Under Suspicion
Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman tells of a Scotsman who was asserting that all the great poets were of his nation.

Political Speaker: "All we need now, my friends, is to keep a working majority."

Landlady—So that new boarder has found something fresh to complain about this morning?
Cook—No, ma'am, it's eggs.

To this the Scotsman replied: "His talents would justify the supposition."

Weekday Cleaner Turns Organ Aid When Sabbath Hymn Singing Begins

MILLPORT, N. Y.—Doing double duty, a typical household vacuum cleaner furnishes air for the pipe organ in the century-old Methodist Episcopal church here on Sunday, as well as keeping the place of worship clean throughout the week. The hook-up has attracted nationwide attention through the press and over the radio.

The unusual function of the vacuum cleaner, of a style known to housewives everywhere, has proved to be entirely satisfactory. In fact, two nearby churches have installed them. Ample air always is available, even when all the organ stops are out.

Air is utilized by attaching the nozzle to the reserve bellows chest of the organ, through a hole bored for the purpose. An electric switch is connected with an organ stop which seldom was used. The organist simply pulls the stop, the cleaner starts its powerful but quiet whirling, and presto, the bellows fill, and the music pours forth in response to the musician's touch on the keys.

The tube of the vacuum cleaner is attached to the blowing end of the machine when it doubles for the former organ pumper-boy when the story of the organ and vacuum cleaner was broadcast from Radio City. The suction end of the cleaner was used, for the organ heard on the coast-to-coast hook-up was a small studio recd organ, whose bellows is filled by suction, rather than by blowing, as in the case of pipe organs.

Voice from the rear. "You're wrong there. What this country needs today is a majority working."
