WALTER A. MAY & SON

The farm hand took his girl for a buggy ride. Nine miles out in the country the horse dropped dead. Louis said she knew she'd drop dead too; it was a terrible predicament. "Suppose I give you a nice sweet kiss that will put lots of life in you." "Are you sure that a kiss will put lots of life in me?" "Positively, darling." "Then suppose you kiss the horse."

I've just given my wife a sable coat. To keep her warm? No, to keep her quiet.

For those who wish to keep informed about county matters the Sherman County Journal is indispensable.

TEN RULES FOR SUCCESS

1. Cultivate the habit of persistence which is the most necessary element to success.
2. Make-up your mind to do the things you dream of doing.
3. Plan the first step to be taken. And begin.
4. Perform one hard task each day.
5. Believe in yourself, believe in the thing you mean to do, and be proud of it.
6. Do not be turned from your purpose by your failures nor expect too much at first. Achievement is not a swift ride in an elevator; it's a hot, hard climb up a long, steep hill.
7. School yourself to disregard discouragements and opposition, and to get along, if need be, without praise or approval.
8. Do not interfere with others, nor try to direct their lives. You'll find it all you can do to make a success of your own.
9. Cut the ill humors from your disposition, and disabuse your mind of the thought that you are being slighted or overlooked.
10. Finally, be of cheerful countenance. More battles have been lost by frowns—more successes are won by a narrow margin of a smile—than this old world dreams of.

It would make anybody's hair stand on end to see this line of redskins calmly "scalping" their helpless victims—unless he was told that the future barbers are merely getting instruction in the tonsorial art from Uncle Sam. The school, where the Indian boys are learning to wield a comb, shears, and razor instead of scalping knife and tomahawk, was opened recently and is appropriately located in Chemawa, Ore., where the Chemawa Indian school, second largest in the United States, is also situated.
