Waterproofing Shoes Can Be Easily Done

Waterproofing boots and shoes for farm and school use protects both the wearer's health and the shoes, says Mrs. Azalea Sager, extension specialist in clothing and textiles at Oregon State college. While waterproofed shoes should not be expected to keep the feet perfectly dry if worn too long in very wet weather, they will help during rain or snow storms and on wet pavement or wet ground. They should not be expected to take the place of overshoes or boots. They keep in perspiration to a large extent, but not so much as rub ber footwear does.

One of the several simple formulas will do for waterproofing shoes, Mrs. Sager explains. They are all applied in the same way. The grease may be softer for water proofing shoes in winter than in summer time and more of it may be used, in fact, more than the leather will actually absorb, if maximum water resistance is desired. An excess does no harm in winter.

Formula 1: Natural wool grease 8 ounces; dark petrolatum, 4 ounces; paraffin wax, 4 ounces.

Formula 2: Petrolatum, 1 lb; beeswax, 2 ounces.

Formula 3: Petrolatum, 8 ounces; paraffin wax, 4 ounces; wool grease, 4 ounces; crude turpentine gum (gum thus), 2 ounces.

Formula 4: Tallow, 12 ounces; cod oil, 4 ounces.

Melt together the ingredients by warming them carefully and stirring thoroughly. Apply the grease with a swab of wool or flannel when it is warm, but never hotter than the hand can bear. Rub it well into the leather with the palm of the hand, especially where the sole is fastened to the upper.

The most convenient way to saturate the sole and welt is to let the shoes stand for about 15 minutes in a shallow pan such as a bread tin containing enough of the melted waterproofing material to cover the entire sole. Rubber heels should not be put in the grease. If the shoes have rubber heels, use a piepan to hold the melted material and set the shoes astraddle the rim of the pan with the heels out side.

At the first of the school each class was to make words for Moro High to the tune of some popular song. The juniors won the honor of having the best song. It was to the tune of "Rhythm in my nursery Rhymes." The Freshmen had two songs one to the tune of "Is it True What They Say About Dixie" and "Don't Give Up The Ship.' The Sophomores' songs were to the tunes of "At the Codfish Ball" and San Francisco." The Seniors, forgetful things, forgot their music and couldn't give their songs.

30,000 People Expected In Portland Sat.

Anticipating an influx of 30,000 persons in Portland for the Oregon Washington football game Saturday, October 31, city police authorities and officials of the Oregon State Motor association have outlined a plan for preventing the usual traffic congestion.

"The plan calls for co-operation of every motorist driving to Portland on that day," said E. B. McDaniel, president of the A. A. A. motor club. "With a limited number of traffic police it will be virtually impossible to put the plan into effect by force."

Mr. McDaniel said the part of the city near Multnomah civic stadium would be divided into five sections. The dividing streets would be West Burnside, Southwest Morrison street, Northwest Nineteenth avenue and Southwest Fourteenth avenue. Motorists arriving for the game should not cross the dividing streets, but should park their cars in the section into which the approaching highway leads. This, he pointed out, would eliminate entangling cross traffic.

Streets adjacent to the stadium will be closed to traffic.

Major truck line officials have agreed to keep their trucks off the highways from 3 a. m. until midnight on the day of the game. Portland residents will be asked to leave their automobiles at home in order that more room will be available to visitors.

Many Motorists Come

An additional 33,833 nonresident motor vehicles were registered in Oregon during the first months of 1936, according to Secretary of State Earl Snell. This increase meant a 40 percent gain over the same period last year.

This increase substantiates predictions made by Mr. Snell earlier in the spring that at least 30,000 more cars would visit Oregon in 1936 than in the previous year and gives indication of continued increases during the remainder of the year, as every month has shown a pick-up over the corresponding month of last year. More than 120,000 cars have already been registered from other states and with three months yet to be tallied at least 400,000 persons will have been guests of Oregon during 1936, estimating on a basis of three persons to each motor vehicle registering. This means a hundred thousand more visitors duting the year.

Carl Anderson of Wasco is the only nominee for county coroner being the only man nominated for that office.

C. C. Wilson of Rufus and L. H. Nahouse of Moro are the candidates for sheriff both having been nominated at the primary by their respective parties. Mr. Wilson is a service station operator and Mr. Nahouse has been deputy sheriff for seven years.

There are eight measures on the ballot none of which seem to have a large measure of popular support. The first is a referred bill that has to do with the old age pension law. It is generally agreed that it will be beaten. The truth in advertising bill is sponsored by certain dentists of the state, the Portland school tax limitation bill aims to increase taxes for schools in that city, the non-compulsory military training bill has been discussed more generally than the others and is well understood, the tax limitation measure is sponsored by property owners and would hold property taxes down and reduce them permanently. The state power bills and the state bank bill are being sponsored by the grange and organized labor. Most voters are acquainted with the provisions of both as they have been before the people before.

The nonpartisan ballot has no significance as there are no contests for positions on it. The three judges will be elected and Wily Knighten will be made school superintendent.

The election will be held from eight o'clock to eight o'clock next Tuesday in the nine precincts of Sherman county. A larger registration is on the books than for several years there being 1442 names listed. It is probable that there will be a vote of between 1100 and 1200 cast in this county.

Save Existing Safeguards

THE PROPOSED constitutional amendment titled "Amendment Forbidding Prevention or Regulation of Certain Advertising if Truthful", would, if enacted, invalidate all existing laws controlling misleading, deceptive, indecent and even fraudulent advertising. It utterly fails to replace these present enactments with adequate safeguards against vicious advertising practices.
