Grass Valley Gives First Play Of Fall Season

The Grass Valley high school presented their annual high school fall play last Saturday when they offered the populace the three act farce "The Ghost Parade."

The play was particularly noted for the large cast to which it gave experience, twelve of the sixteen appearing never having appeared in a high school play before. The leading parts were hard to find as the burden of the play was somewhat scattered evenly over the entire cast.

Ivan Blagg carried the greater part of the comedy burden and was acclaimed by the Sunday morning critics as being the highlight of the production. What romance entered in was handled by Anita Dunlap and Louise Roth with the more or less enthusiastic cooperation of Everett Dunlap and James Blagg.

The rest of the cast included: Kenneth Barnett, Ramona Spoor, Gladys Payne, Blanche Garrett, Filene Houge, Betty Olds, Guy Vintin, Willard Rolfe, Warren Morgan, Norman Adams, and Wanda Tiller. C. P. Rowe coached.

The Mermaid Tavern met at the home of Doris Stradley, Tuesday evening. An enjoyable evening was spent discussing English literature.

Report cards were given out Monday morning to the sorrow of some of the students and the delight of others. Those students on the honor roll were: Senior—Frances Fairchild and Emma Ellen Fortner; Sophomores—Thelma Fortner and Eilene Hogue; Freshman—Bill Todd.

Boys basketball practice started Monday evening with Arden Squire as coach.

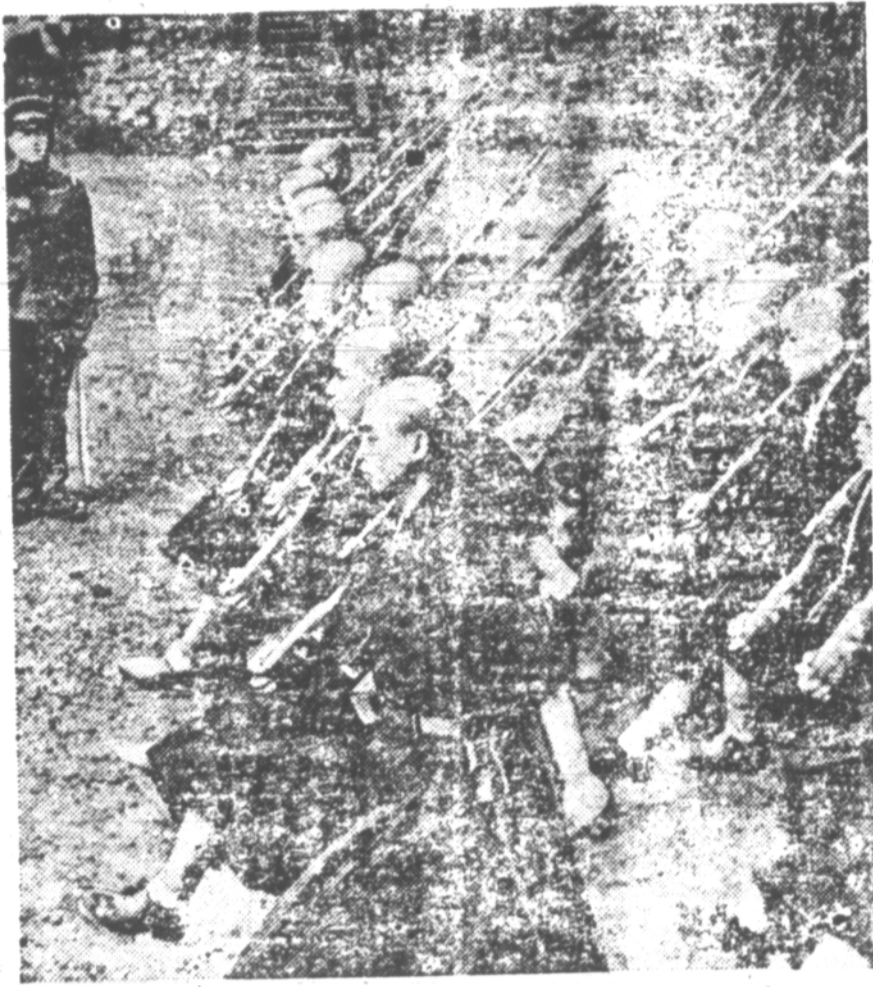

Mike—The trouble with you is that you don't have any social tact.

Matt—That's just where you're wrong. When it comes to social tact I have it.

Mike—Say, I'll bet you don't know what social tact means.

Matt—Sure I do. Social tact is making your company feel at home, although you wish they were there.

E. O. W. I. Committees Appointed

The ninth annual meeting of the Eastern Oregon Wheat League will be held at Heppner, December 4 and 5. C. W. Smith, assistant state county agent leader and secretary of the League, has just announced.

Among the principal topics to be discussed at this year's convention are perennial noxious weed control, an agricultural conservation program for 1937, the feeding of wheat to livestock, Columbia river development, cooperative marketing of farm products, crop insurance, social security, the effect of currency valuation on trade, substitute crops for eastern Oregon, and needed changes in agricultural legislation in Oregon.

