Pin Ball Machines May Be Ruled Out

The legality of marble boards, pin-ball machines and motion picture theatre "bank nights" will be argued before the state supreme court this fall.

Whether the coin machines are games of skill and lawful amusement devices or gambling paraphernalia will have to be determined by the state's highest tribunal. And whether "bank night" is within the law or beyond the pale as a lottery will also have to be settled.

The decision will be state-wide in scope. Either the marble machines, which are reputed to have a "take" of $4,000,000 per year, will continue to operate or they will go.

Ralph E. Moody, assistant state's attorney-general and special prosecutor of gambling and vice cases in Marion county, started the questions on their way through the courts. After stopping the operation of the machines in Salem, convicting a Salem policeman of bribery and unsuccessfully trying the city's chief of police twice for alleged negligence in failing to prosecute known gamblers, Moody suddenly ordered Sheriff A. C. Burk of Marion county to stop the operation of all marble boards, pin-ball games and "bank nights" within nine days.

On the last day of grace, attorneys obtained temporary restraining orders preventing state or county officials from seizing or destroying the machines at least until September 17, when arguments on a permanent injunction will be heard.

Mother—Certainly not, my dear; it's far too deep.
Boy—But Daddy is swimming.
Mother—Yes, dear, but he's insured.

Riff—Did your grand father live to a ripe old age?
Raff—No; he lived to a green old age. He was swindled four times after reaching the age of 70.

She—I ought to leave you and go home to mother.
He (angrily)—Well, why don't you?
She—I can't. She's left father and is coming here.

Crabshaw—If I find I have to stay away more than one night I will send you a telegram.
Mrs. Crabshaw—Never mind, I've read it already—I found it in your coat pocket.

Nothing in the way of a summer dessert is more refreshing than peaches. No breakfast fruit is more inviting. In fact, fresh peaches are a most appetizing addition to any meal.

Having a very individual flavor and considerable juice, they are particularly delicious served with rich thick cream. Peaches and cream! We have been looking forward to them the entire spring and summer.

But there are many other ways of serving peaches. They may be substituted for berries in any of the various ways you have been serving berries during the late spring and early summer. Peaches may be served over shortcake with whipped cream, as a peach cobbler, in an up-side-down cake, fresh peach pie, or pudding. Cooked or raw, served hot or cold, peaches have a luscious flavor.

Just before baking have you ever covered the top of a plain butter cake with thin slices of peaches? Bake it the usual length of time and top with whipped cream when it is served at the table. If you are baking your cake in layers put them together with a whipped cream filling. It offers a delicious and different dessert.

Plain cup cakes, either fresh or left over, can be varied for dessert by splitting the cake, putting fruit between the layers and serving with whipped cream or a fruit sauce.

Thoroughly enjoy fresh peaches while they are on the market. The season isn't long and with the many and varied ways of serving them, there is little excuse for not serving them daily. On at least two occasions try the recipes listed below.

Fresh Peach Tapioca
1-4 cup quick cooking tapioca
3 cups water
1 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups fresh sliced peaches
1 tablespoon butter

Cook the tapioca and water in a double boiler for 15 minutes, add the sugar, butter, salt and lemon juice. In a greased baking dish, make alternate layers of the tapioca and peaches with a layer of the peaches on top. Bake in a moderate oven until the peaches are tender or until slightly browned on top. Serve either hot or cold with cream.

Fresh Peach Mousse
6 medium sized peaches
1-4 to 1-2 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons of cold water
1 teaspoon of lemon juice
1 cup of whipping cream
2 teaspoons gelatin

Choose well ripened peaches. Peel seed and press through a sieve; their should be 1 1-2 cups puree. Add sugar, the amount depending on tartness of peaches. Soak gelatin 5 minutes in cold water; then stand over hot water until dissolved. Add to peaches and stir thoroughly. Chill until syrupy. Add vanilla and lemon juice, whip cream until stiff, and fold thoroughly into peach mixture. Turn into freezing tray and freeze. Yield: 5 servings.

OTHER TIMES sought assurance in the sound of the town crier's bell. Today people find a real sense of security in their telephones.

Is your home a part of this close-knit, modern, telephone using world? May we tell you more about the service?

THE PACIFIC TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Freight trains nowadays act like express specials. New freight schedules are so fast, sometimes wonder if everything has to be delivered day before yesterday.

Many of our passenger trains are running faster schedules, too. Well, one thing is sure. We make faster runs, but the first railroad commandment is still "Safety First." That's one rule they won't change.

Western railroads and allied industries provided jobs for 750,000 workers last year. Some of them live in our town. Good neighbors.

Passenger fares are now the lowest in history with substantial reductions on round trips. And no more surcharge for riding in sleeping cars.

This Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight—I heard some traveling salesmen talking about it on the train yesterday. They said it saves shippers a lot of money and centers all responsibility on the railroad. The railroad picks up the freight at shipper's door and delivers it at receiver's door. Of course, the local delivery men get the haul from door-to-car and car-to-door at both ends. But the railroad handles the whole transaction.

When railroads are busy, I notice towns along the railroad are prosperous. The merchants put more ads in the newspapers.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.
