Pre-Payment Urged For Borrowers

A practical plan for helping Land Bank borrowers set aside an extra portion of their earnings, especially during good crop years to meet their mortgage loan payments in lean years, thereby assuring steadier progress toward debt freedom, was announced last week by President E. M. Ehrhardt as an outgrowth of the farm credit act of 1937. In simple terms the plan encourages borrowers to pay one or more amortization installments in advance when extra funds are available, for application when a regular installment later falling due cannot be met in the normal way. On such "reserve" payments held in trust for the borrower an interest accrual of 3 per cent per annum will be allowed by the bank—corresponding to the rate paid by the bank on its last issue of bonds marketed to the investment public. Interest earnings will be compounded on semi-annual installment dates. By this favorable means it will be very much to every borrower's advantage to get a year ahead on installments, then keep a year ahead all the time, Mr. Ehrhardt explained. "This way the borrower will not only be playing safe against some possible future time when he could not otherwise meet his payments, but he will also be obtaining a reasonable interest earning on advance deposits. "From every point of view the wisest thing for any one to do is to plan his affairs to get out of debt just as steadily and promptly as possible."

Original "So you go to school, do you, Bobby?" asked the clergyman of the nine-year-old hopeful of the Briggly household. "Yes, sir," answered Bobby. "Let me hear you spell bread." "B-r-e-d." "The dictionary spells it with an 'a,' Bobby." "Yes, sir; but you didn't ask me how the dictionary spells it. You ask me how I spell it." Oregon law requires that headlights be dimmed when meeting oncoming vehicles at night on wet, hard-surfaced roads, Secretary of State Earl Snell reminds motorists. He also advises the dimming of lights under other night conditions as well, when meeting other cars. Read the ads in the Journal.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

SPRING TRICKS Spring is in the air again. The twenty-first day of March officially heralds its entrance, and psychologically, regardless of sun, wind or rain, it is sensed with a mingled feeling of quiet excitement and anticipation. This feeling reverts back many thousands of years. At that time this day was spent in laughter, song, dance and feasting. The feast did not include the delicacies of winter; but lavished the new gifts of the earth. Today as in yesteryears, the homemaker instinctively moves away from sizzling steaks, "French" potatoes and heavy pastries. She realizes the need for change in the menu and market plans in two directions. First, that the heavier energy and heat giving foods are replaced by foods abounding in vitamins and minerals; and secondly, that the total day's food intake is unconsciously decreased. However, since these changes mean simplicity in preparation and departure of long hours of cookery, they are approached with pleasure and determination. The market list for the spring menus includes pink rhubarb for Betty's and sauces, to be served with light butter wafers. White heads of cauliflower, green-green stalks of broccoli, asparagus, radishes, lettuce, and a variety of fruits are all tempting and suggestive at the vegetable and fruit markets. More keenly than ever is the place of milk, cream butter and cheese for supplying high quality building materials for children and essential 'toners' for adults established. The alert homemaker does not recheck her order; but naturally increases it to cover the additional lighter desserts, saucy souffles and nourishing soups that bloom in the spring. The entire change is handled skillfully, knowingly and easily and may look like this: Winter Dinner Stuffed Pork Chops Candied Sweet Potatoes Creamed Onions Banana Apple Salad Chocolate Pie, Milk, Tea Spring Dinner Roast Breast of Lamb New Potatoes in Cream Lettuce Hearts, Buttered Asparagus Rhubarb Shortcake with Whipped Cream Milk, Tea Asparagus cooked in butter One pound of asparagus Two large lettuce leaves Two tablespoons butter, seasoning Wash asparagus carefully, and break off tough ends. Have lettuce drenched in water. Place butter in sauce pan, add asparagus, cover closely with lettuce leaves and cover. Cook at a moderate temperature until tender. (Test by picking through the lettuce with a fork) Remove lettuce, season asparagus, and serve.
