MORO SCHOOL NOTES
By Anita Kenny

The report cards were given out on Monday of this week which marks the beginning of the third six weeks period.

Austin Foss was absent from school on Monday and part of Tuesday as he was visiting relatives in Spokane, Washington.

Due to the siege of chicken pox Anita Kenny, and Elizabeth Mersinger are absent from school. Max Belshe, Russell Belshe, and Winifred Belshe have returned to school after an absence of several days.

The boys have two basketball games at distant towns this week end, one Friday night with Madras, the other on Saturday night with Culver. We wish them success!

All of the high school teachers journeyed to their various homes to enjoy the Thanksgiving vacation. Miss Radtke went to Athens, Mr. and Mrs. Cunliff to Dee and Mr. Walker to his home in Portland.

Sixteen new warm up blazers have been purchased for the high school boys and girls basketball teams.

Marjorie Byers a graduate of Moro High was a visitor here Wednesday of last week. She is attending Pacific University at Forest Grove, Oregon.

Dorothy Fraser was absent from high school on Monday and Tuesday while visiting in Portland with friends and relatives.

Those having an average of two plus or better of the second six weeks are included on the honor roll for the period. They are as follows: Anita Kenny, Mary Pinkerton Doris Thompson, Barbara Belshe, Dorothy Fraser, Robert Gillmor and Lois Kenny. Upon surveying this honor roll it seems as though the girls do not only show their superiority in volleyball but in grades as well.

Miss Biggness, with the assistance of Miss Miller, is directing the primary grades in a short play entitled "When Daddy Was a Little Boy."

The pupils of Miss Craig's and Miss Miller's room entertained their mothers and the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grades at a short Thanksgiving program on Wednesday morning. A short pilgrim play entitled "The first Thanksgiving Dinner" was given by several of the students in that room.

Miss Biggness has begun work on a Christmas play by the name of "Madonna of the Rose." The cast has been selected from the intermediate and junior high school; Dean Pinkerton and Reatha Sayrs take the leading parts.

Margaret Gillis, public health nurse, thoroughly examined the grade school pupils last week. She examined the high school students eyes on Monday morning.

Fascist "Martyrs" Are Interred at Florence

The bodies of 37 early victims of the Fascist fight for power in Italy, who fell in clashes with Communists, being carried in the solemn procession that preceded their interment in the Basilica of Santa Croce in Florence. The ceremony, attended by Premier Mussolini, was on the twelfth anniversary of Mussolini's famous march on Rome.

Some strength was apparent in the general wheat situation, largely as a result of less favorable prospects in the Southern Hemisphere. Rust damage, both in Argentina and Australia, suggests outturns below earlier forecasts, while recent heavy rains have lowered the quality in sections of Argentina and Eastern areas of Australia. Trade estimates now place the Argentine crop at around 249,000,000 bushels, compared with 286,000,000 bushels harvested last season, and the Australian harvest at about 130,000,000 bushels against 174,000,000 bushels a year ago. Marketings of Southern Hemisphere wheat continued fairly heavy, with nearly 5,000,000 bushels shipped from Argentine and Australia during the week. Australian shippers were pressing supplies of old crop wheat on the market, but growers were not selling new wheat freely. The Argentine government has announced the same basic price for new wheat as last season.

Wheat Market Shows More Strength Now

The prodigal son has returned. "Father," he inquired, "are you going to kill the fatted calf?"
"No," answered the old man, looking the youth over carefully; "no I'll let you live. But I'll put you to work and train a lot of that fat off."

Let's Quit Killing Campaign Ends

Although the last of the six two week periods of the "Let's Quit Killing" safety campaign, each of which was designed to call attention to one of six major causes of accidents, came to an end Sunday, the Oregon State Motor association, one of the sponsors of the drive, pointed out that the safety program is being continued.

"Through the cooperation of the newspapers of the state and other publicity agencies, much has been accomplished in educating the public to the need for greater safety on our highways," commented W. R. McDonald, the motor association's chairman in charge of the campaign. "Highway safety has become a topic of conversation, indicating that Oregon's citizens have achieved a realization of the seriousness of the traffic accident situation."

"It now becomes necessary, in carrying on the drive for safer streets and highways, to turn to enforcement and legislation as the concrete means of bringing about a reduction in the steadily mounting accident toll. With the ground work of public opinion well established, our task is now to bring enforcement to the point where it will satisfactorily cope with the situation, and to attain necessary legislation for control of the reckless driver."

Support of the safety responsibility law scheduled to come before the legislature in 1935, designed to control or eliminate the irresponsible motorist is one way in which every person in Oregon can cooperate in this phase of the safety campaign, Mr. McDonald said.

'Take a Trip' Advises Rail Officiale

"Some find it difficult to understand why hog raisers should reduce production when millions want pork," said Dr. Howe. "On the other hand farmers find it difficult to understand why factories should close down or produce less when the farmer wants factory products."

"So long as goods must be sold at a price, and so long as their supply depends on the purchasing power and not the need people feel for them, farmers like other business men are forced to adjust their production to the market."

"In higher prices for pork, consumers are paying hog producers for their investment and labor. In turn hog producers should be able to pay their part of the city workers' return to fair income. That is the process of recovery," Howe concluded.

Other AAA leaders dealing with the "surplus vs distribution" question have pointed out that while distribution systems have admittedly been faulty, the collapse of the normal export markets brought a condition in many commodities which no amount of perfect domestic distribution could have corrected. The capacity of the human stomach, they said, could not have handled the wheat surplus, for example, even on a basis of free domestic distribution, if production had been maintained at former levels.
