MORO SCHOOL NOTES
By Anita Kenny

In addition to the names given in last week's paper, the following students were also on the honor roll for the first semester: Marie McLeod, Irma Mae Morgan, Melba Thogerson, and Gordon Fraser.

The girls won their only out of county game last Saturday night by defeating the Madras team by the decisive score of 57 to 9. The boys, however, again suffered defeat at the hands of the Madras quintet.

The Junior class entertained with a dance in the gymnasium after the two basketball games Saturday night. The Madras teams stayed for this event as they had previously been invited.

The Moro basketball teams played Grass Valley Wednesday night due to the fact that the Grass Valley debating team, which is composed of several members of the basketball teams, will be in McMinnville on Friday night.

Doris Morrison has been absent from school this week with a case of mumps.

Miss Biggness, fifth and sixth grade teacher, is back at school after an absence of a week. Her return made possible the commencement of work on the Glee Club operetta, "The Quest of the Gypsy."

Both of the Moro teams defeated the Kent teams Friday night on the Kent floor.

A student assembly was held Wednesday afternoon at which the high school students practiced several yells in preparation for the games that night.

Barber—Hair cut?
Farmer (in chair)—Yes.
Barber—How do you want it cut?
Farmer—I'm not particular.
Barber—I'll cut it any way you like.

Farmer—That's a bargain. Cut it on the shares. You can have half the hair for your work.

