SCHOOLS

Criticisms leveled against the schools at the institute Tuesday included a charge that did not develop to a very full extent the innate abilities of the pupils...

There was a surprised ejaculation from Austin Landreth when he heard rural schools did not have courses in home economics, there was an implied plea in Dr. Poling's talk for a better understanding of spiritual values.

All of which is merely evidence that parents and teachers are interested in the schools and are in almost violent disagreement about what to do about it.

Some teachers point out that this is impossible; that children will be individuals, will develop along lines that suit them instead of suiting their parents.

Perhaps schools will never please the parents who send their offspring to them with high hopes of financial, social, scholastic, or political success.

There is hope for improvement as long as the public interest remains as long as parents and teachers are still trying to improve.

OUR COUNTY

This county has always claimed to be the biggest little county in the state but it has been years since substantial proof was given out by an authority so reliable as the United States Department of Commerce.

Each farmer in Sherman county controls more dollars in his farm than those of any other county in the state that is reported to date.

We are third in tillable acres in the state although being among the smaller counties in actual size. Within the boundaries of this county are less than one percent of the total acres of the state, but we have 5.7 percent of the tilled acres here or about one seventeenth.

All of which tends toward the conclusion that while we may not support as many people as other counties we support them in better style.

x-?x-?z-?x

With mixed feelings we observed this week in a contemporary daily a picture of a Sherman county lad with his prize-winning heifer which was fine, except that it was labeled, Bobby King, MORROW county 4-H club boy.

Portlanders have been engaged in the past few weeks in agitating for a change of place names. It may be just as well after all as they don't seem to be able to learn the ones we have now.

The league of Nations has been so slow in its actions since its formation the few have any confidence in its effectiveness. In the case now before the public it has failed to save a single Ethiopian life to date but if the nations who agreed to impose sanctions against her really do so Italy will be punished very well for what it gains in Africa.

No country in the world has had any luck persecuting radicals whether communists, or other kind. Better education and working conditions will be more effective.

Uncle Bill, who lost his money playing the slot machines is now looking for a job with the county busting up the ones that have been condemned.

Sherman county was awarded $4600 from the WPA for road improvement. Don't all speak at once.

The writers of "Sweet Adeline" protest that their song is sung by all drunks. The neighbors also protest.

The outlook for Italians is getting darker in several ways.

STATE AFFAIRS

Establishment of a naval base was predicted by General White who said that if the United States did not fortify the point an invader might be the one to build there.

California should support a campaign for a Tongue point naval base, said White, since an invader after seizing the undefended Columbia river would operate south from there.

Governor Martin, 72 on Oct. 1 is the second oldest governor in the United States. Oldest is Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, Connecticut, 73. But being past the allotted three score and ten worries Governor Martin not at all.

Mark H. Skinner, Portland, took office last week as state superintendent of banks succeeding A.A. Schramm, who is on his first vacation in eight years.

Eastern Oregon next year will start growing broom corn, a new industry for the state.

Boardman, Hermiston and The Dalles will be the sites of the new crop. The state alone buys nearly $20,000 worth of broomcorn each year for its blind trades school in Portland. It has always been ordered from southern and mid-western states at a high price.

Try Journal advertising, it pays.
