Crested Wheat Being Planted

Additional crested wheat plantings of close to 50,000 acres in the Columbia basin wheat belt are being made this season, constituting the largest acreage ever to be planted in the state in one year, reports E. R. Jackman, extension crops specialist at OSC.

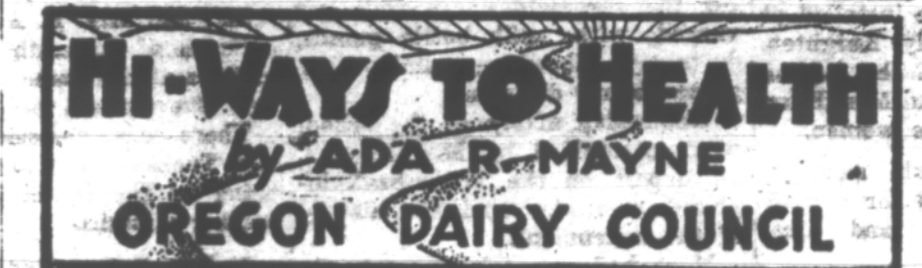

Three factors are chiefly responsible for this rapid increase, says Jackman. In the first place, many growers had to reduce their summer fallow acreage this fall in order to complete compliance under the 1938 AAA program, and become eligible for wheat loans. In the second place, under the 1939 program, payments of close to 30 cents per bushel will be available to those who keep their wheat acreage within their allotments. Crested wheat grass will be seeded on much of the surplus acreage. Finally, seed is readily available at considerable lower prices this year, because of the large plantings already in production in this state. The Blue Mountain Seed Growers Cooperative association at La Grande is the largest single distributing agency for crested wheat grass in the west.

One teaspoon soda
One half teaspoon nutmeg
Beat eggs, add sugar, sour cream melted butter, then add flour which has been sifted with cream of tartar, soda and nutmeg. Roll, cut with doughnut cutter, and fry in deep fat at 390 deg. More flour may be added if necessary to make dough stiff enough to roll.

Chocolate Butter Frosting
One fourth cup butter
One and a half cups confectioner's sugar
Cream

One and a half squares unsweetened chocolate melted
One fourth tsp. flavoring extract
Cream butter. Sift sugar; add gradually to butter, working in well. Add few drops of cream at a time to make good consistency to spread. Add flavoring. Add melted chocolate last, beating in well. Add more cream if necessary to make smooth cream consistency.

October with its crisp days brings Halloween and Halloween usually suggests a party. It doesn't need to mean a children's party for Halloween is fun for grown-ups too. Make it a family party, and we suggest a masquerade, for who doesn't like to 'dress up' occasionally. And there is no time that lends itself to special costuming as does the night set aside for pranksters, goblins and witchcraft.

If you live up to tradition in decoration and use pumpkins and corn, witch's and black cats, you will want to carry out this same color in refreshments.

Orange Cream, a delicious sherbet, served in orange cups, and freshly made doughnuts spread with a Chocolate Butter Frosting is our suggestion for refreshments - simple and easily prepared but deliciously different.

Buy the orange sherbet (at the last minute, or store it in the refrigerator) and this will simplify preparations. If your refrigerator is not a mechanical one, ask to have the cream packed in dry ice. If you prefer to make the sherbet, this recipe will be most satisfactory.

Orange Cream Sherbet
One teaspoon granulated gelatin
One half cup cold water
One and a half cups boiling water
One and a half cups granulated sugar

Grated rind of two oranges
One cup lemon juice
One and a half cups orange juice
One cup heavy cream
One half cup granulated sugar
One eighth tsp salt
Two eggs, separated

Soak the gelatin in the cold water 5 minutes, then dissolve in boiling water. Add one and a half cups sugar and stir until dissolved, then add the orange rind, lemon juice and orange juice. Turn into freezing trays and freeze to a mush. Beat the cream until stiff, then add the one half cup sugar and the salt. Beat egg whites until stiff and the egg yolks until lemon colored, and add to the cream. Fold into the orange mixture and continue freezing until firm, stirring twice during freezing process. Serves 8 to 10.

To make the orange cups, cut oranges in half and squeeze as usual, being careful not to break the shell. Then carefully remove remaining pulp and membrane. Place in a bowl of water until needed, drying well before using.

Halloween Doughnuts
Three eggs
One cup sugar
Four tablespoons melted butter
One cup thick sour cream
One cup cups flour
One tsp cream of tartar
