J. M. Wilson left Sunday for Spokane, Wash., where he will transact business.

Frank Adams and Ernest Cox were visitors at the J. L. Davis home Friday afternoon, but had to park their car on the highway and walk through the field to get there.

R. P. Barriets truck hauled eight tons of hay to the J. N. MacInnes ranch Sunday for his sheep as they were low on feed due to the snow and storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cox and son Billy were dinner guests at the J. E. Norton home Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dunlap of Grass Valley and Donald Haynes of Los Angeles, California, were visitors at Kent a short time Friday.

John K. Wilson is helping Lester Wilson with his chores and feeding the sheep while Lester's father is away.

The ground hog will have to stay in another six weeks, as we know he saw his shadow at Kent.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson left Saturday for their home near Fossil.

G. V. School

By Vere Pike
For the first time in several years, the Grass Valley Student Body will publish an annual. These annuals are to be sold to townspeople and to students. Any business or person can get one of the books by inserting an add for his or her business in the book.

The editorial staff is as follows: Editor, Emma Ellen Fortner; assistant editor, Wanda Tiller; administration editor, Guy Vinton; senior class, Frances Fairchild; junior class, Doris Stradley; sophomore class, Norman Adams; and freshman class, Dolores Simon; athletics, boys, Kenneth Barnett, girls, Ramona Spoor; activities: drama, Clarence Young; debate, Ivan Blagg; societies and clubs, Bill Roth; jokes, John Roth; art editor, Vere Pike.

The debate trip to Linfield will probably be called off, due to the fact that weather conditions have become worse rather than improved.

Those students who made the honor roll this six weeks were: freshman, Bill Todd; junior, Ramona Spoor; senior, Frances Fairchild. The average for these three persons were 1.5, 1.5, and 1, respectively.

The cast has been chosen for the one act play to be given in the spring. The play is to be the "Under Dog." The cast is as follows: Harry Belden, Clarence Young; the part of Beatrice Belden, his wife, Vere Pike; Mrs. Williams, a very slovenly woman, Doris Stradley; Eddie Morey, a Gunman, Ivan Blagg; and the Policeman who is in pursuit of the Gunman, John Roth.

Mrs. Sam Stark returned Saturday from a trip to the east where she had been visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Evans of Dee, are here visiting at the I. D. Pike home.

Dolores Simon returned home, Sunday after spending some time in The Dalles hospital.

Mrs. Bertha Smith Passes Wednesday

Mrs. Bertha Knight Smith, 52, of Grass Valley, passed away at The Dalles hospital about 6 p. m. Wednesday, February 4, 1937. She married Lester Smith on January 8, 1908.

Surviving are her widower, one brother, Ollie Knight, who lives in the Willamette valley; and one daughter, Mrs. R. G. Cunliff of Moro.

Present plans provide for the funeral services to be held in Wasco, Saturday, February 6.

CHRIST IN THE HOME
By Gilbert R. Carey
In preparation for the earthly ministry of Christ, God sent men to prepare the way. Luke 1:76 and 10:1 may well guide us in our thinking.

Now as we look at the account of Zacchaeus in Luke 19:1-10, we find we had no doubt heard of the Christ. At least there was the desire to see him. This desire was cherished until it caused him to overcome a great handicap in order to realize it. Are we making as great an effort today to see Christ and have Him in our home as did Zacchaeus?

As Christ and His disciples near the tree into which Zacchaeus had climbed the Master commands that he come down. He not only obeyed but receives Christ joyfully. The presence of Christ in his home causes him to think of other people and how he might help them.

Someone has said, "Our own comfort is increased by doing for others." When we enter our home at the close of the day, do we find comfort and rest in the assurance that we have done our best in everything throughout the day? No man or woman is at his best until he puts Christ first in his life.

Just now in your meditation, let your home be examined by four test questions. Suppose Christ in His physical form came to my home to spend the day.

1. Would anything in my daily routine be changed?
2. Would He act like we do at the table?
3. Would He indulge in my sort of recreation?
4. Would I offer Him a cigar or a drink?

As we answer these questions before God, let us realize Christ is not on earth in a physical form, but He is here in the Spirit. He will enter your life and home as He did that of Zacchaeus. If you will obey Him.
