death. The press dispatches announce the sudden death of A. J. Boyakin at Boise City, Idaho, March 29th. Deceased was a well-known printer, and a very bright man.

Lover (passionately)—My sweet, my darling, I love you with all my heart; be mine." Fair maiden—"Oh, this is so sudden; I must have time."

Lover—"No, no. I must have my answer now, for I have my eye on another girl."

"Has your husband recovered from his army experience?" "Oh, quite. He finds fault with the victuals every day now."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"What's a dog pound, papa?" "Sixteen ounces. Now keep still."

The recruiting sergeant (to promising recruit)—"Why don't ye join? It's a fine profession, and promotion for all that asks for it. Why, Lord Kitchener was only your age once, and look what he is now."
