HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R-MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

Markets and gardens are offering almost everything in the way of summer vegetables these days, and there is variety enough to satisfy the most careful house keeper as well as the most capricious appetite. But to serve these vegetables in a truly appetizing manner involves a knowledge of vegetable cookery. And vegetable cookery involves the use of other foods.

For a greater variety in flavor and texture, we cook vegetables in different ways and in many combinations with other products. However, milk and cheese combined with vegetables, not only add variety but they increase the nutritive content of the meal as well.

Some housewives are troubled by the curdling of the milk when heated in combination with certain other foods. But that is because she hasn't learned the secret of thickening the milk, or in other words, making it into a white sauce before combining it with the vegetables. It is the casein in milk which is precipitated in curds when the milk is heated in a mixture containing even a little acid. And most vegetables contain some acid. But thickening prevents curdling by holding the casein in suspension in the liquid, so the chemists say. Even a white sauce, however, when combined with a vegetable may curdle if the mixture is heated too long or not served immediately.

Again the house wife complains of the skin that forms on the surface of the milk when the milk is heated. This skin is not attractive, but it should not be discarded because it contains important food values. The best way to prevent it is to stir the milk as it heats or beat it afterward with the egg beater. Hot cocoa or chocolate, for example, is always more inviting if well beaten before it is served.

When cheese is used it is usually added to a white sauce and then combined with other ingredients. The fact is that cheese should never be really cooked - merely heated enough to melt it. Overheating toughens or hardens cheese and also may cause a cheese mixture to separate.

