

Moro Man Judge At Fair In Morrow County

Sadie Williams Married To Marshfield Man In Stevenson

D. E. Stephens and Merrill Oveson left Thursday morning for Heppner where Mr. Stephens will judge the field crop exhibits at the Morrow county fair. Later they will go to Pendleton to confer with government officials on the establishment of a weed control station in the northwest.

Miss Sadie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, was married Saturday afternoon at Stevenson, Wash., to Robert Dunlop. They will make their home in Marshfield.

Mrs. A. O. Ramsey was taken to Tue-Dalles hospital Saturday with an ailment that has not been diagnosed. She is getting along very well and is expected home within a few days.

For sale or trade, cash or terms, make offer. Home and acreage, also four room house. W. E. Tate, Reedsport, Oregon.

Mrs. A. Douma underwent a major operation in The Dalles Monday and is reported as resting well.

W. H. Ragsdale is working in Wasco county this week for the Federal Land Bank.

For Sale a good Jack. B. E. Daugherty, or Arch Russel, Grass Valley.

Roscoe Moore and Marius Douma finished their job of gathering and crushing bunch grass seed at Shaniko last week. They had nearly 1000 pounds of seed when the job was done, enough to seed quite a patch of land back into bunch grass.

L. H. Nahoise, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Genevieve, were in The Dalles Thursday.

For Sale: Progressive Library set. Brand new. Half price. 10 years free service. See Journal.

For Sale: 90 head of coarse wool ewes. Douma Bros.

Miss Rachael Bayne, sister of Mrs. C. L. Poley, is visiting here for a few days from Salem.

Ernest Eslinger was here Wednesday afternoon from Forest Grove where he is farming.

"Seed Wheat—Pure Oro Turkey, the highest smut resistant wheat. Dalles price at my ranch. E. E. Burtner, Dufur, Ore.

J. B. Adams was in Portland last week end to visit his wife and daughter who live there.

Quite a number of local citizens spent a large part of last week in The Dalles taking part in the region convention or at least watching the events there.

Mrs. Giles French returned Sunday from The Dalles hospital where she had been for three weeks after an operation.

I. Owen Thompson of Camp Sherman has been very ill with pneumonia but is reported to be recovering in a hospital in Redmond.

Fred Pickett is expected to arrive next week to aid in putting on the concessions at the fair and to visit a bit with old friends.

Harvest being about over in this section of the county the farmers are in town oftener to look at the wheat market and catch up on their summer visiting.

FEVER

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, nationally known medical health authority and president of the Chicago Board of Health, made the following statement in speaking of the air-conditioned trains:

"This contribution to the health and comfort of the traveling public should give real encouragement to those who in the past have suffered because of the atmospheric conditions associated with cross-country travel, especially those afflicted with hay fever."

You may forget about the heat and pollen-laden dust of all forms of highway travel, forget all fear of travel from past discomforts and danger of highway hazards and accidents. Union Pacific has banished all of that with its safe air-conditioned coaches on the Portland Rose, Pacific Limited and other fine transcontinental trains, also on the Spokane. You don't know what travel comfort is until you are on one of its new air-conditioned trains enjoying cool, clean, quiet, health-giving comforts not even found at home.

Coach and tourist car patrons on The Portland Rose now enjoy new low cost meals in air-conditioned comfort, only 25 cents for breakfast, 30 cents for luncheon and 35 cents for dinner, and free pillows, free drinking cups, and free porter service. Ask your Union Pacific agent for full information.

Brother of Grass Valley Man Shot In Hold-up

Local Woman Hurt In Car Accident on Highway

Charles Lemley and wife returned from Rosalia, Wash. Monday night after attending the funeral of Bert Lemley, Mr. Lemley's youngest brother, who was killed by bank robbers while acting in his official capacity as marshal of Rosalia during the recent bank robbery there. Mr. Lemley says his brother was shot while standing on the steps of the bank and trying to fire at the robbers who were inside. The one who fired the fatal shot was dressed in woman's clothes and stationed in a car on a street corner.

Chris Thomsen of Antelope was a visitor in Grass Valley Tuesday. Viggo Haufelt, former resident of this county, was here Saturday. He has purchased the dental equipment and location of Dr. Butler and will move to Wasco this week. Mrs. Haufelt will be remembered as Isabelle Duncan, a former school teacher of the county.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Arch Fortner, Friday August 16, a boy. Mr. and Mrs. Matt Simon drove to Portland Saturday returning Sunday evening.

George Wilcox and family were in Newberg Wednesday morning of last week and returned the same day.

Vern McGowan and wife were here until Wednesday of this week while on their way home to Pendleton from Eugene where Mac has been attending summer school. Mr. McGowan will teach in Pendleton again this year.

W. Ray Blake and family were visiting in Portland Sunday driving down Saturday.

Henry Tetz and family have gone on to Rufus after spending a few days here with Mrs. Tetz's parents.

