When You Buy Your Tractor

Look For Simplified Design

Note for example that the "Caterpillar" TWENTY-TWO Tractor has fewer gears and bearings in its transmission . . . allowing the use of larger, stronger parts. Doing away with power waste. Employing only the parts needed to carry the power directly and efficiently to the job!

Look Out For Intricate Design

A sure sign either of inexperienced engineering, or an attempt to "get around" "Caterpillar" patents. Ask for catalogs and literature that will enable a point-for-point comparison of the "Caterpillar" TWENTY-TWO Tractor with any other make. And then ask what owners say.

"It certainly is wonderful how pictures have advanced these last few years," said Porter.

"How so?"
"Well, first we had the silent pictures, then the talkies, and now this one smells!"

"Yessir, Judge," said Oscar, "I plead self-defense."

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to consignee's door.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

High Protein Found In Canadian Wheat

Little change was apparent in prospects for spring wheat. Cutting and threshing was under way in the domestic spring wheat states and the crop was nearing maturity in Canada. Early samples from Minnesota and the Dakotas showed high protein content and test weights ranging from 52 to 58 lbs. Drouth and high temperatures persisted over the western grain belt although scattered showers gave slight relief. Crop damage was intensified and extended and a huge grain area has been irreparably damaged. Prospects are fair in eastern and central parts of Saskatchewan and northern districts of Alberta. Trade estimates place the North American spring wheat crop at 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels under the 1935 outturn.

World Stocks Down

The world situation at the beginning of the new North American season appears considerably stronger than in any recent year. World stocks have been reduced to nearly normal levels and Northern Hemisphere harvests outside of Russia and China seem likely to be 75,000,000 to 80,000,000 bushels under those of a year ago with early indications suggesting a relatively high percentage of medium to lower grade wheat. The quality of the new domestic winter wheat crop appears generally satisfactory with current marketings showing good weight and protein content up to the high level of two years ago, but the prolonged drouth and intensive heat has resulted in much light spring wheat. Rains during harvest have lowered the quality of grain in Europe and have caused considerable loss from lodging.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

Hot weather does not as a rule destroy the appetite for hot breads. Although a hot oven is hard on the cook when the weather is also hot, the oven heated for other purposes may as well be utilized for bread too. With a gas oven that heats quickly or with an electric or any other insulated oven, the ten or twenty minutes needed to bake biscuits, rolls or muffins does not count heavily against the attractiveness of hot bread with the cold plate luncheon, for example.

And bread which is always one of the chief energy foods may very well be the one food in that class on a summer menu. Served with a large vegetable salad or an extra green vegetable or fruit, in place of the starchy vegetable, bread mixed and baked for the occasion, may easily be used to round out the nutritive content of the meal.

Rolls or biscuits are always made with milk, - sweet milk, sour milk or buttermilk. Muffins and other batter breads as a rule contain both milk and eggs, furnishing these additional food values. A meal then, furnishing hot breads, fresh fruits and vegetables, meat or meat substitute, and milk has all the kinds of foods we need.

There are two main classes of bread - the yeast bread and quick breads. Yeast breads take longer to rise; quick breads are so called because they rise at once. Despite the slow rising of yeast breads there is a way to provide hot rolls at any meal without much trouble, and only 15 or 20 minutes in the oven. A recipe for these popular refrigerator rolls is given below.

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS
1 cake compressed yeast
1-2 cup butter

1-2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
8 cups soft wheat flour
1 1-2 tsp salt
2 cups milk

Soften the yeast in 1-4 cup lukewarm water. Add the butter and sugar to the scalded milk, then cool and add these to the beaten egg. Combine with the yeast and water. Stir in the flour and salt until the dough is stiff enough to knead. Toss on a floured board and knead from 10 to 15 minutes or until the dough is smooth and elastic. Put the dough in a greased bowl, grease the surface of the dough and keep in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Turn out onto the board, knead, grease the surface of the dough again, cover and put in refrigerator.

Next day, or when ready to use the rolls, cut off the amount of dough required, shape into rolls in the baking pan, put them in a warm place and let them rise to double their bulk. Then bake from 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven. The remaining dough will keep in the refrigerator for 3 or 4 days, or even a week. Less sugar may be used, but the dough loses sweetness when kept over.

Prepare summer meals in cool comfort!

An electric range sends its heat into your food ... does not make your kitchen a "bake oven"!

The oven of an electric range even when used for several hours raises your kitchen temperature only about 1°. This is because rock wool insulation keeps the heat inside the oven where it belongs. The surface units direct their heat into utensils, too.

Because the temperature control does your oven watching, you don't have to flood your kitchen with heat every few minutes peaking and turning your food. You just open the oven, door once when the clock says your food has been in the correct length of time and remove your dinner.

Thus when you have an electric range, your kitchen stays comfortable. Why continue to sweater in the heat of some old-fashioned cooking method? Electric ranges are priced so that you can afford them. You'll find the terms convenient. Start enjoying real cooking comfort. Visit an electric range dealer or our nearest office today.

Enjoy a refreshing bath ANY TIME!

A hot bath is the most cooling bath you can take. And when you have an automatic electric water heater, you can bathe any time you desire for there's plenty of hot water on tap. Your house doesn't become overheated through keeping up a range or furnace fire. You don't have to remember to light or turn off your heater. Your hot water supply is as automatic as your cold water supply. Ask us to tell you more about electric hot water service . . . and about our low water heating rate.
