IT RAINED

There used to be belief among some people that water would cure almost everything. Recently we have found that, properly applied, it has almost unbelievably great curative value.

Jupe Pluvius' offering came in a milder form hereabouts than in the flood drenched mid-west. Here it was gentle, so much so that many who had been praying for such a gift did not hear a drop of it and slept through it all.

Throughout the country between a half and three quarters of an inch of rain fell. Rain in that quantity on wheat in the stage it was found has a curative effect that is not to be made light of among wheat men.

Farmers who have been scanning the sky for weeks were getting a good deal discouraged and tired of the apparently unceasing blue color. It developed a blue tinge about the entire country.

Now, while there is no prospect of a big crop throughout the county, there is promise that there will be harvesting done in every section. The wheat has perked up, is greener, with softer and plumper berries and gives hopes of yielding many more bushels.

Did you hear the Sherman county kids broadcast their talks over KOAC last Saturday? And didn't they stand up and say their say like veterans even though it was the first appearance before the microphone for many of them?

A petition has been filed with the public service commissioner of Oregon asking for permission to take up the rails of one of the Deschutes railroads. No one will deny the advisability of the move for it was considered foolish at the time to put two roads into a country that has hardly proved the need for one.

The Oregon G. A. R. is holding its last encampment. The ranks are thinning too fast and travel is too much of a burden on the remaining veterans to permit annual meetings.

Oswald Garrison Villard told the graduates of the University of Oregon that the past generation had made great strides in scientific and other materialistic pursuits but had not advanced the social affairs of mankind.

The railroads have been granted an increase on interstate rates on grain with the privilege of lowering them to meet competition. In the same week there was an announcement made that the government had definitely approved $400,000 to clear the channel above Celilo.

The question begins to arise: Does anyone ever have "social security" unless he earns it? Anyway we have gone a long way from the Spartan ideal.

Dr. Hunter newly appointed chancellor of Oregon education, has an opportunity to bring peace to an organization that has suffered from bickerings and civic warfare. He can do us a service and we can give him support.

Physicians with poor smellers are recommended under the new law that makes a doctor's certificate necessary before conviction for drunken driving. Maybe the liquor commission will develop a kind of drink that leaves the drinker smelling like a rose or a lilac as a way around the law.

The New Deal is asking for increased taxes. Nothing new about that.

STATEHOUSE GOSSIP

The state police have been mobilized ready for action the past week and they have been called out at various times, but at the present writing there has been no serious casualties. It would take considerable nerve to go up against these so-called flatfoots because they are ready and willing to take anyone "on."

By the way, this strike work is "right down his alley," and it looks bad for any who might say him "nay." The Governor has been in the army too long to look upon intimidation lightly. He gives orders as one with experience, and leave it to Charles P. Pray, superintendent of state police to carry them out.

The only political gossip the past week has been the balloons sent up by prospective candidates for attorney general. State Senator James Chinnock was at the capitol this week. He is outwardly announcing his candidacy to take the place held for the past quarter century by I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general.

Chinnock, among other things, will say that he can handle all the state's legal business with the present staff—that is as to size-of the attorney general, without the necessity of many departments hiring their own attorneys. He also states he will hire attorneys who have practiced at the bar.

His latter remark was provoked by what he states is a fact, with one exception, that of Ralph Moody. All the other attorneys in Van Winkle's office, he says, have not had actual practice in court.

In Other Days

From the Observer June 25, 1896. Willard Wing of Wasco, and Mrs. Tracy were united in the bonds of holy matrimony yesterday.

The Grass Valley Packing company received an order for 2000 pounds of cured meats for the Mitchell market last week. The next heaviest order filled was $400 worth for Canyon City.

J. M. McOlley's big freight team 4 span and three wagons, passed through Moro on the 19th headed for Dayville. His load from The Dalles was mostly lumber for Moro improvements.

J. W. Messenger, Judge Fulton, J. O. Powell, Dell Porter, Al Murchie and others left for the mines last week.

The A. O. U. W. goat trotted J. H. Maxwell, Boon Wheat and Emanuel Potter through, at the meeting of the 18th in Moro lodge No. 64.

From the Observer June 23, 1916. D. H. Wright is in charge of the blacksmith work at Foss and Co., during the absence of R. M. Benson at the coast.

Boosters Visit Pullman Station

Ralph Bennett, Pioneer Farmer, Visits Old Ranch

George Wilcox, Jack Gervais and Tom Garrett drove to Pullman, Wash. last Friday to interview the erosion control department on matters connected with the camp in Sherman county. They found the wheat country in the heavier lands in fine shape with a crop maturing that was worth the trip to sea.

