NO DICTATOR.

Everyone knows why we have laws. They are made by the elected representatives of the people and are, in theory at least, the wish of the people. To insure the enforcement of these laws we elect executives to administer the laws and every elected executive takes his oath to support the regularly enacted laws.

That's all very simple and easy. In this state we have a situation wherein the law makes it impossible to sell automobile licenses on the installment basis. We have an elected representative, sworn to uphold and defend the laws, who insists that he will do it anyway.

Under the prevailing economic circumstances it might be advisable to have some leniency shown to those who need their cars to carry on their business. There need be no leniency shown to those who wish their cars in order to travel for pleasure.

Any powers taken by an executive that are not given him by the laws are dictatorial powers and are opposed to the democratic form of government we have established. It is doubtful if we have reached the condition in this state that makes dictatorship necessary. Certainly Governor Meier will be fulfilling his oath of office in better manner if he follows the laws instead of boasting—as he was reported to have said—that HIS state police would recognize the license stickers he provided.

A GOOD IDEA.

The granges of this county are to be congratulated on their action in sending a committee to the county court to enquire about the practices that are followed in road repair and construction in the county.

Of course the records of the county are available for anyone at the court house, but it is not to be expected that individual farmers will have the time to personally investigate these matters. By the appointment of a committee who can meet with the court, ask questions and receive explanations the grangers at their next meeting will be directly informed of the public's business.

It is a method that might easily and profitably be extended. Any system of government to be most effective should be fully understood by those governed and this may result in a series of conferences wherein the court is informed as to the wishes of the people and the people are informed as to the actions of the court.

Accurate information is necessary before anyone can determine the proper course of action and there is no better place to get it than at its source.

BED TIME STORY.

If theft of the petitions for the consolidation of the two schools was really a theft it is certainly of more value to the Zorn-McPherson faction than to the people who are opposing the bill. Something about it smacks of a put up job, however.

Did they ever have 20,000 signatures? It may be a part of an attempt to bring to the light those who are paying money for the purpose of putting the schools together. Something about the mess smells strongly of fish.

It may aid in describing the forgotten man to know who has forgotten him anyway. It hasn't been the politicians, intentionally at least.

What a relief it will be when Aimee and her ma get their marital troubles adjusted. "I've regusted!"

Government is becoming a luxury, for it is only luxuries that can increase in price in hard times.

They are making furniture out of beer barrels. If the wets have their way we can make the furniture into beer barrels next year.

A man in Los Angeles was killed because of a quarrel that started while washing dishes. The moral is obvious for all husbands.

Anyway the Hoss has plenty of legs to stand on and also insists on using his own for that purpose.

The great question of what the harvest will be is almost ready for final settlement with some machines starting next week.

If you get a friendly letter now it'll mean something.

Art Babby was over to the celebration from Heppner. Velma did not accompany him as she is not in the best of health.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dolan visited here over the holiday coming from Portland. Mrs. Dolan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wassensmiller.

Mrs. Wilt entertained at bridge last Wednesday afternoon at her home in town.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schwartz came up from The Dalles to meet their friends and take in the celebration.

M. J. Murphy and wife, who formerly lived here when Mr. Murphy was engineer on the railroad spent the Fourth here.

Boyd Homewood visited his mother, Mrs. L. E. French, over the week end and remained to see the celebration of the patron's birth. He lives in The Dalles.

E. J. Baker and family drove to Portland Sunday returning Tuesday as a holiday trip.

Carl Hendrichs and family of Fossil spent the Fourth in Grass Valley. Mr. Hendrich is an attorney in his home town where he and his father have been in business for many years. He is a candidate for the circuit judgeship of this district.

Mrs. Matt Simon and daughters left for Portland Saturday expecting to remain there with Mrs. Simon's mother, Mrs. B. P. Stranga for several weeks.

Con Buckley was here for the celebration from his home in The Dalles.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Perrault, who homesteaded some land now farmed by John Engstrom, spent the Fourth of July here, coming from The Dalles.

Antelope residents who drove down to engage in the holiday festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hill, Dolph Kinsey, E. Troth and Bud Malone.

Don't forget the school meeting next Monday at the school house for election of a clerk and a director.

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Poley drove to Portland and the coast last week and Mrs. Poley and Rachel remained there. They will stay for some time in account of Rachel's health.

Jim Woods is here again for the beginning of harvest.

Miss Marietta Perry is home again after a visit with relatives near Cornelius.

The May house north of town has been full for the last few days as relatives from distant parts of the state drop in to visit with Captain Everett May and family.

