Oregon's License Plates To Change

For the first time in a number of years, Oregon automobile license plates will carry colors other than the black and white to which Oregon drivers have been accustomed, according to an announcement made today by Secretary of State Earl Snell.

Proposals for purchase of the 1939 plates will call for a yellow background with black letters. "Aside from the low cost factor, tests have proved that these two colors make the best combination for visibility, and should be an aid in safer driving," Snell stated.

The size and general makeup of the plate, including the type of figures and letters, will remain the same as in the past.
