MORO SCHOOL NOTES
Gordon Fraser, editor.

Last Friday night was rather a big night for the Moro volleyball team as they defeated the Wasco volleyball team for the first time in five long years. Moro held the lead throughout the game with the half ending 21 to 7 in Moro's favor. During the second half the Moro second team played the larger part of the game ending 35 to 27 in Moro's favor. The Moro lineup was Amidin, Sayrs, Peetz, Stephens, M. Nahouse and Johnson. Substitutes: G. Nabouse, McLachlan, and Pinkerton.

The Moro Optimist, the high school paper, will be published Friday. This paper has won both state and national acclaim in its division. Hopes to publish another paper of high standard are held by the staff. The staff includes: Editor Leora Peetz; Ass't Editor, Flor Williams. Athletics: Janet Stephens, Gordon Fraser; Sr. Reporter, Dorothy McRea; Jr. Reporter, Maxine Henrichs; Soph. Reporter, Gayle Amidon; Fresh. Reporter, Dorothy Fraser; Special Reporter, Richard Barnes, Frank Pather. Printer, Donald Burnet; Ass't. Gordon Fraser; Cartoonist, Tommy Fraser; Ass't., Pete Thomsen; Ads. Man, George Hennagin; Faculty Ad., Miss Thompson.

A torrid debate was staged Monday in the Commercial Geography class. The resolution was "that caterpillars most desirable for wheat farming." After four very convincing speeches the judges awarded the negative verdict. Alton Axtell and Harry Ragsdale were on the negative side and Delbert Rice and Gordon Fraser composed the affirmative.

Report cards will be passed out Monday marking the end of the first six weeks of school.

Passing back over these weeks it will be noted that greater enthusiasm toward school activities has been shown than at any time previous. This enthusiasm is especially noticeable in the way that the students are applying themselves to their school work and the excellent grades which have resulted from this application.
