Former Moro Resident Henry DeMoss Buried In Salem Private Cemetery

Jennie Ginn Bates was born on February 20, 1886 on a ranch near Moro, Oregon and died in Salem, Oregon June 1st, 1937 after a lingering illness.

The daughter of the late Jeanette McDonald and Robert J. Ginn was educated in the Moro public schools and entered nurses training in Walla Walla, Washington. After two years of training she left Walla Walla to recuperate from an illness at her parents home in Long Beach, Calif. She completed her course in nursing and graduated from The Dalles hospital in 1907. As a trained nurse she nursed in Portland and Vancouver.

On April 15, 1916 in Plattsburg, New York she was married to George H. Bates, an army officer and as his wife she lived at the various posts where he was stationed. For the past seven years they have resided in Salem.

Besides her husband, Captain George H. Bates, the following brothers and sisters survive. Arthur Ginn, Pendleton, Oregon; Elwood Ginn, The Dalles; Harold Ginn, Moro; and Richard Ginn of Lewistown, Montana; Mrs. Faith Needham, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Marjorie Dalby, Bonneville, Ore.; and Miss Mildred Ginn of South India and the mother, Mrs. R. J. Ginn of Moro.

She was ever a devoted wife and friend and will be remembered for her kindness to others.

Services were held in Salem with interment at Belcrest Memorial Park, June 3rd.

"There are two sure ways of curing a turkey hen of the habit of eating her eggs. One is to dress her for a Sunday dinner, and the other is to sell her to the butcher. We find it most difficult to bring ourselves to break a bad habit once established, and I doubt if we will have any better success getting turkeys to break theirs."

H. E. Cooby, head of the poultry department, OSC.

he homesteaded in Sherman county and aided in planting the grove at DeMoss Springs. He joined the Baptist church when 13, and was married in 1901.

Relatives at the funeral from outside the county were Homer De-

Moss and wife, Lizzie DeMoss Davis, P. Waldo Davis, Harshel Davis, Eugene John H. DeMoss of Hermiston, W. E. Jewell and wife and daughter of Independence, C. J. Gomon of Eugene and Mrs. Iva Pitcher of Silver Lake.

Mr. Cream Producer
Ship or bring your cream shipment to us when in The Dalles. We pay Portland prices as quoted by the Oregonian.
Cream spoils quickly in warm weather and under the new state cream grading law your cream will grade higher as a result of the shorter haul. If you deliver it yourself you save transportation. Arden Farms Co.

Long Life Low Up Keep

And here are reasons why

Simplicity
Years of experience have taught "Caterpillar" engineers how to short-cut... to eliminate needless parts, intricate design. There are fewer parts in a "Caterpillar," but better ones.

Best Materials
Steels are made to "Caterpillar" specifications, checked by "Caterpillar" metallurgists before leaving the steel mills and again at the "Caterpillar" factory. Strength and uniformity are thus insured.

Dust Exclusion
Self-aligning, self-adjusting and self-lubricating seals protect the working parts of a "Caterpillar." Dust is kept out... oil kept in. "Caterpillar" seals offer tremendous additional value.

Careful Construction
One ten-thousandth of an inch is an important unit of measurement in "Caterpillar" manufacture... and in daily production this company employs precision instruments capable of gauging accuracy within fractions of one ten-thousandth of an inch!