Mrs. Alice McGuire was injured Sunday night when she either fell or jumped from an oil truck being driven by Darrel Altermatt, according to information received here Monday. She was taken to the Mid-Columbia hospital in The Dalles where she is receiving attention. Bruises and cuts about her head are the major part of her injuries. The accident occurred near Stiles on the Deschutes.

Harvesting is about over in this section of the county and while some more wheat will be delivered to the houses before that job is ended the cutting of grain is history on most farms.

Vere Pike is back from the music camp at Wallowa lake where she has been for the past two weeks taking music instruction. F. C. Simpson was one of the teachers. Several local citizens and legion-

THANK YOU

We wish to express our appreciation of the consideration, cooperation and neighborliness shown by our customers during the recent interruption of service caused by the fire between The Dalles and Hood River.

Interruptions of this sort are regrettable and at times unavoidable. When they occur, the duty of the organization is to restore service at the earliest possible moment. In our opinion, the men of Pacific organization who rebuilt practically a mile of line in less than twenty-four hours did an outstanding job. We express publicly our sincere appreciation of the work done by these men. Loyalty and efficiency such as they displayed are indispensable elements in the maintenance of Pacific Power & Light Company service.

We share in the public gratitude to the men of the Forest Service and the CCC and SERA workers for their valiant efforts in controlling the fire.

Pacific Power & Light Company

naires were in The Dalles the last of the week to see the events of the state convention of ex-service men.

John McNeil has moved his family into the old Hollis Wilcox house this week.

Bud Eslinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Eslinger of Hillsboro, is visiting here with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barnum.

Bud Coon, V. A. Baker, Tom Kaufman and Henry Clements are working under J. B. Burton as car counters this week. This is the second week counting the first being last month when much the same crew worked.

Mrs. Matt Simon had her tonsils removed at The Dalles hospital Wednesday.

BROTHERS UNDER THE SKIN

A bond salesman temporarily out of a job ran into a friend who owned a circus and asked him for something to do.

"Well, the gorilla recently died," said the friend, "and if you want to get into his skin, swing on the trapeze, growl a bit and frighten the children, you can have the job."

The man filled the bill well until one day the rope on which he was swinging snapped and he was catapulted into the lion's cage.

The lion, seeing him, let out a lusty roar to which he offered a timid yelp. The lion roared more menacingly. The pseudo-gorilla lost his nerve and becoming entirely human, backed into a corner yelling, "Help - Help!"

The lion thereupon came closer and said in a hoarse whisper: "Shut your mouth, you fool, you are not the only bond salesman out of a job."

—The Cackler.

He: "They tell me the Colonel is a hexagenarian."
She: "The old fool! And at his age too!"

Lifeguard (with girl in arms): "Sir, I have just resuscitated your daughter."
Father: "Then, by gad, you'll marry her."

Camps Expected To Be Going By October 1

Big Program Being Started In Soil Conservation

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, Pullman, Washington, August 1935—Following the announcement last week by Northwest Soil Conservation Service officials that the enrollment of men for work in Washington, Oregon, and Idaho CCC camps engaged in soil erosion work has been temporarily halted until the harvest crews are fully manned, came the statement today from Robert Fechner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, that more than 46,000 CCC are now actively engaged in soil conservation duties. It is expected that all of the camps in Washington, Oregon and Idaho will be occupied by full companies of men around October 1.

There are now 230 erosion control camps in operation in thirty states, according to Fechner. When the expansion program of the CCC is completed, a total of 112,000 men and 542 camps will be engaged in this work under the direction of the Soil Conservation Service.

Under the new allocation, nineteen states, mostly in the South and Central West will receive camps. These will be distributed over farming regions where the soil has been impoverished through water and wind erosion.

"Many of these camps will be operated in connection with large-scale erosion control demonstrations," H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service, said in describing the work to be done by the new camps. "On these watershed projects a coordinated attack of land-use planning will be carried forward under the supervision of technicians of the Soil Conservation Service. Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees will assist in the construction of check dams, diversion ditches, and other gully control methods, in the construction of terrace outlets, in reforesting and reseeding slopes too steep for safe cultivation and in other approved methods of erosion control.

"Where camps are operated apart from a demonstration area these same conservation measures will be carried out on as large a scale as possible. Results thus far obtained from the millions of trees planted and the thousands of gully control structures built have shown conclusively that soil erosion can be cured."

Benefits similar to the two and three bushel per acre increase from pea and wheat residue utilization have been obtained by adding ten tons of straw manure to the stubble before plowing.

Officials in the Wildhorse Creek area expect still greater differences than were measured at the Pendleton field station because of a higher precipitation.

The utilization of crop residue is a necessary part of the program, to check soil erosion on cultivated lands, Conservation Service officials pointed out. Maintaining this trashy, absorptive layer of topsoil aids in reestablishing soil structure and also establishes favorable mechanical barriers to soil erosion that will absorb the rain and lessen run-off and aid ravine and gully control.

"Is this the Fidelity Insurance Company?"

"Yes, ma'am, it is. What can we do for you?"

"I want to arrange to have my husband's fidelity insured."
