Loan Service Extended To Small Farmers

Part-term farmers and owners of small suburban farms will now be able to apply for Land Bank Commissioner loans. This was the statement made by E. M. Ehrhardt, president of the Federal Land bank after the passing of a recent act of congress, which gave authority to value such farming tracts at an amount representing a "prudent investment."

The Federal Land bank acts as agent for the Land Bank Commissioner in making this long term loan based on 75 per cent of the appraised normal value of the farm property and not exceeding $7500 to any one individual.

"The new provision should provide more adequate financing for part-time farmers in communities where dependable manufacturing or industrial employment is ordinarily available, and also for small suburban farms and farmers who derive additional income from other sources such as a gravel pit, filling station, roadside marketing stand or other commercial enterprise, provided such additional earnings meet the test of dependability and availability," explained Mr. Ehrhardt.

"Previously all loans by the Land Bank Commissioner, like loans by the Federal Land Bank were based almost entirely on the normal agricultural value of the farm. Earning power of the land is the principal factor in determining value. Farms of small acreage, however, often have stable sales and rental values in excess of their agricultural values because of location and residence improvements. Under the new act the Land Bank Commissioner is authorized to offer more adequate financing assistance in such cases.

"Where the farm income, together with earnings from other dependable sources ordinarily available, is sufficient to support the borrower's family, pay operating expenses, keep up the farm and meet the loan payments, the property may be valued at an amount representing a prudent investment, consistent with community standards.

"The broadening of the purposes for the Commissioner's loans should help to provide more adequate credit for part-time farmers, especially in areas where part-time employment is ordinarily available in established industries such as in factories or plants, pulp and excelsior mills, or fishing and sea-food industries."

County Gets To Keep $6000 Says Court

It was recently decided by the state supreme court that the counties will not have to repay the money they borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation a few years ago for work relief. Sherman county borrowed $6070 and the work was done on the Sherar road during the winter. It was not thought at the time that the money would ever be returned to the government and this supposition has proven true.

AAA Reserves Make Allotments Four Cents More

Compliance Forms For Oregon Nearly Ready To Go

An increase of four cents a bushel on wheat allotment benefits for the 1935 crop has been announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, although the processing tax on wheat has been continued at the former figure of 30 cents a bushel.

The additional adjustment payments to farmers are made possible through reserves accumulated from the tax on wheat production by farmers not under allotment contracts according to an explanation that was received by the Oregon State college extension service.

The increased payment will not result in any deficit in the wheat budget since available funds are ample to cover the increase, the Washington announcement stated.

The increase in payments will mean more than $370,000 additional to cooperating growers in Oregon. The entire benefit payment for 1935 for Oregon growers will amount to approximately $3,082,000 it is estimated.

Compliance forms for Oregon are being filled out rapidly and are being forwarded to Washington as soon as completed. Work of auditing the compliance reports started the second week in July, according to Washington officials, and will be followed shortly by actual disbursement of checks covering the final payment for 1934 and the first payment of 1935.

The first 1935 payment will again be 20 cents a bushel on the allotments, while the final payment under the present three year contract, will be at least 13 cents a bushel, less the necessary deduction for local cost. Oregon extension men say the deduction this year will be somewhat less than last, when the average for the state was 1.3 cents a bushel on allotments. The change for benefit payments for 1935 has nothing whatever to do with the pending new contracts, to be available sometime this summer, the Washington officials emphasize. Farmers from many parts of the country, who were in conference with the AAA officials recently, made a number of suggestions for inclusion in these new contracts.

It is possible that arrangements will be made in the new program for making the entire year's payment at one time. However, a proposal was tentatively approved to retain a second payment and make it somewhat flexible in amount, according to changes in the market price of wheat during the crop year. The growers also strongly advocated giving county committees more discretion in making local adjustments as to base acreage and other details.

4-H Exhibit Will Be Larger and Superior to Any

Salem, Ore., July 18. (Special)—"The 4-H club exhibit this year at the State Fair, August 31—Sept. 7, will be by far the biggest and I think the best that we have ever had." H. C. Seymour, state club leader, declared on his return from a trip over the state.

"Let me say that I have gone around over the state and talked with our club workers, extension agents, and others interested in the club program, I have found that they are all planning to come to the State Fair with the very best exhibit possible. Interest on the part of the young people is most keen and county fair boards are changing dates of their fairs in order to have theirs out of the way before the State Fair, thus holding their elimination contests, and selecting only the best to go to the State Fair. This of course pertains to their club exhibits."

Club members who last year won scholarships to the State 4-H Summer School which was recently held at Corvallis are again planning on showing exhibits. The scholarships will again be given at the State Fair this year, August 31—September 7, for first place in project work or demonstration or judging team work.
