Famous Eastern Stables To Exhibit

Miss Marion Thompson, daughter of Mrs. A. C. Thompson, Chicago, famous eastern exhibitor, posed with Adolph Spreckle's jumper "Walt and See", entered in 1931 Pacific International Horse Show.

Show Matinees this year are scheduled for Sunday, October 25, and Saturday, October 31, according to A. P. Fleming, Horse Show Manager. The performances to be given on the remaining afternoons will present the famous James McCleave high jumping horses and comedy jumping ponies.
Competing for a share in the $25,000 Horse Show awards will be entries from the stables of Mrs. A. C. Thompson, Chicago — saddle horses and hunters; W. D. Alexander, Bloomington, Ill. — saddle horses; Reginald Duglass — harness horses and hunters; R. L. Davis, Beverly Hills; and from the stables of Bridgford Bros., D. G. Welby and John Hubby — all of whom have shown many times in Portland.
A prime collection of America's finest and best is promised in all divisions of the Livestock Show, including Beef and Dairy Cattle, heavy Draft Horses, Sheep, Hogs, Goats, Poultry and Rabbits. Premiums totaling $100,000 are offered. Other features include Dairy and Land Products Shows; Wool and Mohair Show; Industrial Exposition; Boys' and Girls' Club Work Exhibits; fascinating Wild Life Exhibit by Oregon Fish and Game Commission; interesting and educational "Truth-in-Meat" Exhibit.
Leading transportation lines throughout this territory have announced reduced round-trip fares to the Exposition October 24-31.

The Homeowners' agency at Silver-ton has decided to hold a "large pumpkin and squash" contest in connection with the forthcoming corn and poultry show, which the Silver-ton chamber of commerce is sponsoring there November 29 and 30.

The new Holgate bridge over the Willamette river on the Willamette highway, near Westfir, is now being used for traffic, but it will not be completed for some time yet. Plans are being made for its dedication, but no date has been set.

Steam shovel crews, while working on the road over Cummings ridge, south of Yachats, uncovered a cave 75 feet underground and of unascertained depth. Walls could be seen about 500 feet from the opening. Preparations are being made to explore it.

A dahlia more than ten feet in height and growing in tree form is attracting much attention in the garden of Mrs. Margaret Wagner of McMinnville. The flower is about six inches in diameter, and is yellow with a slight pinkish tinge. It is almost six feet through the foliage.

Reports on the weed known as "strawberry blite," which is being put up extensively in Goose Lake valley, have so far proved very satisfactory to stockmen. Fourteen pounds was the gain made in 29 days by a Short-horn heifer and a steer that have been on a straight feed of the weed.

The Oregon Caves enjoyed its best season in 1931. More than 28,000 persons made the trip through the caverns this season, which is 2000 more than in any previous year, according to George C. Sabin, manager of the resort. This total does not include many visitors to the lodge who did not make the trip through the caverns.

Work has been started on the construction of the new exhibit hall for the annual northwest turkey show which will be held at Oakland December 17 to 19. The rapid growth of the show to the position of second largest in the country has made it necessary to secure more commodious and suitable quarters than have been used previously.

Stayton can well be listed as one of the leading centers of the woolen industry in the Willamette valley. For a number of years it has been prominent as a manufacturing town. The woolen mills, which have been closed down for the past three years, were recently sold, and are soon to begin operation under the name Stayton Woolen mills.

The mystery of the spotted leaf disease which has been damaging orchards of the Talent and Sams valley districts near Medford for several years, has been solved by Professor F. C. Roemer of the southern Oregon experiment station. It is caused by using water for spraying that contains alkali. The alkali causes the arsenic to separate from the lead in the spray and acid or burn the leaves. The disease has caused undernourishment of the fruit and resultant small sizes in that section.

The catch of chinook salmon in the Columbia river this season was more than 25 per cent in excess of the catch for the previous summer season. During the 1931 season almost 11,000,000 pounds were taken and delivered to Oregon dealers, as compared with 8,753,000 pounds the previous year.

The federal farm board will again assist in financing the turkey shipments of the western states, according to an announcement of J. C. Leedy, representative of the Oregon Turkey Growers. The Northwestern association is making application this year for $250,000 to handle its greatly increased business.

