SALES DROPPING SINCE JANUARY

The sharp upturn in business which was evident late last year and during January apparently had lost some of its momentum by last month, according to the March issue of Commonwealth, Inc. Business Survey, issued last week. Production of goods for consumption continued fairly brisk but heavy industry, including lumber, was still deep in depression. Most indices showed net losses for the north when adjusted for seasonal variation.

A drop in retail volumes was both unexpected and disturbing to merchants. On the other hand, automobile sales were up 77 percent from January, 140 percent from February 1934. The Common wealth index of Portland business was 65.05 last month, against 67.16 in January and 68.27 for February last year.

Major weakness in the outlook, thinks David Eccles, editor of business survey, is the weakness of the lumber market and the failure of building to respond effectively to the season or to recovery measures. He thinks buying power and rents must rise further before an appreciable amount of new building can be expected.

Business Survey's March feature is an analysis of Bonneville fishway plans and possible effects of Bonneville dam on the Columbia river salmon. Business Survey thinks development of the river contains a serious threat to the future of salmon.

the State Relief Administration. Under the program, 16 experimental nursery schools attended last week by 361 children, ages 2-4, for relief families have been established in 14 of the larger cities. Each nursery school is taught by two previously unemployed teachers and a cook is employed part time to prepare a well balanced noonday meal for the children each day.

For the week ending Thursday, March 14 Sherman county had 5 teachers conducting 6 adult classes according to the weekly reports from county and city school superintendents who are in charge of the classes in their respective school districts.

Education Program are social and economic problems, Americanization and citizenship, home economics, vocational training, crafts, hobbies, recreation, first aid, parent education, music, art, public speaking, and dramatics.

Dr. Howard stated that "These adult classes, forming a veritable state university at large, are now being taught in every county in the state. The classes offer opportunities for the study of present day economic and social problems, provide a means for the profitable use of the individual's leisure time in personal and vocational self-improvement, and offer opportunities for foreign born to become naturalized citizens.

"The many thousands of adults attending the classes in the Emergency Education Program indicate clearly a real interest and satisfaction on the part of adults for continuing their education in the fields of their respective interests and desires."

Hot Cross Buns Lend Variety
Hot Cross buns are with us again and are to be seen in bakeries as well as in most restaurants. These sweet rolls are a change from the ordinary type of bread or roll and are favorites, not only with children, but grown-ups too. Hot cross buns, like other bakery goods, depend upon the distinctive flavor of butter along with the sugar and spice, of course, to make them appetizing.

Any dish prepared with butter is tastier because of it. The distinctive and appetizing flavor of butter has long been recognized and now we know too, that butter is of high nutritive value. Besides being easily digested, butter is the only food fat containing appreciable amounts of the Vitamins. Butter is an excellent source of Vitamin A which is essential to growth and builds resistance to disease, and of Vitamin D, the so called sunshine vitamin. It is logical then to use butter not only for its flavor, but for the health promoting vitamins in it.

Here is a recipe for hot cross buns, and for those who prefer a quick bread, not so sweet, a recipe for corn meal muffins:

HOT CROSS BUNS
One cake dry yeast soaked in one-half cup lukewarm water
One pint milk scalded and cooled
Two-third cup butter
One level teaspoon salt
Eight cups or more flour
One and a half cups chopped nuts, raisins or currants
Two eggs
Two third cup sugar
Rind and juice of a half lemon
One-half level tsp ground nutmeg or cardamom
In the evening, break and soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald corn meal muffins:

One and a fourth cups flour
One and a fourth cups cornmeal
One half cup sugar
Three fourths tsp salt
Two tsp baking powder
One and a half cups milk
Two eggs
Two tablespoons butter
One half cup chopped dates
Mix dry ingredients. Beat eggs and add to milk. Combine the dry and liquid ingredients. Add melted butter and dates. Put in well greased muffin tins and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) This may be baked in sheets as corn bread. Makes 12 muffins.
