

Old Scald Test Method Expressed in Degrees

"Pass your finger through the water three times. If it burns the third time the water is the right temperature."

That venerable old formula for telling when water is the right temperature for scalding hogs is still a good one, at least for anyone blessed with a reasonably keen sense of feeling, says A. W. Oliver of the Oregon State college animal husbandry department. Anyone wanting a more accurate measure may use a thermometer and get the water between 160 and 165 degrees F. for best results, he says. As water boils at 212 degrees, it is easily apparent that the term "scalding" as applied to butchering hogs is a relative term only. Oliver cautions against taking out the hog too quickly, as many an otherwise good scald is spoiled by not allowing long enough time for the hair to loosen fully.

BUDGET MEETING

(Continued from page one) that can not very well be evaded. Our tax bill in 1932 was $192,332-59 and it is very likely that it will be between $180,000 and $185,000 for 1933 unless the state property tax should be levied again which would make our taxes higher than for 1932.

WASCO HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
By Mary Jeannette Sargent

Last Friday evening the Wasco high school entertained students of Moro and Grass Valley high schools at a student body dance in their gym after the county championship volleyball game between the two visiting schools. Although the weather was quite cold many students made the trip from the visiting towns and enjoyed an evening of dancing until 11 o'clock. Patrons and patronesses for this affair were: Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch, Mr. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Wall and Mrs. Lydia Darby.

New scenery was received from a theatrical supply house this week and the manual training room has been a busy place the last few days. As a result new doors and windows will be much in evidence in two of the sets used for the Masque and Dagger plays.

Six weeks grades have been published and the honor roll has been posted.

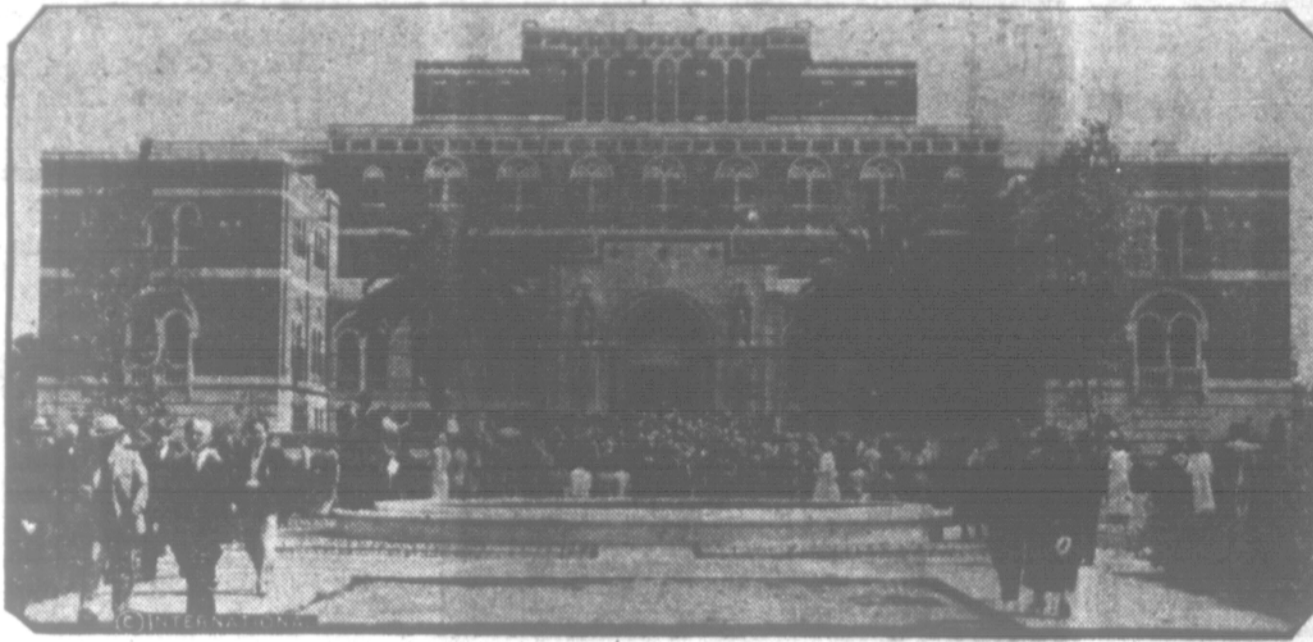

The boys play their first basketball game with Maupin here Friday night.

After being out by severe illness Robert Ferrell and Eugene Spencer returned to school this week.

With the grades for the second six weeks published the honor roll shows that the Junior class is leading the entire school with the Freshman class showing a marked improvement and in second place, the Sophomores third and the Senior class trailing in fourth place. Augusta Huckin, a Senior may be considered the best student in this report since she is carrying five subjects and has a straight one average. The following persons carry a regular four subject course and have attained a straight Spensor, Mary Jeannette Sargent, one average: Irene Beardsley, Arthur Winifred Fortner, Mignon Wall, Geraldine Funk. Others whose names appear on the high school honor roll are: Margaret Moon, Evelyn Olsen, Ted Proudfoot, Marvin Thomas, Leon Smith, Harry Dean Proudfoot, Cathryn Johnson. The work done during the past report period is a very good quality and all students seem to have a more seriousness of purpose and desire to work than other years the high school principal stated. Fewer failures were recorded this six weeks than at any time during the past two years.

The Elementary grades also show a large number making superior grades this six weeks. This may be due to the fact that many a boy and girl look forward to Christmas about this time of year. The 7th and 8th grade list only two pupils for each grade but these are credited with high honors receiving no grade below a two. They are Dorothy Lamborn, Jean Wall, John Proudfoot and Catherine Fridley. Others listed in this rank from other grades are: June Hine, Berrel Sheets, Malcolm Richelderfer. The primary grades are not included in high honor ranking but have on their honor roll the following students: Clyde Fridley, Laurin Winnett, Gerald Nesbit, Leland Schwendel, LaVelle Guy, Jessie Knox, Emma Lamborn, Robt. Nesbit, Gladys Stone, John Schwendel, Patricia Yocum. Those on the honor roll from the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades were

Women SHOULD NOT BE TIED TO THEIR kitchen stoves

Freedom from cooking cares is just naturally taken for granted—and enjoyed day after day—if you let a modern electric range do your cooking. You can place your meal in the oven, set the timer, leave home for 15 minutes, and return to find your dinner perfectly cooked, piping hot, and the current automatically shut off. Electric ranges are fast, clean and economical. No fumes, flames or smoke. Foods taste better, too; for all the savory juices and flavors are retained and there's no costly shrinkage.
