THREE WAYS TO HEALTH

by ADA R. MAYNE
OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

Now that the first rush of the holiday season is over and there is time for thought on other things, most of us turn our attention to New Year's resolutions.

Everyone strives to be more efficient in some thing, but something in which we can all be more efficient is in food purchasing for the home. Prominent food economists estimate that most food buying by the housewife is almost 20 per cent inefficient. You may spend $15.00 a week for food, in your households or you may spend $6.00 a week, they say, but whatever you spend, the chances are it is too much for what you are getting—about 20 per cent too much. And they say the fault lies entirely with the purchaser.

If this is true, then more efficient food purchasing could well become an inspiration for the New Year's resolution.

One way to better buying efficiency is to buy always by weight. It is the only accurate method. The following table of can sizes is a help in buying accurately:

Table of Can Sizes

No. 1 (picnic)	11 oz. 1-1-3 cups
No. 1 16 oz.	2 1-2 cups
No. 1 16 oz.	2 cups
No. 2 1-2	28 oz. 3 1-2 cups
No. 3 33 oz.	4 cups
No. 5 3 lb. 8 oz.	7 cups

No. 10 6 lb. 10 oz. 13 cups

Six aims for better food buying that every housewife might adopt for the new year are

1. Prepare a shopping list always.
2. Keep storage spaces filled—eliminating emergency trips to market. Place orders twice a week.
3. Buy in large quantity as can be used economically if a saving in price.
4. Buy by weight; check your costs; check your delivery at home.
5. The first rule of good marketing is to see for yourself. One trip to the market each week will keep you in touch.
6. Study advertising, learn from stores, radio, newspapers, booklets & folders which give material to create a desire for the products and at the same time are educational in bringing out new food facts.

Food nutritionists give housewives the best known rules for feeding the family well and economically, too. The best foundation for any diet is the protective foods—fruits, vegetables, milk and eggs. A daily quart of milk for every child in the family and a pint for each adult is wise food economy, for milk gives more for the money than any other food.

Every day plan to include in the three meals served besides the milk two fruits, one a citrus or tomato, two vegetables, one a yellow or a green variety, a whole grain cereal; protein such as meat, cheese or eggs and enough other foods to satisfy the family's appetite and keep them in normal weight.