J. P. Lane, on an irrigated piece of ground of about 20 square rods, has produced 9504 pounds of Connecticut field stock pumpkins this year, 16 of which, weighing 947 pounds, he has saved for seed. Forty-eight of them weighed a ton. He has an overhead system of irrigation, and prepared his soil by plowing under a 2 1/2-foot stand

A. A. Shramm, state superintendent of banks, announced the First Inland National Bank of Pendleton has effected a merger with Inland Empire bank and the First National bank, both of Pendleton.
Three plants in Elgin are now packing the finest crop of apples the valley has seen for years. Warm days and cold nights have brought the delicious crop to perfection. A few cars have been shipped.
Approximately 3000 checks, aggregating $45,000 of federal funds, will be distributed among Oregon national guardsmen during the next ten days, it was announced at the offices of Major-General White.
Though it is October instead of March, thousands of baby chicks are still being shipped to growers from Corvallis because of an unusual condition in the poultry market, reports Russell's Poultry yard.
Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Townsend of Sheridan celebrated the 58th anniversary of their marriage at their home last week. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend were married in Mooresville, Ind., and moved to Portland in 1884.
Burns resulting from the explosion of a pan of gasoline at her home near Monroe caused the death in a hospital at Corvallis of Mrs. Joseph Kientz, 53. She was heating the gasoline in preparation for cleaning clothing.
Minimum city water rates for the first 300 cubic feet of water used per month have been raised at Grants Pass from 40 cents to 60 cents per hundred. The summer sprinkling rate period has been reduced from six to five months.
Sixty thousand dollars worth of onions from one 120-acre tract on the new Bully creek bench lands of the Vale project are being shipped from the Vale station of the Oregon Short Line to markets in all parts of the country.
Pooling their flocks to make a total of close to 5000 turkeys for the markets of the current season, 20 turkey growers of the Nyssa country organized a co-operative unit recently by known as the Nyssa Turkey Growers' association.

of wheat and vetch for soil enrichment.
Minimum wage scales on the new $265,000 Jackson county courthouse have been fixed by the county court and advisory committee. They are: Common labor, 40 cents an hour; skilled labor, 62 1/2 cents an hour; brick masons, $1 an hour. Contracts for construction will specify that Jackson county labor must be employed with preference given men with families, and taxpayers.
By a vote of 1252 to 414 The Dalles last week authorized the issuance of a $650,000 bond issue for the construction of a toll bridge across the Columbia river there. The bridge will connect The Dalles-California highway with the new Satus Pass road to Yakima, and will be the connecting link in a new trans-continental highway extending from the Canadian to the Mexican borders.
Four flour mills of Union county have a steady run before them. In addition to the normal demand for flour, which generally is insufficient to keep mills running at capacity, there was an allotment of Chinese flour production. As a result, numerous families that were uncertain of paychecks, now can face the winter knowing the Saturday night ghost will walk with regularity.
A left-handed sickle for reaping grain, belonging to a great-grandfather of G. W. Star, who lives on a ranch about four miles below Coquille, is estimated at being 150 years old. The grandfather, Zachariah Albaugh, was an associate of Lewis Wetzel and Daniel Boone in Kentucky in the pioneer days. The sickle is a beautiful hand-made tool, with a blade 23 inches long and about one-half inch wide.
Oregon eggs suffer by comparison with those of other states, Max Gehbar, state director of agriculture, declared. "This state produces only 23 per cent marketable eggs, Utah for instance, with natural conditions not so favorable, has 50 per cent marketable eggs," he commented. "Oregon's poor showing lies in improper handling, which makes it necessary to sell 77 per cent of the output outside the state."
Net receipts of $3,131,542.65, representing moneys received from motor vehicle licenses and motor vehicle operator registrations during the period July 1 to September 30 of this year, were apportioned by Hal E. Hoas, secretary of state, among the various counties and state highway department. Total cash turned over to the treasurer during the three month period was $3,450,215.37. Refunds aggregated $574,297, leaving gross receipts of $3,444,472.30.
For the second time in two years LaGrande and Union county will place its antiques and historical keepsakes on show. The LaGrande Neighborhood club originated the idea successfully last year and is conducting a similar display for October 31 this year. Heirlooms, historical things, odds and ends found in Union county in early days and hundreds of articles now relegated to the closet shelves as antiquated will be brought to light, dusted off and placed on display.

For the past two years Oregon has had the lowest birth rate of all states in the union. While it does not indicate race suicide, statistics of the department of public health reveal that there are fewer babies born per population on the Pacific coast, and especially in the cities of the Pacific coast. Government figures just released show that the birth rate for Oregon for 1930 was 14.1, this being the lowest for any state in the country. In 1929 Oregon was also at the bottom of the list.

Considering the business depression, Bandon has had more than normal activity in cedar this year, one operator estimating that altogether some 5,000,000 feet went through Bandon.

Game deputies said hundreds of thousands of small trout, as well as some larger ones, are dying in pools along the Sixes river in Curry county, where the water holes are drying up.