Ralph Bennett, pioneer farmer of this county and still owner of a part of the place now farmed by Fred Stradley, was here Monday for a few hours. Mr. Bennett lives in Portland and makes the drive to Sherman county and return the same day.

Tirpin Hill was another old timer to visit the county this week in the interest of his farming land here. Mr. Hill lives in Forest Grove and is owner of some land farmed by Mrs. Bud Moore.

J. W. Shepard and his sisters and their boys left last week for a trip around the state, going to the coast and across the mountains to Crater Lake before their return.

Harold Hughes, school principal, was here this week to attend the annual school meeting.

Karl Eaton and Roy Tiller left for Pullman Tuesday afternoon to look over the erosion project under operation in that territory.

Mrs. Margaret Hutcheroff and children left for their home in Forest Grove this week after spending several days visiting here with her parents. Elsie Lemley returned with her.

A charivari was given for newly wedded Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ruggles upon their arrival home Thursday night of last week. They will live on the Ruggles ranch south of town.

Bob Poley and Barbara Walpole are home from the University of Oregon where they have been spending the winter in pursuit of education.

Mrs. R. H. Johnson was hostess to the bridge club Wednesday afternoon at her home in town.

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Poley were in Portland last week on business and bring Bob part of the way home with them.

Mrs. Helene Lemley and Mrs. Ben Leghorn are new victims of the mumps epidemic and Arzell Arzell Lemley is in bed recovering from a minor operation.

Frank Kargyl was here on business this week from The Dalles.

Mrs. Glen King and Mrs. Matt Simon were in The Dalles Saturday to attend the funeral of James in Moro Tuesday by auto via the Columbia highway. They report traveling in rain and mud for a considerable distance after leaving the pavement.

O. A. Ramsey has remodeled his barn into a garage to house his new automobile, having traded his Old Dobbin off in the auto purchase.

While sharpening a hoe on the Hansell farm near Erskine, Horace Armstrong cut his left arm below the elbow, needing several stitches to close the wound.

From the Observer June 22, 1906. Dr. Marie Goffin, Mrs. Bruce and Miss Lois Ruggles, left for the Goffin farm on Klickitat Tuesday for a brief outing.

Miss Cora Davis is quite rapidly recovering her health, which is very gratifying to her family and a large circle of friends. She returned to Grass Valley Wednesday, to prepare for a month sojourn at the Martin Springs.

Simon Elcock and wife are attending the G. A. R. encampment at Grants Pass. Misses Minnie and Nora are home-keeping.

Grant Kellogg has broken out again. He is looking for a snap in the Burns country.

Dellinger. Corliss Andrews is suffering from neuritis and carries his head in a peculiar position therefore. Mrs. William Beuther returned from the hospital Monday after under going an operation for sinus trouble.

ic, "Youth and the Republic." first sounded a warning against such doctrines as fascism, communism, and other forms of government that have for an objective the submerging of the individual and individual rights, and thoroughly scored leaders of such movements, both abroad and in this country.

Staunchly defending the Government of this country, Mr. Villard said: "It is not the system which is at fault, nor the theories of self government which lie behind it. It is the engineers at the throttles of the mighty engine, the conductors of the great train of state, who are guilty of the shortcoming evident. The weaknesses are not beyond remedy, the faults not beyond cure."

Paying a tribute to W. S. U'Ren, father of the initiative and referendum in Oregon, Mr. Villard said: "Here is the state of Mn U'Ren, who singlehanded gave a superb new impulse to democratic forms, I bespeak again more democracy through a nation-wide initiative and referendum, as to whether we shall enter the League of Nations, as a nation whether we shall or shall not arm to the teeth, as to whether the federal government shall or shall not exercise those functions which the supreme court has just decided it may not—a referendum which at any time a certain number of citizens may invoke!"

Answering the question, "How to Begin?" Mr. Villard said, "Here and now highly resolve that you will go forth to make the concerns of this government your own by day and by night, year in and year out. Read of them, think of them, speak of them. Hold them your first duty in life. Let them even take precedence of the earning of your daily bread, for if your freedom goes, your content and your happiness will go as well. Your very economic existence will be taken out of your hands."

Mr. Villard became a fellow alumnus of the university, when at the conclusion of his address, he was invested with the hood which denoted the conferring of the high degree of doctor of laws upon him. At the same time, the doctor of laws degree was conferred upon Dr. Norman Franklin Coleman, former president of Reed College, Portland.

A total of 561 degrees were conferred upon students by Dr. Boyer.
