Speciality Crops Big Items For Farmers

That speciality crop and animal products have become the highly diversified source of nearly twenty million dollars of cash farm income in Oregon is evident from data for the year 1938 just published by the Oregon agricultural extension service. The report includes state and county estimates of acreage, production, price and income from numerous kinds and varieties of forage crop seeds, vegetable seeds, flower seeds, small fruits, nuts, greenhouse and nursery products, and from hops, flax, peppermint, sugar beets, turkeys, farm raised fur and game, apairy products, and other speciality farm products.

It is apparent from the data that in general the production of speciality farm products has increased more rapidly in the nine Willamette valley counties than in other sections of the state. Certain products, however, have forged ahead elsewhere, like sugar beets in Malheur county, Ladak alfalfa seed in Union and Baker, and clover seed in Josephine. Unlike clover seed in Deschutes and Clatsop, peppermint in Columbia, cranberries in Coos and Clatsop, and fur farming along the coast. Of $18,844,000 cash farm income accounted for by the survey, not including several items for which data were to incomplete, $13,230,000 was earned by the survey.

Plunges 150 Feet, Lives

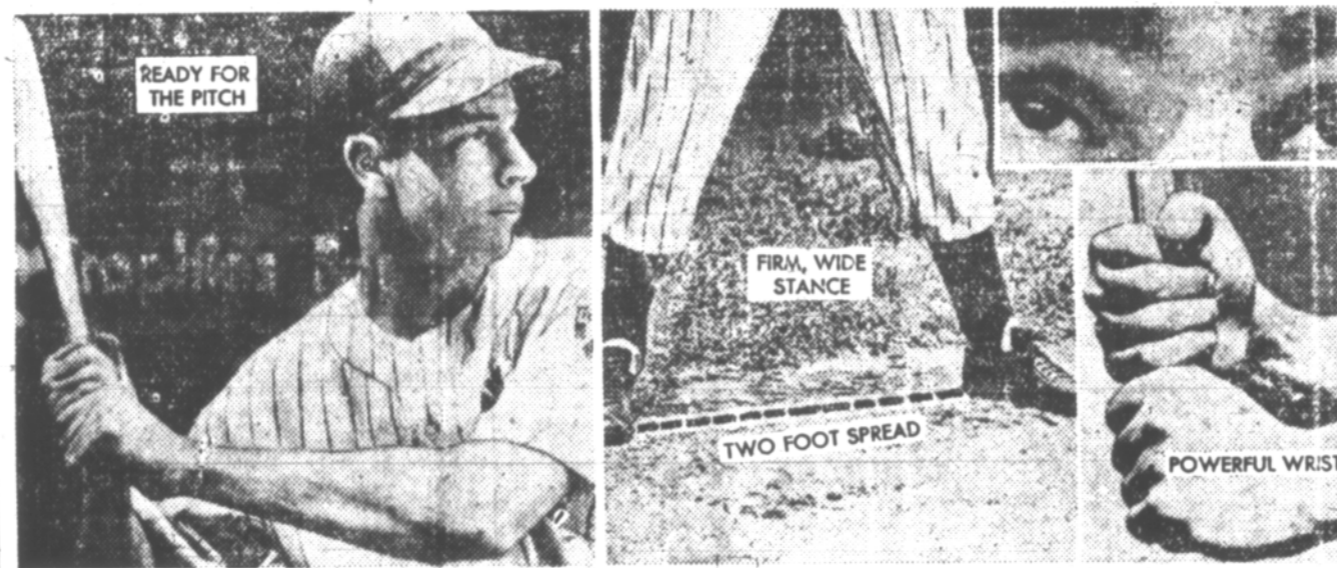

Miraculously escaping death when her car plunged 150 feet from a viaduct, Mrs. Edna Burdick of New York suffered only a few scratches in the almost unbelievable accident. Britain's First 'War Babies' En Route to Camp

Called to service by an airming Britain, these soldiers—part of 50,000 young men between 15 and 21 years of age—walk into London's Waterloo railroad station, bound for their various camps and barracks. They are the vanguard of 200,000 conscripted militiamen who were babies shortly after the World war ended, and are an integral part of Britain's preparedness campaign.

