RUFUS SCHOOL NOTES By Georgiana Blackburn An operetta was given by the high school and some of the grade students at the school house, Mar. 15. Spencer, a rich man's son is going to be expelled from college but Carrie comes and pays his debts for him. Things seem to become more complicated but it all works out well in the end. The typing classes are now having a contest which is supposed to encourage the typists not to make less errors by taking away five of their original points for each error made. A hike is going to be taken by the high school students, March 22 in which everyone is to be dressed as a tramp. A prize is to be given for the best dressed tramp and a penalty will be given to those who are not properly dressed. Altho the high school knows little about the evening's entertainment they are expecting a good time. School was closed March 11 because of funeral services being held at the church for Mrs. Frank L. Hulery. The band is now working very industriously on several hard pieces to be played at Arlington March 29, at the band contest. All the members are expecting to have a pleasant time. The local declamatory contest is to be held at Rufus, March 28. The grade children are now working hard for this event. The high school is beginning to start on a play called "Adventures of Grandfather" which they hope to give soon.

but they had things on their minds. One was Representative Harry Frazier of Molalla, Clackamas county, who, it was learned, had submitted his application for the position of executive secretary of the World War Veterans' State Aid Commission, a position now being ably filled by Jerrold Owen. What chance Frazier had was a matter of pure conjecture. Owen has proved an efficient officer. He was appointed—as Frazier would have to be—by the Governor, Secretary of State, Adjutant General and two other members of this commission. Frazier, it was recalled, came to the legislature with his arm in a sling but by the time of adjournment was fully recovered. Senator Ashby C. Dickson must resign at once as a member of the state legislature. He, through Congressman Walter E. Pierce, was named NRA attorney for the coast. That perhaps was the reason Dickson fought so hard to kill the bill which would have denied Pierce the honor of holding both the job as congressman and as national democratic committee man—Pierce and Governor Martin are NOT the best of friends. Dickson, who came from Multnomah county, was serving his last term, and unless there is a special session—which many believe will be the order—no appointment need be made in his place. Should there be an appointment necessary, it would be up to the county court or the board of county commissioners, the same now as any other vacancy in the legislature.

STATEHOUSE GOSSIP

Perhaps the largest bill vetoed by the Governor up to the present writing, was that which would establish Junior colleges, a proposal much desired by eastern Oregon. The bill was killed by veto after Dr. James Best, its author and sponsor had worked hard and effectively in securing its passage. Requirement of additional tax levies was the reason of the veto, the governor to date being consistent on that score.

The middle of this week Governor will take a much deserved rest and will be on vacation for at least a week or ten days. After his return one can expect his entire attention being turned to new appointments and reorganizing the state government as he wishes.
