CHURCHES

Community Presbyterian Church

Sunday School 10 a.m.
Morning Worship 11 a.m.
Subject: "When God Curses to Bless."
Evening Service 7:45 p.m.
Subject: "When Reproaches are Riches."

The Community Minister may be found in the study of the public library every morning of the week except Sunday. If anyone in the community has Religious or Scientific books, or Biographical, or Historical books which you are willing to loan, will you not please leave them at the library and they will be loaned to readers who desire them. Then too, if you have them, will you not leave on the reading table your religious or popular magazines and papers, so that others may have the use of them.
Everybody always welcome.
Allan A. McRea, minister.

Christian Science

Subject: "Soul."
Golden Text: Hebrews 10:38, 39. Now the just shall live by faith; but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to saving of the soul.
Responsive Reading: Psalms 27:1, 4, 9, 13, 14.
Church services every morning at 11 o'clock and Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.
All are cordially invited to attend the church services and to make use of the reading room in the rear of the church building, which is open daily where all authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

A Fish Story

"It was the biggest fish I ever hooked—and before I knew it I was pulled out of the boat," said the fisherman.
"You must have got thoroughly wet," said the innocent bystander.
"Not at all," said the fisherman. "I fell on the fish."

Lace at Neckline Aid to the Summer Dress

Touches of lingerie or lace at the neckline give the 1932 look to summer dresses. Bias folds of organdie are one favorite lingerie touch and are used on soft types of dresses as well as tailored ones. Pique gives contrast to the new eyelet cotton dresses.
Starched lace is extremely smart in round Peter Pan collars ending in a big bow in front and are most effective on dark-colored sheer dresses. Also smart on the dark dress is the wide, double, circular collar of organdie. And just a large white organdie flower is a fine thought for the print dress.

We Almost Passed Out

Imagine our embarrassment the other evening when, at dinner in a swell Portland cafe—the waitress asked our boy friend if he wouldn't have some corn—and he passed his glass.

World Wheat Crop Smaller in Places

Crop prospects remain a dominant factor in the general wheat market situation. Winter wheat outputs in the U. S. are now fairly definitely known, but the outcome of the spring wheat crop is still uncertain. Private estimates as of August 1, forecast a crop of Spring wheat in the U. S. of around 275,000,000 bushels or about 30,000,000 less than the July official forecast. Such an output if realized would be about 170,000,000 bushels more than last season's harvest. Private estimates place the Canadian wheat crop this season at around 450,000,000 bushels or about 150,000,000 bushels larger than the 1931 crop. The Canadian crop suffered materially from hot, dry weather during July and rain is still urgently needed in many sections. Wheat harvesting will soon be general in the Prairie Provinces and threshing and combining have already begun.
In Europe, crops in the lower Danubian countries have suffered severe damage and latest advices indicate an output of only 257,203,000 bushels against 367,834,000 bushels produced last year. Heaviest reductions have occurred in Rumania and Yugoslavia, although countries in the Danube Basin shows losses. Harvesting in Russia has been delayed and the area harvested to July 25 was placed at about 49,000,000 acres as against about 72,000,000 acres to that date a year ago. Conditions of the winter wheat crop in areas near Black Sea ports are reported to be fairly good. In the Spring wheat areas, which normally produce around two thirds of the total Russian crop, prospects have been materially lowered by recent hot, dry weather.

Harvests have been relatively abundant in the important deficit areas of Western Europe and milling regulations in these areas have been tightened. The Italian harvest is now placed at 352,978,000 bushels as against 248,101,000 last year. Milling regulations for bread wheat now require utilization of 95 per cent native wheat in milling mixtures. Trade estimates indicate a French crop of around 290,000,000 bushels over the 1931 crop. The French milling quota for native wheat has been raised to 97 per cent. Germany, with a record harvest of 183,500,000 bushels has extended the milling of 97 per cent for native wheat to August 15, but permits millers using grain imported in exchange for wheat exports to use up to 30 per cent of foreign wheat. Spain has a harvest of 161,700,000 bushels or 27,000,000 bushels more than last season.
