Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advertised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts, guaranteed, at A. D. Bolton & Co's Drug Store.

M. E. CHURCH DEDICATED.

Interesting Service--$1046 Raised by Public Subscription--Eloquent Sermon by Dr. Thoburn.

Moro was en fete spiritually as well as temporally last Sunday. The new M. E. Church was formally dedicated and its doors opened for the first time for the worship of God. An unusually large and representative congregation assembled from all parts of the county to witness the interesting ceremony and to hear the gifted Chancellor of the consolidated university of Portland, Dr. Thoburn. It was an occasion long to be remembered by those who were so fortunate as to be present. The seating capacity of the new edifice was taxed to the utmost, but polite ushers scattered through the building prevented unnecessary confusion, and most successfully seated the great multitude of people that surged in at the doors and thronged the aisles.

The interior of the building presented a most pleasing aspect. Its delicately colored windows chastened everything to the eye and cast a "dim, religious light" upon the scene that was in harmony with the thought and feeling of all who participated in the solemn service. Surroundings such as these might well suggest,

"The studious cloysters pale,
"The high embowed roof
"With antick pillars massive proof."

The arch above the chancel was handsomely draped with "Old Glory," and along the rail in front of the altar were geraniums, hot house plants and other floral decorations. Back of the lectern, which is a handsome piece of church furniture, sat Chancellor Thoburn, supported on the right and left by Presiding Elder Warner, and Revs. Nickelsen, Ellery, (Wasco), and Johns, (Spaulding Chapel). To the left of the clergy was the choir, consisting of Mesdames Spear and Lida Belchee, (sopranos), and Mrs. J. O. Elrod and Dr. Olive Hartley, (altos), Messrs. Peery and DeMoss, (bass), and Messrs. Frost and Foss, (tenors.) Mrs. Ina D. DeMoss presided with ability at the organ.

The services opened with hymn and prayer, followed by the reading of the lessons of the day. Then the anthem, "Great is the Lord," was rendered by the choir in a most acceptable manner.

Dr. Thoburn took for his text the 8th verse of the 13th chapter of Hebrews, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and to-day and forever."

His sermon was an eloquent message, helpful, inspiring, uplifting. As a whole, it was a grand, a noble effort. As he described the Christ of long ago and of the present day, always tender, always loving, always thoughtful, always considerate, his word-pictures thrilled and melted his hearers by turns.

Especially grand was his illustration of loyalty as he told of the American man-of-war sailing into a foreign harbor, with the stars and stripes flying at its masthead, and he, (the speaker) waiting on the pier, anxiously scanning the horizon for a sight of that which his eyes had not feasted on for many years—the flag of his native land. The picture was vividly presented in living words that breathed forth patriotism, deep, pure and true; and when the artist had finished, many an eye was dimmed with the unbidden tear, and many an honest heart beat faster for the dear old flag that nestled just above the speaker's head. It is but repeating the universal opinion of all who heard Dr. Thoburn's sermon, when we say that it was an intellectual treat, a feast to the soul: and when the last cadences of his well modulated voice died away, and the sermon was concluded, one felt as though it were like the "ceasing of exquisite music."

The task of raising $900 to make up a deficit in the church building fund, was then undertaken, but with comparatively little effort the sum of $1046 was subscribed by those present. From a statement made by the pastor, we learn that the total cost of the building, including the acetylene gas plant, heating furnace, etc., amounted to $2225., a very modest sum, considering the size, comfort and beauty of the sacred structure. We quite agree with Dr. Thoburn in the remark he made last Sunday—"That this is one of the handsomest churches he ever dedicated."

After the required amount was raised, the trustees and building committee, consisting of R. J. Ginn, J. M. Parry, S. S. Hayes, W. H. Moore, W. V. Johnson, R. E. Hoskinson and Rev. C. D. Nickelsen, were requested to come forward, and the impressive dedicatory ceremony was solemnized.

In the afternoon a basket dinner was served at the opera house, where the wants of the inner man were catered for most satisfactorily.

Chancellor Thoburn preached again in the evening, taking for his text the 17th verse of the 2d chapter of John: "And the world passsth away, and the lust thereof, but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." His discourse was an able one, and a large congregation listened to it with rapt attention.

We have heretofore alluded in these columns to the unremitting labors of Rev. C. D. Nickelsen, the pastor of the M. E. Church in Moro, to whose energy and perseverance, ably seconded by members of his congregation, this community is indebted for one of the handsomest churches in the state.

NOTICE

MORO, Or, April 24, 1899.

To Whom it May Concern:

Notice is hereby given that I will be compelled to start out and levy on property for delinquent taxes, on the 4th day of May, 1899. All persons wishing to avoid costs, will please govern themselves accordingly, as I can wait no longer, as the delinquent list is very large, and it will take all the time from that date, for me to do my work and get my returns into the county court.
