Spring Wheat Prospects Improve

Prospects for spring wheat improved slightly in recent weeks both in the United States and Canada. The official estimate as of Sept. 1 placed the U.S. spring wheat crop at 92,800,000 bus. including 6,100,000 bus. of durum and giving a total domestic crop of both winter and spring of 493,000,000 bushels. The Canadian crop was forecast at 277,000,000 bus. against approximately 270,000,000 bus. last season. The output in Mexico is placed at about 10,000,000 bus. giving a total north American harvest of 780,000,000 bus. or about 30,000,000 bus. below last year's short crop. Europe has a crop around 300,000,000 bus. under that of 1933 with about 116,000,000 bushels of the decrease accounted for in exporting countries of the Lower Danube. Outturns in north Africa and Asia show moderate gains of around 30,000,000 bus. In the southern hemisphere trade report forecast a decrease of 75,000,000 to 80,000,000 bus. in the next crop based on smaller acreages and less favorable crop condition. The short harvest, however, is partially offset by an increase in stock of old wheat remaining from last harvest. Trade estimates indicate a reduction of around 220,000,000 bus. in the Russian crop.

FORMS CHECKED

(Continued from page one) capital and be there for about two weeks while the bulk of the Oregon forms are being handled. The wheat section takes the position that the money is in hand ready to be paid out to the farmer and hence those in charge want to do everything possible to speed up the detailed work so that the benefit payments will get to the growers just as soon as the necessary work can be rushed through." Donaldson explains. Washington AAA officials have announced that no additional auditing will need to be made between the second payment on the 1933 crop and the first on the 1934. Getting out the first 20 cents per bushel payment on the 1934 crop will merely entail re-running the cards through the check writing machines. Those in charge hope to complete that payment by the last of October.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH

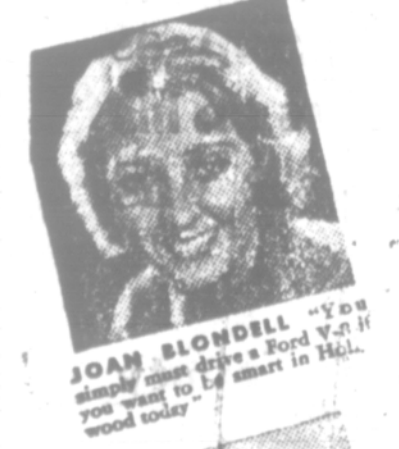

by ADA R. MAYNE
OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

Safeguarding the diets of your family means serving an abundance of the foods coming under the food class called 'protective'. The protective foods according to present knowledge of good nutrition are milk, fruits, vegetables and eggs. They are protective because they furnish the essential minerals and vitamins necessary for growth and for maintaining strong and healthy bodies. With the present prices of foods on the upward trend, it is sometimes a puzzling question as to just where the food costs can be reduced without sacrificing either the palatability or the nutritive value of the diet. It is a well established fact that milk is the most important single food because it furnishes more of the essential elements necessary for growth and health than any other food. In fact, all economy diets are planned around milk and cereals, reinforced with the other protective foods, fruits, vegetables and eggs. Use protective foods in the following amounts: one quart of milk for every child and a pint for each adult daily; one or two servings of fruit daily, one a citrus variety or tomatoes; two servings of vegetables, one a green leafy variety; and eggs three or four times a week; This guide will insure enough of the protective elements if these quantities are distributed between the three meals of the day. These recipes combine the protective foods, therefore are nutritious as well as satisfying.
