

Co-operatives Gain Among Oregon Farmers

Although there are 175 separate organizations 65 or more of these are associated together in federations or central sales groups which tend to promote greater strength and unity. Fruit and vegetable marketing associations lead all others in total numbers, according to the new directory which classifies the cooperatives in 18 groups. There are 11 general purchasing organizations and six dealing exclusively in oil and gasoline.

A new setup for federal financing of cooperatives is now in force under the new federal farm credit administration which decentralizes this type of financial service, Gatlin reports. Loans to cooperatives will now be made through 17 regional cooperative credit banks, the one for this region being Spokane.

Oregon Cooperatives have been largely self financing and now owe only about $285,000 to the credit administration, a policy that might well be continued even under the new and more favorable loan arrangements Gatlin believes. Outside entangling financial alliances frequently lead to outside control, he says. While Oregon cooperatives are stronger for their position of home ownership and control.

played outside the foul line after the first innings and the game, hampered by so many handicaps was full of errors.

Grass Valley defeated Antelope 14 to 2 at Grass Valley Sunday by landing on young pitcher McKay for a flock of blows in the second inning. Later Jacob Young was put in the box by Antelope and the scoring was slowed down to a great extent altho his former teammates did hit the famous boom ball enough to win the game.

Antelope made six hits for two scores and Grass Valley with eight hits made their fourteen scores howing that errorless ball was not played by the Antelope boys.

Batteries were Ford and Fritts; McKay, Young and Reeder. Umpiring was done by H. Scheurer and McCutcheon.

CELEBRATION

Gilliam county and Finley Richardson of Wasco county.

Probably the greatest attraction of any of the events was the smoker on the evening of the fourth. Headliners Harry McDonald of Moro and Darvel McQuillan of Wasco battled six torrid rounds to a draw while partisan supporters shouted and yelled encouragement from the sidelines. Both boys fought a clean fight with plenty of mixing and the crowd seemed pleased when Bill McDonald as referee, held up both of their hands at the close.

The semi-windup, scheduled to go four rounds, ended in the third when Wild Man Randall of The Dalles knocked Young Firpo into dreamland with a couple of swats beneath the ear. The fight was even until Randall knocked Firpo down for the count of nine and completely out a couple of seconds later.

Red Williams, of Klondike, whose bright red trunks were matched by air nearly as red, won a draw with John O'Leary of The Dalles in four rounds fighting at 145 and 140 respectively. Mike Garretson and One Round Gardner both of The Dalles fought four one minute rounds as a special attraction resulting in a decision in favor of Gardner who had his opponent on the floor for a nine count in the second. The boys wanted it called a draw but Referee McDonald wouldn't have it so. Rue White, of Miller, and James O'Meara of Wasco tangled in the curtain raiser for four rounds and while O'Meara was the heavier he was not so experienced in hitting and lost by a decision.

SCHOOL BOARD

a deficit in the high school tuition fund because of an error several years ago. The new board starts off with a clean slate, however. Their tax will be for high school costs for the future and the other tax will be for the high school costs of the past which have not been paid. The new board will be responsible for but one tax. The total of the two items should not be larger than was paid this year.

Policies adopted by the board were to the effect that they would, for the present at least, contract with high school districts on the basis of actual high school costs, reserving, however, the right to scrutinize those costs and make recommendations about the items included in them. They recommended that 15 percent of the principal's salary be charged to elementary schools instead of all being charged to high school costs, for instance.

Parents are to be allowed to send their children to any high school in the county under contract with the board. This decision was made after some argument as to whether or not the board, in the interest of economy should not send children to the less expensive schools or should not ask the higher cost schools to accept an average cost for education of high school pupils.

While board members expressed themselves as favoring Sherman county schools for Sherman contains they made no ruling that would prevent parents from sending their children to other schools if conditions justify such action.

Present were: Karl Eaton, Harry Pinkerton, Tom Fraser and Frank von Borstel. Harry Proudfoot was in Spokane at a meeting of wheat men.

HI-WAY TO HEALTH
by ADA R. MAYNE
OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

With the coming of warmer days, it becomes increasingly difficult to spend the usual many hours in the kitchen. The vegetable garden, the flowers needing attention, the long walk or the impromptu drive are but a few of the many things that claim our interest during the summer days. As a consequence, in planning summer dinner menus, care should be taken to make them decidedly simple.

Too few of us take advantage of the possibilities that can be found right in our own back yards. The most simple of meals will take on a festive atmosphere when served out in the yard or even on the porch. This often takes the place of a picnic, especially with the children, and is a delightful way to entertain the unexpected guest.

Easy to get menus that can be served in or out of doors are:
No. 1 Veal Cutlets with Potatoes
Slaw from New Cabbage, Rolls
Fresh Strawberries (or other fruit)
Coffee Milk for Children

No. 2
Shiced chicken or Veal sandwiches
Cucumber and Cheese Sandwiches
Combination salad Radishes
Chocolate Cake with Ice Cream
Strawberry Milk Shake

A few of the recipes from these easy to get menus are:

shaps, using toothpick to hold them together. Season with salt and pepper. Dip them in bread crumbs, then into the beaten eggs, and again in the bread crumbs. Put the butter in a hot skillet, add the cutlets and brown on both sides. Peel and quarter the potatoes. Place them around the cutlets. Sprinkle with salt and cover with the milk. Cover and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F) until tender or about one hour. Serve on hot platter with a few dashes of paprika over top.
Yield: 5 servings.