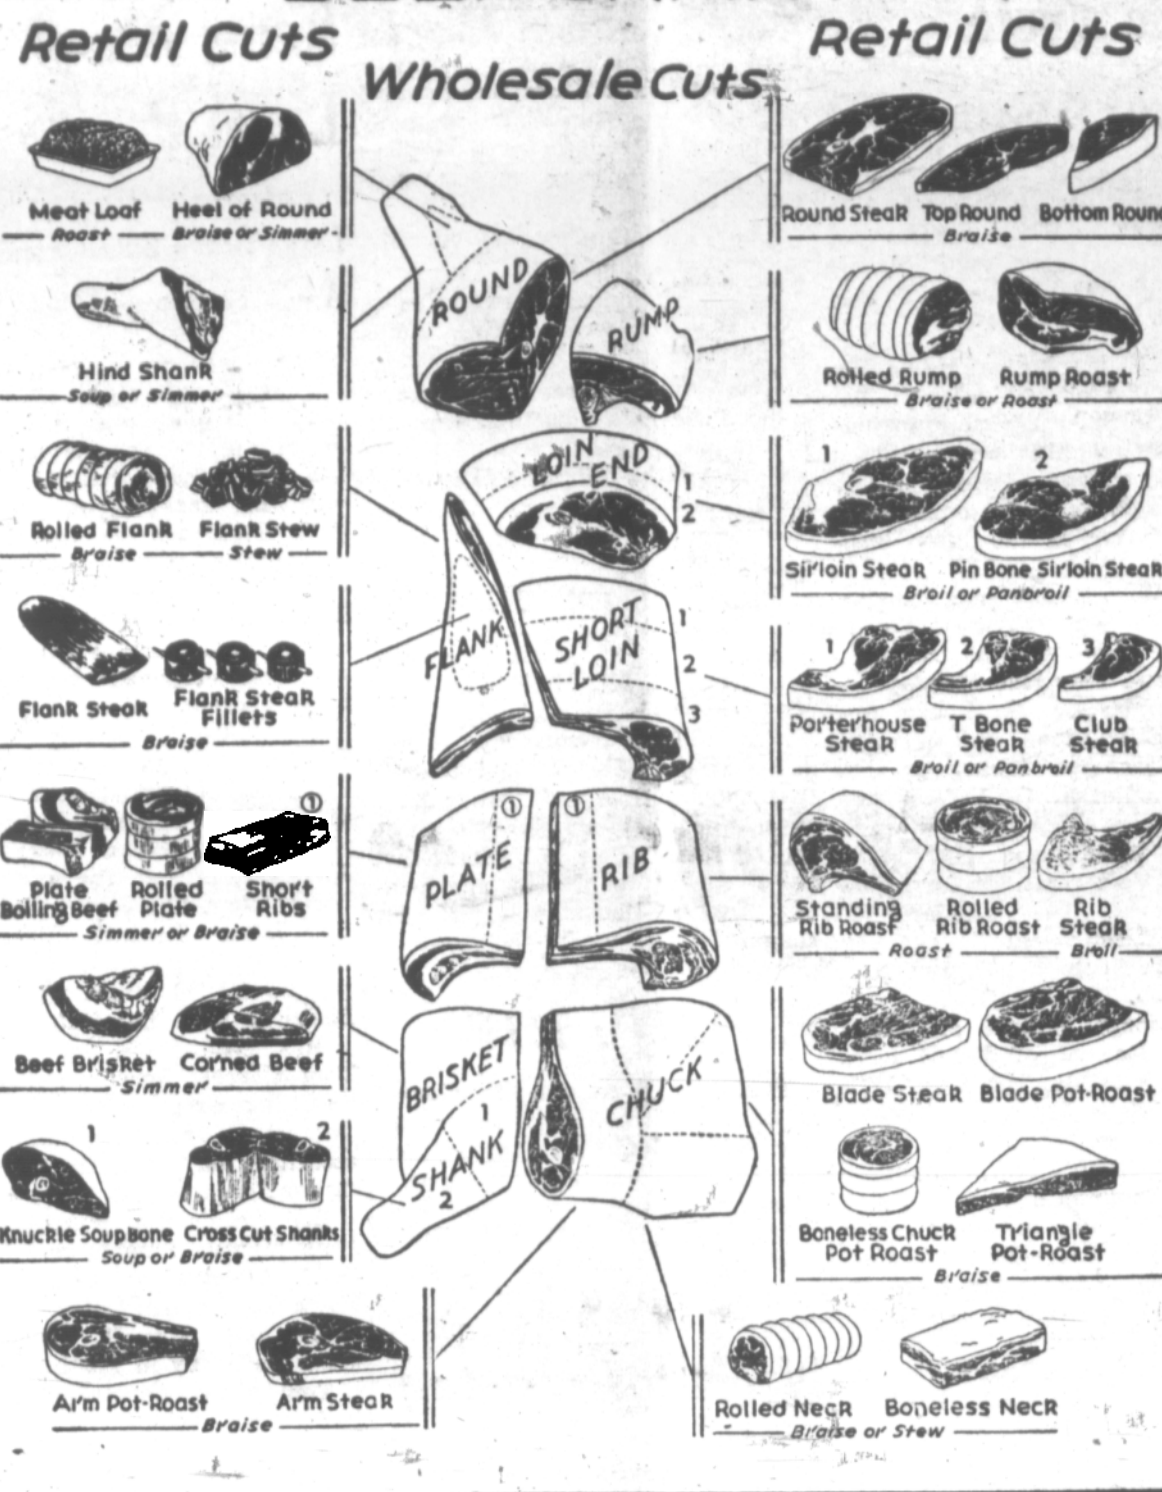

An interesting combination is found in Asparagus au Gratin. Asparagus au Gratin Four tablespoons grated cheese Two cups medium thick white sauce One can asparagus tips or Two lbs fresh asparagus Six slices of toast Add the cheese to the white sauce; place the asparagus on the toast in a baking dish. Pour the sauce over it and place in a very hot oven (450 degrees) for 12 minutes.

Meat Cuts and How to Cook Them BEEF CHART

Every housewife is confronted with the three-day question of variety in the meals she serves. In beef we become addicted to roasts or steaks and forget all about the other good beef cuts which will give pleasing variation and be easy on the pocketbook, too. Perhaps our trouble lies in the fact that we are not as familiar as we should be with many of the possibilities offered by beef. If you are one of those whose use of beef is limited to a roast or a steak, the chart given above will be invaluable in learning to identify and locate the many retail cuts of beef. The chart will show you at a glance just how each one should be cooked. You will want to preserve this chart for ready reference.

Moisture Short In Spring Wheat States

Inadequate moisture in important spring wheat areas of the United States and Canada and less favorable prospects in Europe were strengthening influences in the wheat situation during the first week in June. Important areas in Montana received beneficial rains during the week and the general situation held fairly satisfactory in western Minnesota and eastern North and South Dakota. In central and western North and South Dakota however, the crop deteriorated because of inadequate moisture. Generous rains during June will be necessary for recovery and to bring the crop through the critical period. Private estimates at the first of June forecast the domestic spring wheat crop at about 65,000,000 bushels over the 1935 outturn.

Canadian Wheat Uncertain

The outlook for spring wheat in Canada was uncertain at the first of June, unusually high temperatures and lack of rain during the last ten days of May gave grain prospects a definite reverse in southern and central sections of the Prairie Provinces and conditions were only slightly improved by scattered showers and lower temperatures early in June. In Northwest Europe and in countries of the Lower Danube, excessive rains followed by unseasonable cool weather has lowered crop conditions. Prospects in Spain and France remain unfavorable and the Italian harvest still uncertain with some rust reported. Conditions are irregular in Central Europe and heavy rains have damaged crops in Australia.

Saved $500 with a "Caterpillar" Tractor

Here is another example of the tremendous saving made possible by "Caterpillar" Diesel Tractors. Fuel saving is one thing; trouble free operation is another... "Caterpillar" Tractors offer both. No tractor can duplicate the fuel savings of a "Caterpillar" Diesel. None can prove its quality by the field success of 13,000 satisfied owners.

April 16, 1936.

Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria, Illinois

Gentlemen:

We are just one of all the satisfied owners of over eleven thousand (11,000) "Caterpillar" Diesel Tractors that are now out in active service, and we hope that the following information we have listed here shall help to sell eleven thousand more.

In July of 1932, we purchased a gas model Forty tractor. The cost of fuel to operate this machine in covering the seventy-five hundred acres was well over eight hundred dollars ($800.00) a year. In the spring of 1935 we purchased our first "Caterpillar" Tractor, which was a Diesel Forty. At present we are operating a little over fourteen hundred more acres of land and are now covering some eighty-nine hundred acres. The total cost of the fuel for the 1935 season amounted to Two Hundred Thirty Six Dollars ($236.00) or a savings of better than FIVE HUNDRED SIXTY FOUR DOLLARS.

Listed is an accurate check of the various operations: Drilling with three ten-foot drills . . . . .0175 per a. Weeding with three twelve-foot drills . . . . .0175 per a. Disc plowing two six-foots . . . . .04 per a. Combining twenty foot No. 36 . . . . .0078 per a.

Yours very truly,

NELSON BROTHERS.