Many Counties Represented

Officers of five committees have already been appointed by President E. H. Miller of Lexington and the executive committee. The remainder of the membership of these five important groups will be selected in the near future by the county executive committees elected at last year's meeting, says Mr. Smith. The committee officers selected are as follows:

- Committee on Weed Control and Soil Conservation: O. L. Babcock, Pendleton, chairman; W. E. Ruckman, Alice, vice chairman.
- Committee on Finance, Taxation and State Legislation: E. M. Hadden, Arlington, chairman; George

- Peck, Lexington, vice chairman.
- Committee on Production, Handling and Marketing: Harry Proudfoot, Wasco, chairman; Charles Harth, The Dalles, vice chairman.
- Committee on Transportation and Rural Electrification: Bert Johnson, Ione, chairman; Lloyd Smith, Mayville, vice chairman.
- Committee on Federal Agricultural Programs: Mac Hoke, Pendleton, chairman; James Hill, Pendleton, vice chairman.

Diseases Affected By Heredity Says Scientist

The part which heredity plays in determining our physique and mental capacity is well known. What is not generally realized is the extent to which disease is influenced by our heredity. The application of present knowledge of heredity has done much to limit the progeny of the grossly unfit. Thus, eugenics is attempting to eliminate malformed bodies and defective minds. There are, however, obvious difficulties in the way of applying an eugenics program to the transmission of disease or special weaknesses.

The question of the inheritance of disease has always been a popular one, and the importance of heredity has consequently been exaggerated. Contrary to popular opinion, there are very few inheritable diseases. Many diseases which have long had a reputation of "running in the family" are not inherited but are probably the result of the inheritance of a specific tendency or lack of immunity toward a disease.

The only inheritable disease of real importance is syphilis. It is transmitted directly from the parent to the child. Hereditary syphilis is inexcusable because every syphilitic should undergo thorough treatment before assuming the responsibilities of parenthood. Anyone who is a victim of hereditary syphilis, may, through proper medical care, be able to live a healthy and useful life.

Many diseases such as tuberculosis and cancer, which have hewn deep notches in the same family tree, are no longer believed to be transmissible.

These diseases undeniably tend to "run in the family," yet modern medical science says that the weakness or lack of immunity is inherited and not the disease itself. The tendency toward heart and kidney diseases, such as arteriosclerosis may also be inherited.

There is no reason to resign oneself to fate because one's parents were the victims of a disease such as tuberculosis. A family history of tuberculosis should be considered important information, for with present medical knowledge, an adequate program of personal hygiene and medical care, will more than compensate for the weakness. Immunity or lack of immunity against certain communicable diseases may be inherited. In certain families there is a tendency to have nearly all of the common children's diseases, while in others even the most common ones, such as measles and whooping cough, may not be present. In families having pre-disposition to disease the parents are more likely to take every opportunity to protect their children from exposure. They are also more likely to accept modern preventive treatments such as vaccination against small-pox, diphtheria, typhoid fever and whooping cough. Knowledge of the hereditary factor in health is, then, extremely vital to those who have reason to suspect a family weakness. Unfavorable heredity may be a blessing in disguise to the intelligent, and a good family heredity may be a curse for the careless and ignorant.

If your whole family dreads winter wash days...

START YOUR All-Electric HOME LAUNDRY NOW!

Our free laundry plans are very helpful!

Does winter laundering fill your home with steam... turn it into a "Turkish Bath"? Then what you need is a well-planned room just for laundering—an all-electric home laundry!

In your laundry room, you need an electric washer and an electric ironer, which take all the drudgery out of laundering. They do the hard work—not you! They also minimize wear on your clothes and make your finished work so attractive. You also need an automatic electric water heater, which gives you effortless hot water for every household use any time you turn a faucet.

Plan for your all-electric laundry now and work toward its completion as you buy equipment. To serve as a basis for your planning, Jeannette Cramer, well-known home service advisor, has designed 6 laundries that may be built inexpensively into Northwest homes. Buy laundry equipment now at low 1936 prices!

ELECTRIC WASHER

The first appliance you need in your all-electric home laundry is a modern electric washer. The new washers are kind to even the most delicate fabrics, yet so efficient that every trace of dirt is quickly flushed away. Sturdy construction insures years of service. Low prices make 1936 models real bargains.

ELECTRIC IRONER

The next appliance you should acquire for your laundry is an electric ironer, which takes the backache out of ironing. All you do is sit and feed your pieces through. The ironer exerts all the pressure—does all the lifting and pushing—not you! And your ironing time is cut in half. Prices on electric ironers are very reasonable—terms convenient.

ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

When you have an automatic electric water heater, you not only have abundant hot water for laundering, but also for every household use... day, night, winter, summer. It's as if you have an ever-flowing hot spring in your home. Plan to install your automatic electric water heater soon. Low heater costs and our low water heating rate make automatic electric hot water service a convenience you can easily afford.