New Hog Deal Being Explained

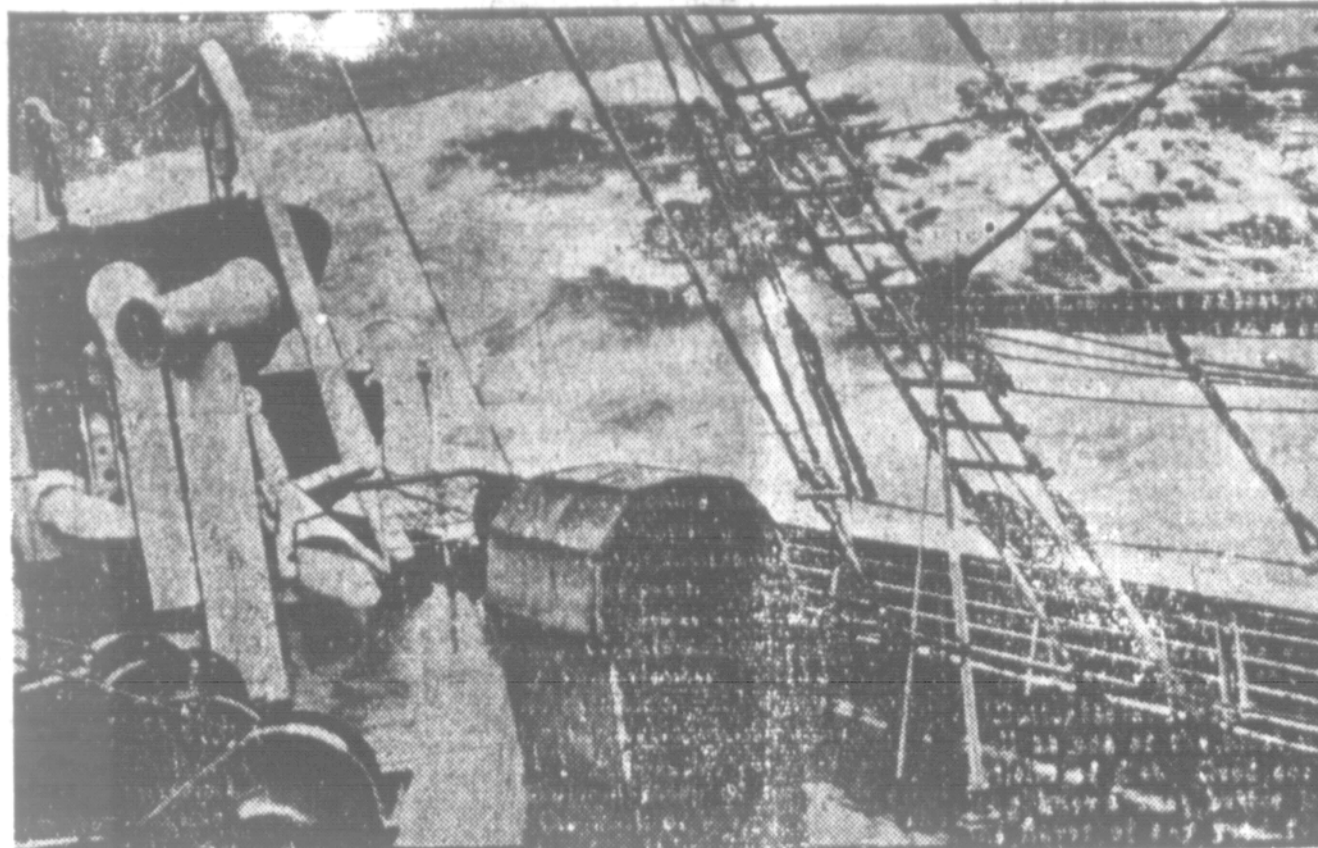

With district meetings of corn-hog committeemen and county agents being held this week, and individual county meetings scheduled to start the first week in February, the 1935 program is now underway throughout Oregon with those in charge hoping it can be wound up in six weeks.

At a conference in Portland between Ralph Moyer, regional representative of the corn-hog section

Why the Atlantic Liners Were Delayed

and officials of the extension service, arrangements were made for the state college men to take charge of the educational and sign-up campaign, as in the past.

Charles Smith, emergency county supervisor, has been named to head the educational campaign. Harry Lindgren, livestock extension specialist who headed the campaign last year, is still on special duty with the drouth relief organizations.

The series of five regional meetings being conducted this week at Portland, Arlington, La Grande, Corvallis and Medford are for discussion of the new contract provisions and procedure with the allotment committeemen and other county association officials, together with the county agents. These will be followed by county meetings for community committeemen alone in the large counties, while in counties with 150 or fewer contracts, a single day will be devoted to the community committeemen's meetings and the growers themselves.

Procedure will be much simpler this year, according to Mr. Smith as those who took part in last year's program have their hog base already established. For such a grower it will be largely a case of hearing the detailed provisions of the new contract, figuring out how they apply to him, and deciding whether or not to join in the program again. Growers who did not join in the 1934 program may get contracts under the new plan by producing the necessary evidence to establish a base.

The corn hog review board for Oregon will consist this year of N. E. Dodd, Baker farmer, representing the corn-hog section; C. J. Borum, newly appointed federal statistician at Portland; and a representative of the state college staff. Mr. Dodd is to be largely responsible for handling new contract evidence and Mr. Borum will handle the detailed statistical work through his office.

Mrs. Spendmore—I had men running after me long before I married you.

Husband—Yes, and they would be running after you now if I didn't pay your bills.

Medium—Ah, I hear the spirit of your late wife knocking now!

Widower—Who's she knocking now?

"CATERPILLAR" HAS PIONEERED DIESEL POWER

"Caterpillar" was the first to use belt-like tracks instead of wheels for tractor use. They went over big. New "Caterpillar" is making the same kind of a success with Diesel-fueled tractor engines. Today, thousands of farmers are using "Caterpillar" Diesels on the toughest jobs day after day. They like the simplicity and dependability of the diesel engine. They like the amazing Diesel power. And best of all, they are finding that the "Caterpillar" Diesel saves them as much as 70 percent on their fuel costs.

Take advantage of DIESEL economy

Ask any neighbor who owns a "Caterpillar" Diesel — what he thinks of its economy. See the Diesel operate — get first hand information. And by all means, visit us at The Dalles — see our displays of "Caterpillar" 35, 40, 50, and 75 models.

HOG numbers in the United States follow closely the changes in corn production. Since 1920-21, as indicated by the bottom line in the graph above, there have been three peaks of heavy hog slaughter—the marketing years of 1923-24, 1928-29 and 1933-34. The increases in hog slaughter during these years can be traced to the big corn crops during the periods beginning in 1920, in 1928, and again in 1932, as shown by the top line above.

Over a period of years, a change of one per cent in corn production has been followed by a corresponding change of about one per cent in the number of hogs slaughtered under Federal inspection. Moreover, changes in corn production are closely associated with changes in the weight per hog marketed through the following year.

Because of this fundamental relationship, effective control of corn acreage is a vital factor in controlling hog production.

The 1935 corn-hog contract now being offered farmers provides control of corn acreage and, therefore, will be doubly effective in preventing excessive hog production during the next year or so. Lack of adequate acreage control in 1935 not only would result in a large surplus of corn and low feed prices, but undoubtedly would be followed in 1936 and 1937 by heavy hog feeding and relatively low hog prices.