Wives And Mothers

Control Health

Many wives and mothers do not realize to what a great extent they have in their power to control the health and therefore the success, happiness and longevity of their husbands and children. Good health is the principle source of physical energy, and the mind and body are so interdependent, the one upon the other, that our mental energy also depends greatly upon the state of our health.

People who are full of vitality are usually cheerful and happy. Happiness, in turn, is an aid to health. Moreover, since good health increases our physical and mental energies, one of the best ways of preparing ourselves for success is to keep our bodies fit at all times.

Many men, women and children are lacking in cheerfulness or are sluggish, languid, irritable, or depressed, simply because they are ill, or, at least, are not in good physical condition. Restore them to perfect health, their spirits rise and they display more energy and interest in their work and in life in general. The husband's energy and fitness for efficient work, the children's ability to attend school regularly and do well at their studies are at stake. Many a child, considered dull in school and at home, has really been (physical) incapacitated by malnutrition or by some undiagnosed physical impairment.

With an elementary knowledge of hygiene, wives and mothers can regulate the home life along lines that will help greatly to establish right habits in living and thus improve the health of the family and prevent accidents and much illness. They should know something about foods and their values and the advantages of sun light, fresh air, ventilation, proper clothing, cleanliness, exercise, sleep and rest.

Prevention of disease depends largely on properly applied knowledge of these factors.

If by attention to the simple rules of right living she can train her charges, husband and children, to keep up the mark physically, the wife, or mother, will find for herself, rest, peace of mind and happiness that will amply compensate her for the effort she has made.

Dame Fashion Says

White With Colors

Summer is here, and with it comes thoughts of bright, colorful things. Our thoughts turn first of course, to white—white with bright colors for sashes, collars and capes, in stripes, dots or solid, but what ever we choose as a trimming must be gay.

Tri-colored combinations are "the thing" this summer: with red, white and blue probably the most popular. In one instance, we find an outfit consisting of a white military cape and a white skirt with a tuck-in blouse of red and white polka dots. The cape is reversible, with a lining of red and white polka dots, permitting it to be worn on either side. For our accessories to this outfit we look for a natty "tipped-over-the-right-eye" blue hat of straw, long blue gloves, white handbag which may be of wooden beads, and a wide white sports bracelet.

One may also pick an all-white dress (as all white is extremely smart this season) and depend upon the accessories to lend the necessary "dash." The hat, of course would be of some bright color, but whatever the color it must not be left to the hat alone, but carried out some where else in the outfit, possibly in the gloves, the bag, or even just in a bracelet, so that the colors are balanced and the hat is not, figuratively speaking "floating off by itself."

Beetroot red, worn with white, is most attractive and is winning much favor. We have the promise that this shade will linger long into the fall. This color in a swaggar coat over a white dress is very good.

Wool now holds away in the hot summer months—although it was at one time only a cold weather fabric—because of its zephyr-like weight, its coolness and comfort. In sportswear it is ideal; thin and lightly woven, just the thing for tennis or golf and afterwards dancing at the club-house, if such is the next on the program. When outdoors, under the blazing sun, it is natural to become over heated and perspire, how gratifying to know that our woolen dress will rid us of the unpleasant feeling of an over-heated body by absorbing any moisture that may result from our activities, and keep us cool and comfortable. Wool, being absorbent, prevents that damp, clammy feeling.

The white flannel skirt is in for new recognition this season, worn in one instance with a white sweater of lacy knit. The neck line and arm holes are finished with a rope edge of green and white. With a bright flannel jacket, this skirt is always chic.—By Grace E. Anderson, Stylists' Division.

A state health officer relates the story of a farmer who was delivering vegetables to a public sanitarium. A patient saluted him.

"You're a farmer, ain't yuh?" The farmer allowed that he was. "I used to be a farmer once," said the guest of the State.

"Did yuh?"

"Yes, say, stranger, did yuh ever try bein' crazy?"

The farmer never had, and started to move on.

"Well, yuh oughta try it," was the ex-farmer's parting shot, "It beats farmin' all hollow."

CASH IS ECONOMY

To Our Customers:

These days every one is looking for cheaper prices on the things they have to buy. In order to meet this demand we have decided to change our method of doing business.

Hereafter, beginning next Monday, July 11th, we will sell goods for cash. This will save us bookkeeping costs, any credit losses we might incur and postage costs, thus enabling us to make lower prices because our overhead will be less.

For several years terms made to us have been growing increasingly strict until now we are forced to pay for goods on a basis that is almost the same as cash.

We believe that our customers will agree with us that the cash way is the economical way and will appreciate our efforts to sell goods at the lowest price in the most economical way.

We appreciate your business and will be pleased to serve you in the future.
