Mr. and Mrs. Ercel Yocum and daughter who have been living near Salem of late returned this week.

Housekeeping Is Biggest Business

HERE'S a fair representative of the nation's biggest business—housekeeping. It even tops banking and railroading, according to the United States Department of Labor. And yet the homemaker belongs to no union; has formed no organization; she works as an individual year after year without wages, without her day off and too often without a vacation. Seldom does she have a maid to assist her, and rarely does her husband so much as offer to wash the dishes. She prepares anywhere from 750 to 1095 square meals a year and the only time she gets a break is when she insists that modern automatic equipment, such as an up-to-date gas range, be installed in her kitchen. But among some 30,000,000 housekeepers, more than 15,000,000 rely upon gas for cooking; 8,000,000 of them still use coal and wood; 6,000,000 use oil; and 1,000,000, electricity.

and have rented the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Fields near the Christian church.

Mrs. H. D. Proudfoot and sons were visitors in Portland last week. A 6:30 no host luncheon was given at the home of Mrs. Augusta Huckin Wednesday evening by members of the Wednesday contract club for their husbands. Dinner was served at small tables centered with red carnations. Later five tables were in play and Mrs. F. S. Lamborn and G. H. Root were successful in making high scores. Mrs. Huckin was presented with a birthday gift by the club members.

Monday evening a no host dinner was served at the library room by the Choral Club when members entertained their husbands with a hard time party. A bunch of celery was won by Mrs. O. G. Hilderbrand and George Wilde won a cabbage as a prize for husbands.

Friday evening the junior league of the M. E. church gave a party at the church with the juniors in complete charge of the affair.

Julius Medler was in The Dalles on business Tuesday.

Donald McDermid left for Fossil Tuesday where he is engaged in biological survey work.

Edward Mills entertained friends at his home Sunday. Names of those present for his eleventh anniversary were: Eugene Gosson, Walter Mee, John and Gordon Hilderbrand and John Robert McClure.

Miss Evelyn Scott is staying with Miss Mary Fortner during the absence of Mrs. Fortner.

Dick Yocum; Treasurer, Mrs. Winifred Spencer; Warden, Esther Peugh; Conductor, Hugh Mathieson; Chaplin, Mrs. S. J. Brock; Musician, Margaret Leff; RSN, Mrs. Wesley Wilde; LSN, Roy Belshie; RSVG, Mrs. Eliza Dingle; LSVG, Mrs. Joe Mee; IS, Sam Brock; OG, Chas. Sissel.

The Standard Bearers met at the Methodist parsonage Tuesday evening for a birthday party, representing the different months of the year. A prize was given June Wilde for the best cake.

Rev. and Mrs. Cannell drove to Arlington Monday afternoon.

Jack Hines is listed for a match with Mel Johnson of Wamic Friday evening at The Dalles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hilderbrand left for Portland Wednesday.

Mrs. Frank Morrow left for Portland and Salem for a visit.

Mrs. Frank Morrow was hostess Thursday to the Tillicum Club members, Mrs. Howard Hines winning high score.

Experiment with a thoroughly-enforced city speed limit of 25 miles per hour in Providence, R. I., has proved highly successful, officials of that city say. The purpose of the ordinance was to reduce the high proportion of deaths and injuries resulting from automobile accidents. The State of Rhode Island is also installing a course in safety education in every grade of public school in the state.

Bunchuck—Does your wife ever boast that she made a map of you? Dzudi—Well, she doesn't go that far. All she says is that she's tried her best.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH

WHAT SHALL WE EAT?

"Food ideas, like faces, are always seen in public places." They are seen so much that sometimes we can really be doubtful about what and how much we should eat.

But regardless, this continues to be the time of year when what we eat is most important. The very time when we can survey what we have been eating, without a great deal of thought, since "holiday time." We can just believe the quotation, "I declare, if it isn't the hardest thing to get my family interested in much of anything other than meat, potatoes and gravy, and of course, my favorite pie." This food habit is one that is all too often the forerunner of "spring fever," and its accompanying tired feeling. Spring fever is no novelty, and this is the time to "nip it in the bud."

By this is not a complete change in the luncheon and dinner food habits. It just means that we include more vegetables, and lighter main dishes, both rich in butter and milk dresses, every day, that the digestive system is not over-strained, and vitamins are gained to ward off spring fever.

Again and again experiments show that when the average food intake includes more milk and butter and vegetables, too, characteristics of youth are kept longer, resistance of colds is greater, and we hear less about spring fever.

So now, think in terms of a healthful early spring. (It will be early if already peeping willows carry any message.) Dishes of milk and butter always taste good—but sometimes they lack variety. A baked salmon loaf is new with alternate layers of seasoned buttered spinach. Creamed tuna wants a squeeze of lemon and a garnish of parsley. Creamed Noodle and Chicken Soup is good with a dash of nutmeg. Always, it's not the quantity, but the "dashes and dots" of seasoning that compliment blander flavors and that help to make the spring health program a "boomerang."

Salmon and Celery Souffle

3 tbsp butter 3 eggs
3 tbsp flour 1 tsp salt
1 cup milk 2 cups flaked salmon
1 cup finely chopped celery

Melt butter; stir in flour. Add milk, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Add flaked salmon and chopped celery and mix thoroughly. Cool slightly. Separate eggs and add egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold carefully in first mixture. Pour into a two quart casserole, place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 45 to 60 minutes.

Resolution of Condolence

WHEREAS, The Supreme Ruler of the Universe has allowed the death angel to enter our Chapter and call to the Chapter above, our beloved sister, who will always be held in loving remembrance,

BE IT RESOLVED, That the members of Annie Fulton Chapter No. 124, Order of Eastern Star, have lost a loyal member in the passing of Sister Hattie King Andrews.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we as true Eastern Star members humbly submit to the Master's will, who doeth all things well—

"There are stars that go out in the darkness

But whose silver light alight on,
There are roses whose perfume lingers
When blossoms are faded and gone,
There are hearts full of light and sweetness
When no longer their life current flows,
Still their goodness lives on with the living
Like the souls of the Star and the rose."

THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one be sent to the county paper and one be spread upon the records of this Chapter.

ADVERTISING

Turns the wheels of industry by informing the buyer.

In this day of rapid and easy dissemination of knowledge the person who has goods to sell must inform his potential customers of the fact in a manner that involves no expenditure of energy on the part of the customer. The buying public in general cannot be expected to observe, deduce, divine or even to remember any product unless it is constantly impressed upon them; hence the need of repetition in advertising.
