"When I marry I am going to cook wash, wash and darn my husband's socks, lay out his pipe and slippers and read to him evenings. What more could a husband ask than that?"

"Nothing unless he was evil-minded."

"Traveling Salesman—Where's the money?"

"Waitress—Down the aisle and first door to the right."

"Miss Gosh—I just adore caviar, don't you?"

"Mr. Green—I never heard him except over the radio."

"Young Wife—Oh, I'm so miserable. My husband has been out all evening and I haven't the faintest idea where he is."

"Experienced Friend—My dear, you mustn't worry. You'd probably be twice as miserable if you did know."

"Married, what's the light shining on you?"

"That's my stop light, Rastus."

$3,000,000 Being Distributed in Oregon

Agricultural adjustment benefit payments in excess of $3,000,000 are scheduled to be distributed to Oregon farmers during October and early November under provisions of the wheat and corn-hog adjustment programs, according to figures compiled by the Oregon Extension service. These payments, all made from the receipts from federal processing taxes, are to compensate Oregon farmers for restricting their production in line with the national plan for these commodities.

The amount to be received under the corn-hog plan is more than twice as much as would have been due Oregon farmers under the original state production figure assigned by the bureau of crop estimates, though it is still below the figure considered just by many county allotment committees and the state college extension service.

The final base production figure allowed Oregon is 229,165 hogs for the total of all contracts. This figure compares with 108,250 total contract base given in the first estimate of 142,250 for the entire state including those hogs not under contract. On the other hand it falls more than 20,000 hogs short of the 250,000 which the extension officials considered the absolute minimum which could justly be assigned as Oregon's quota.

While the summer long efforts of the farmer leaders and extension service representatives to obtain a just quota for Oregon was not entirely successful the outcome was a considerable gain even over what was declared to be the third and final quota of 213,000 hogs, points out F. L. Ballard, vice-director of the extension service.

Mr. Ballard adds that the troubles encountered in Oregon and a number of other states in carrying through the corn-hog program were not the fault of the plan itself, which was fundamentally sound, but arose from poor administration of the plan in this state by some representatives of the corn-hog section.

Corn-hog benefit payments authorized for Oregon now total $859,365 of which two-fifths is payable at once. Under the original quota they would have been less than half that sum. Baker and Union counties are the first to receive the first payment checks.

Final 1933 wheat payments are estimated at $834,800 in this state while the first 1934 wheat payment, to be distributed immediately after the former, is estimated at $1,829,427, making a total distribution for the next month or so of more than three million dollars in this state.

Meanwhile county corn-hog committees have completed arrangements for taking the referendum among contract signers on the two questions of continuing some corn-hog plan for 1935 and of working out a single contract for all grains and livestock starting in 1936. Votes will be taken in one or two meetings in each county before October 18.

College and University

There is no clear line of distinction drawn between a college and a university, although in the United States the college is primarily an institution of higher learning having but a single faculty or curriculum; or an institution for special instruction, says Pathfinder Magazine. An American university usually comprises a college and one or more graduate or professional schools. In Great Britain the college was originally a corporation founded to assist its members to pursue university studies.

RUFUS SCHOOL NOTES

By Georgiana Blackburn
The Rufus band journeyed to Moro November 3 where they played at the football game with the help of a few of the band members of Moro and Wasco. Because of the rain it was hard for both the band and football teams to play. However, it was a very good game. The final score was 13 to 12 in favor of Wasco.

November 3 Rufus gave their second high school carnival. The main features of the program were the band concert, "Magic Pill," "Gay Nineties," and "Harmony Cowgirls." The dance followed this program. Altogether the carnival was a success.

The Sophomore class is having a typing contest between the boys and girls. The girls call themselves "The Demons" while the boys have "The Turtles" for their name. The girls are 17 points ahead.

From November 5 to 10 is recognized as educational week in the United States. In recognition of this there is a program to be given at the Rufus school. Besides the outside speaker the high school is giving a play, "Prince Charming"; the upper grades are giving a health play and the Glee Club will sing. The intermediate room is also giving a play and the rhythm band in the primary room will make its first appearance. This is the first of a series which will be given monthly.

At the end of the interclass volleyball tournament the Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores were tied for championship. The Seniors won when they played off the tie.

The upper grade girls gave a Halloween party for the boys of their room and invited the intermediate room.

The volley ball girls will journey to Wasco November 8 where they will play the Wasco Warriors. We hope they are successful.

WHEN YOU ASK
"MAY I SEE THIS OUT-OF-DOORS?"

You are trying to see through

Fog Light.

Once in a while you become very conscious of "Fog Light"—when you try to match a piece of goods, for instance, or look closely at the color. Then your eyes rebel at "Fog Light", and you want to go out in the daylight—the kind of light your eyes were made to see in!

Electric light is almost as satisfactory for vision as sunlight, if it is properly used. And now the science of seeing has been added to the science of electricity, and an instrument as sensitive as your own eyes has been developed to measure light.

The difference between your own eyes and the "Fog Light" is that the "Fog Light" is a sensitive needle-indicator tells you in a fraction of a second whether the light you use for reading or working is good enough. Your patient eyes won't tell you for months or years—long after it is too late.

An experiment with the "Fog Light" in your own home will be interesting. Just notify our nearest office if you wish our Home Lighting Expert to call. There is no charge for this service, and you are under no obligation to follow her recommendations. But remember, you have only two eyes, and they can never be replaced or completely restored. The cost of "better lighting"—and eye-saving—is seldom more than a few cents a month.
