OREGON STATE NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

The grasshopper plague in Lake and Klamath counties and northern California is becoming worse, settlers have advised the government. Funds for poisoning will be exhausted in a few days. Inquiry at all departments reveals that not a dollar is available to fight the grasshoppers, but funds are on hand to tell settlers how to fight the pest.

J. J. Dann, contractor, who is grading 4 1/2 miles of the Oregon Coast highway between Gardiner and Lake Takanich, is working his crew, Sundays in order to complete the work by July 1. It is expected the 4 1/2 miles will be graded during the present summer, thus opening the highway along the coast between Gardiner and Florence for winter travel.

A wage scale for haying and harvesting has been adopted by growers of Wasco, Sherman and Gilliam counties. The scale represents the lowest amounts to be paid for years and is based on the low price of wheat. For haying the scale is $1.25 per day; for harvesting combine rigs—sack rigs $2, header tenders $2, sack sewers $2, combine driver $2.50, straw haulers $1, sack backs 75 cents per hundred.

The board of education of Albany will submit to taxpayers, June 30, the question of a $100,000 bond issue for constructing new Madison and Maple grade school buildings and purchasing the Albany college property, at 9th and Ellsworth streets.

Jesse Worthington of the Balmey Breezes Gap fruit and berry ranch, located in the Zena red hills, finished harvesting his gooseberry crop recently, getting 11 tons from six acres. Fourteen pickers were employed. Mr. Worthington experienced no trouble with mildew as in former years.

At the city election at Baker next month a proposal will be submitted that the city turn over the municipal natatorium, camp grounds, ball park and athletic field to the school district and that a levy of $6000 be made for the purpose of remodeling the natatorium building into a school gymnasium.

Fire thought to be incendiary destroyed two large barns at the state hospital farms, four and a half miles east of Salem, recently. The loss of the structures and contents is estimated at $40,000. More than 100 head of cattle had been turned out only a short time before the flames broke out.

Fire destroyed a garage and seven automobiles four miles from Powers. The loss was $6000.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kugelmann of the Sunnyside district, near Oregon City, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently.

Loss of between $10,000 and $15,000 is reported by the owners of the Creswell Lumber company mill which was destroyed by fire recently.

Thursday was not exactly a "red letter day" in the Monroe Union high school, but 26 pupils came down with measles that day, while at school.

Paving Pacific avenue, Glendale's main business street, will be done this summer if the city council can make the $1500 available delay the cost.

The movement of certified seed potatoes out of the Weston district is practically over, according to Walter A. Holt, Umatilla county agriculturist. Deputy Game Warden Stellmacher of Linn county is offering an $18 sub-ing rod and reel to the boy or girl under 18 years who catches the largest bass before July 1.

Manufacture of cut lumber, called four-square lumber, started at the Klamath Falls Weyerhaeuser plant recently with installation of new equipment and machinery.

Deposits of the North Plains Commercial bank have been taken over by the Commercial National bank of Hillsboro, State Bank Superintendent A. A. Schramm announced.

Hall as large as hickory nuts fell at Ashland one day last week, with a downpour of rain following. Reports were that the hall had not damaged pears, cherries or other fruit.

The most effective control found so far for the split beetle is an application of nicotine dust, as shown by experiments that have been carried on near Woodburn. Dehydrated lime dust is fairly effective, also.

Berke brothers, contractors of Portland, have a large crew of men at work clearing the right of way of the Roosevelt highway from Otis to the Siletts river in preparation for regrading and widening of the road.

The San Diego Fruit & Produce company has tractors turning over 300 acres of rich all bottom land in the angle between Catching inlet and Coos river, near Marshfield, where it will plant the entire area to peas.

Through the co-operation of the county, residents of Joseph and owners of property at the head of Wallowa lake, the road around the lake has been graded and smoothed until it is almost equal to a state highway.

A system whereby Roseburg laborers and craftsmen will be given preference in construction work is to be started in Douglas county soon. It is expected that the next few months will see a great deal of work stated.

Klamath county's thousands of dairy cows are free of tuberculosis, not one reactor to the tests being found the last two years. It was reported by the county agent. Only one reactor was found among beef cattle tested last year.

The date for the annual salmon bake sponsored by the Douglas County Sportsmen's and Game Protective association has been set for June 7. This is one of the biggest events among sportsmen's clubs in southern Oregon.

A considerably increased crop of tomatoes over that of last year in the Milton-Freewater district is forecast. Although the acreage in tomatoes has not been greatly increased, the excellent start the plants have had indicate a much greater crop tonnage.

The acreage of peas in western Oregon is estimated at 1200 to 1300 acres for fresh shipment, about double the area producing last year. Weather conditions so far have been favorable for the crop. In some sections the pods are already well formed, but there will be no heavy production until early in June.

announced tentative plans for the third annual meeting of the pioneers' association to be held in conjunction with the July 4 celebration to be held in Baker. A banquet lunch will be served in the city park, to be followed by an elaborate program.

Summer fallow wheat land planted to peas this year has brought the total acreage in the higher district about Weston and Athena up to 2000, a considerable increase over the acreage of last year. The legumes are reported for the most part as doing well, although faulty inoculation of the soil has held back some plots.

Asparagus acreage of the Hood River, Mosier, Bingen and The Dalles district will bring growers nearly $100,000 net this year, predicts the manager of the Stadelman Fruit company of The Dalles. The total output of the district will be in the neighborhood of 40 cars, part of which will be shipped to eastern markets.

Planting of Klamath's greatest crop of potatoes is well under way and the bulk of the crop will be in the ground by the end of this week. Some growers started seeding May 1. The increase estimated this year will exceed 30 per cent. Last year's acreage was about 7000, and this year there will be about 9000 acres in potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nornach of Redmond are owners of the registered Holstein herd which topped the Central Oregon Herd Improvement association for the year just closed, the average butterfat production for the herd being 426.4 pounds for 13 cows. The Nornach average was increased 78.4 pounds per cow over the previous year.

Unusual numbers of tent caterpillar eggs have been reported from different sections of Benton county to County Agent C. R. Biggs, indicating severe attacks on fruit trees later on. Many orchard owners report that egg deposits are thick in their orchards. A limb was brought to the county agent's office completely covered with egg deposits for at least three feet of its length.

A total of 70,632 acres in the Modoc national forest has been designated by the federal government as a primitive area. This tract adjoins the Oregon state line just east of New Pine creek. The southern edge is traversed by the old immigration road, which the Applegate blazed from Fort Hall to the Rogue River valley in the '40s. The reserved area includes many glacial lakes and several mountain peaks.

Thirty cents an hour, with an allowance of 35 cents a meal where men board themselves, is the wage for common labor while fighting fires, as fixed by the various forest protection agencies of the state at a meeting held recently in the offices of the state forester in Salem. Those who have adopted this wage scale in Oregon include the state board of forestry, United States forest patrol and all the patrol associations.

The highest award in scoutdom for girls, golden eagle pins, will be presented Margaret Hunt, Betty Tessen and Katherine Leuk, Girl Scouts of Nyssa, by the national organization. The girls completed the Girl Scout program 100 per cent.

Irrigation is in full swing in the Hood River valley. The six irrigation systems of the valley, all owned by the farmers, valued at over $2,000,000, are daily pouring approximately 12,000 miner's inches of water over the orchard and berry tracts.
