Worth 3 times its weight in horseflesh

20,000 pounds of sweating horseflesh strains against the collar... tugs stretch, muscles tense, driver shouts and a four bottom plow moves forward... at two miles per hour. In the next field 7000 pounds of yellow "Caterpillar" diesel tractor hitched to the same size load moves forward with no fuss or strain... at three miles per hour. The horses make a round and rest. The tractor keeps going, tirelessly. It's the difference between yesterday's farming and today's... between high-farming costs and low diesel farming costs.

FACTS FOR DRIVERS

By EARL SNELL, Secretary of State

IS IT LAWFUL TO PASS A SCHOOL BUS WHICH IS UNLOADING PASSENGERS?

Yes, it is lawful, but it is a good idea to stop before doing so. The law requires that your speed when so passing must not exceed 15 miles per hour. This rule is an extremely wise one, inasmuch as the passengers on a school bus are often very small children, who are apt to dart out from behind the bus without looking to right or left. Last fall an Oregon school girl was killed in exactly this manner.

Remember, too, that 15 miles per hour is the maximum, not the minimum. You should be traveling slowly enough so that you can stop, if necessary, to permit children to cross ahead of you or to get out of the street.

To avoid successful prosecution on a charge of hit and run driving, a person who has driven a vehicle which has struck another vehicle or pedestrian, must do the following things: He must stop immediately at the scene of the accident, give his name, address and car number, and the name and address of any other occupant of the car he is driving, to the other persons involved, as well as rendering any necessary assistance to injured persons.

Hit and run driving in which another person is killed or injured entails a much more severe penalty than hit and run driving resulting in property damage only.

Did you ever see a finer crop of blossoms on the locust trees?

Are You Sure?

At a speed of 15 miles an hour a dog chases a rabbit into a hollow log 10 feet long. The rabbit races through to the other end but the dog gets there first. The rabbit turns and doubles his speed to the opposite end but again the dog is ready to grab him. This goes on and on, although the rabbit doubles his previous speed after every turn. How long does it take him to have his head out of both ends of the log at the same time?

No Quotas For 1938

No marketing quotas for the 1938 wheat crop will be established inasmuch as funds for making payments were not provided as specified in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, according to definite announcements made by Secretary Wallace.

In a statement received by the Oregon office of the AAA, Secretary Wallace pointed out that May 15 was the latest date for establishing a national wheat marketing quota to be voted on by the wheat growers. The law specified that no wheat quotas could be in effect during the marketing year beginning July 1, 1938 unless provisions for parity payments had been made prior to May 15. If funds had been provided, wheat growers doubtless would have been given opportunity to vote on a marketing quota, the statement read.

The May report of the division of crop estimates indicated that the total supply of wheat will be in excess of the amount set forth in the Farm Act as the requirement for marketing quotas. The probable winter wheat production plus carryover, added to the probable spring wheat production, makes a possible total supply of 1,164,000,000 bushels. If this material were to be from 400,000,000 to 450,000,000 bushels in excess of a normal domestic consumption and exports.

As a possible means of meeting this situation which was explained to Oregon growers recently by George E. Farrell, director of the western AAA region, the eastern Oregon Wheat League recently passed a resolution urging first, that wheat loans be kept low enough to encourage a free flow of wheat markets of the world, and second, that an extra payment on northwest wheat be provided this year in order to make possible the lowered wheat loans without injustice.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

Vacation days for the school child are happy days when they are also health days. They are days that are free from routine, from regular hours and from any schedule of work. They mean freedom to enjoy much out of door play, and to give an opportunity to build health for another school year. These benefits, however, are not gained without thought for rhyme or reason; but rather, careful observation of the same health rules that are practiced regularly through the school year. Even though it is vacation time, no mother can afford to allow her child to slip "by" too much. Of the vital rules, Food, Rest, Exercise, Food is perhaps the most easily and most unconsciously violated in the good summer time.

Just as Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner are important throughout the school year, do they continue to remain important throughout the summer months. Breakfast, naturally to provide energy for the morning's play; the adequate picnic lunch for relaxation and energy for the afternoon's activity and the light balanced dinner for additional growth and repair material.

Horror of expression sometimes appear on what makes up the favorite vacation picnic lunch to be taken to the play park and recreational centers. Sandwiches are the basis for this lunch, and they can easily have attendants that will make them a correct substantial part in an adequate lunch. Of course, an occasional upset, one, for instance, that includes beans, sandwiches, pickles, pop and a melting piece of cake is no threat. It is only when such an occasion becomes a habit that the time has arrived for Mothers to put into practice their lunch precepts of the school year. That is, feeling responsible for a lunch so that it may contain a nourishing bit, a fruit or vegetable and milk, or cool milk drink carried in a thermos container.

Mothers will want to guard the amounts of iced beverages and cold water consumed when the body is very warm from activity, and will also advise children to eat only after they have rested and relaxed a short time. The eating time can be prolonged if enough crisp foods are included for thorough chewing.

Children respond happily to suggestion in the vacation time, and they will cheerfully prepare their own lunches if the material has been ordered. Simple lunches like the suggested ones are a delight to pack, they make for vitality and health, and in addition are enticing.

1. Peanut Butter and Grated Carrot Sandwich on Wholewheat Bread. Radishes. Graham Sandwiches of butter and nuts. Apple. Milk. Ice for ice cream.

2. Egg and Celery Sandwiches on Whole Wheat Bread. Apple Butter on Raisin Bread. Cocoa Malt in Thermos. Cookies.
