Light and Ventilation Important in Home

In selecting the home, to buy or rent, nothing is more important than to find a house or apartment, that receives good sunlight. It should not be dark, gloomy or damp. Overcrowding, especially in sleeping quarters, tends to increase contagious diseases. Adequate ventilation is necessary, especially at night. Opening the window from the top and another at the bottom, even in the adjoining room, may give enough ventilation if the intervening door is left open; but drafts should be avoided.

During warm weather it is a good idea to leave all doors open at night. An inside catch lock or chain fastened to entrance doors will make it possible to leave these doors partly open with safety. Another good idea would be to open the sky lights, the chimney valves and the doors of all stoves that have exhaust vents. The warm and impure air can then rise through these mediums to the skies.

Ventilation is also important in cold weather when fires and other heating apparatus increase the rate at which the pure air in the house is consumed. In this connection it may be mentioned that a good many people avoid ventilating houses in cold weather through a false sense of economy. They imagine that once a house is heated up it costs less to keep it warm than to heat it up again if the room becomes cold. As a matter of fact, it costs less to heat up a room full of pure air than it does to keep warm a room already charged with carbon dioxide and other impurities.

Rooms should have enough window space to admit sufficient natural light to prevent eye strain. Roughly, the area of window space should be about one sixth that of the floor space and, if possible, windows should reach almost to the ceiling to enable the light to get to the back of the rooms. Artificial light should resemble sun light as much as possible, ample to see to work by but not too glaring. Electric light is probably best because it does not consume oxygen from the air of the room, nor does it give out to the air any waste products. Light should not fall directly on the eyes but should come from the side or behind the shoulder.

She: "Don't you love driving on a night like this?"
He: "Yes, but I thought I'd wait until I got farther out in the country."

For years the two sexes have raced for supremacy. Now they have settled down to neck and neck.

Boy Scouts Ready For Camp Ringwaak

Applications for Camp Ringwaak are being received in every main, enabling the camp staff to complete arrangements and order supplies needed to feed and care for the scouts who will gather at Scout Lake next Sunday, July 17th. All boys planning to attend Camp Ringwaak are urged to send in their applications at once so that plans may be made for the number who will attend each week of the four weeks session. Trucks must be arranged for to carry supplies to camp, and fresh meats and vegetables ordered in sufficient quantity, making the attendance applications a necessary part of the arrangements. Forty applications had been received up to last Saturday noon at Scout headquarters, in the Court-house, The Dalles, Oregon.

Carl Peetz will attend the camp. Frank Sayrs is going for a week at the cub camp, July 24 to 31.

Several kinds of handicraft projects will be engaged in by the scouts attending the Boy Scout summer camp to be held at Camp Ringwaak, starting July 17th. Leathersmithing will be one of the new activities and a quantity of soft leather has been received to enable scouts to make book covers, purses, card cases, and other articles of value at a small cost. Moccasins will also be made from heavy leather cut to shape. Wood carving, one of the old standbys will again be an active part of the camp program with pine blocks and cedar neckerchief slides to be carved. Lean-tos will be built for pioneering and scouts permitted to occupy them during the camp, if they wish. Boondoggies, the popular braiding project of past camps will again be available to the scouts.

Case Summed Up

John rushed around looking for his coat. "What do you want it for, dear?" asked his wife.
"That fellow Smith across the road has just telephoned to ask if I could lend him a corkscrew."
"Well, what do you want your coat for? Surely there's no need to go out? You can send Mary with it."
John turned upon her more with sorrow than anger.
"My Dear," he said, "your last remarks sum up the whole reason why women cannot lead armies, control nations or take anything but a subordinate part in the affairs of the world."

Andy: "She seemed like a good sensible girl!"
Sandy: "Uh-huh. She wouldn't pay any attention to me either."
Him: "Do you know the secret of being popular?"
Her: "Yes—but Mother says I mustn't."
May: Gee, I had a fresh date last night.
Name: Why didn't you slap his face?
May: I did, but believe me I'll never slap another man's face when he's chewing tobacco.

COUNTY HARVEST

Continued from page one. In when talking. The fall grain there is good, there is little question of that statement. The spring grain is very good also, so far. It is the general consensus of opinion that if the weather remains cool for another ten days there will be a good yield, but if it should get hot with east winds the wheat would be badly shriveled. If rain should fall, and it is not impossible from the looks of the sky, there would be a mighty good crop south of Grass Valley. Spring wheat so far is better than it looks from the roads. When the stalks are pulled they are greener than they appear at first glance when the dead foliage gives it a pale cast that doesn't seem exactly healthy.

WORLD WHEAT

Continued from page one. month of July with prospects approaching average but with an increasing number of districts reporting inadequate moisture supplies. Although crop development throughout the Prairie Provinces was fairly uniform at the first of June, regional differences in moisture reserves, summer rainfalls and insect damage have caused the usual increased variability at the first of July. Prospects now range from poor to ideal but with most districts much better than in 1931.

European crop conditions continue generally favorable, particularly in Western and Southern Europe. The combined outturn in Germany, Spain, France, Belgium and Holland is now placed at 657,000,000 bushels as compared with official estimates of 580,000,000 bushels for the same countries a year ago. The Italian crop is reported to be below earlier expectations, but has been equal to the harvest of 248,000,000 bushels in 1931.

Production in the Danubian Basin is placed at 270,431,000 bushels against 282,924,000 bushels produced last year. Conditions in Russia continue somewhat variable but better than last year. Fairly good rains have partially relieved dryness and heat in the Upper and Middle Volga. Harvesting of the new winter wheat crop of Russia is now in progress and parcels of new wheat for August and September shipments from Southern Russian ports were sold to the United Kingdom at 51 and 52 1/2 per bushel. These quotations were about the same as for No. 3 Canadian Manitoba for July shipment from the Atlantic Seaboard. A shorter crop in China is in prospect, as a result of inadequate moisture and reduced acreage. The quality of the Chinese crop is lower than last year. The movement to market is unusually early, reflecting pressing financial needs, although prices of both wheat and flour are the lowest in a number of years.