Nine-Year Drought May Produce .400 Hitter

The major leagues are preparing to clear the decks for another .400 hitter—the first since 1930, when Bill Terry hit .401 for the Giants. If he continues at his present clip, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees will enter the exclusive company of such stars as Rogers Hornsby, Nap Lajoie, Ty Cobb and others. Here is how he does it: Left: Waiting for the throw. Center: His stance with feet 24 inches apart and just the correct distance from the plate. Pictured at the top right are his keen eyes which follow the ball to the plate. Bottom: His grip on the bat.

525, or 70 percent, was earned by farmers in the Willamette valley counties. This income is in addition to that obtained from the "principal" farm products such as grain, hay, truck crops and potatoes, tree fruits, dairy and poultry products, cattle and calves, hogs, sheep, goats, horses and mules.

The report, prepared by M. D. Thomas, L. R. Breithaupt and N. I. Nielsen, shows turkeys leading, the speciality products list with $4,235,000 of cash farm income in Oregon in 1938. Forage crop seeds at $3,496,400 ranked second. Green house, nursery and flower crops brought $2,742,600, small fruits, $2,659,000, hops $2,553,000, and nuts $1,568,000.

The 26-page statistical bulletin is available to citizens and officials of Oregon. It may be obtained free from county agricultural agents or direct from the college by requesting Oregon Extension Circular No. 334, "Production and Income Statistics for Speciality Farm Products, Oregon, 1938." Special, Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—According to the department of agriculture, 90 per cent of cattle imports from Mexico during June, were feeder cattle. HI-WAYS TO HEALTH

by ADA R. MAYNE

OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

During the warm days of summer the mother with a child who presents a feeding problem is likely to find the problem even worse. No amount of coaxing, threatening, pleading, or promising can induce the child to consume his necessary milk, fruits, and vegetables, and eggs. It seems there is no solution - but of course there is. Like every other problem there is always a way out.

To begin with, it is well to always keep in mind the fact that the child is an individual, that he tries very hard to be one, and that he will cooperate much better if he is treated like one.

Many feeding problems have vanished as soon as the child is permitted to feed himself. This method can be used both successfully and practically if it is understood that one takes some of each food on the menu and eats all that he takes. Seconds may be had only after all of the first servings have been eaten - including the glass of milk which the child has poured from a small pitcher.

Care must be taken that the child does not take too large a serving. A polite and unemotional reminder that we eat what we put on our plates may do the work. However, if the child takes an unreasonably large serving it is probably better to return the food to the serving dish and let him start again. Remember to be cheerful about the whole affair. Also, everyone who eats with the child should follow this practice of eating some of each dish without unfavorable comment.

This has a good purpose in itself for each of us needs the milk, fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals and eggs just as the child does - except the adult requires a larger quantity of food.

Since the child's desserts are made largely of milk and fruits, they form a beneficial part of the menus, should never be given or taken away as rewards or punishments.

A dessert that should encourage any child to eat his meal without delay or without persuasion is Caramel Custard.
Caramel Custard
Four cups of milk, scalded
Six eggs, beaten

One-fourth cup sugar
Two-thirds cup sugar

Melt two-thirds cup sugar in a pan. Add to it the hot milk and let it dissolve. Add one-cup of sugar to the beaten eggs. Add a little salt. Stir this into the milk and sugar mixture. Pour into a deep glass baking dish or into individual custard cups. Set dish or cups into a pan of hot water and bake in a very slow oven - 300 to 325 deg. for about an hour, or until a knife will come out dry and clean when inserted. Chill.

When it's Rocky in the Springtime

"Let me kiss those tears away, sweetheart," he begged tenderly. She fell into his arms and he was very busy for a few moments. But the tears flowed on.

"Will nothing stop them," he asked, breathlessly.

"No, dear," she murmured. "It's hayfever, but go on with the treatment."

"Yeah, my wife does card tricks - she makes the jack disappear."
