PROCESSING TAX

The administration is recommending that farmers and farm organizations begin to fight for a processing tax or a certificate plan which is similar as a means of financing payments to farmers for cartilage of crops.

The financial condition of the country being what it is no one can blame the administration for wishing to change the method of taxation. Putting the farmers appropriate into some other form would certainly release funds for further experimentation.

The reason is given that some means of obtaining more money and of a more permanent nature than yearly appropriations must be found.

The proposed plan would likely make it possible to raise more money. It is very doubtful if it would be more permanent. In fact, perhaps no surer way of putting a stop to federal aid to farmers could be devised than a processing tax such as has been proposed.

The present system of giving aid to farmers has been called the farmer's tariff and it has been widely compared to the tariff that aids manufacturing. The comparison is not very exact at best but something of the same intent is contained in both methods. The tariff brings in money for the government, while this scheme takes it out, but a comparison of the two is not the purpose of this discussion.

It seems obvious that if an extra charge was made on each item raised in price by the tariff there would be popular resentment sufficient to defeat the principle of tariffs completely. Surely if the cost of a loaf of bread was raised by a processing tax there would be open criticism of the program strong enough to defeat it.

If on buying a sweater, for instance, one was told that the price was $7.00 but that the tariff made it necessary to charge $7.70 we would not be so complacent about our high tariff. If the average loaf of bread, now eight cents was made 9 1/2 cents, as proposed, city people would demand a change.

There is getting to be general acceptance of the principle that the government should help the farmers and a processing tax at this time would certainly do much to make it unpopular. We think it would pull the administration out of a hole—and put the farmer in.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD TOWN

For some strange reason there seems to be more activity than usual on the subject of what makes a good town. An article or two in the magazines and a speech and no little conversation on the matter brings it anew to the mind.

Some towns are good towns and others not because of the spirit of the residents and their desire to make of their home town a good place to live. The age of the business man has something to do with the life and pep of a town.

There is no generally accepted definition of a "good" town. But a city, regardless of size, in which the citizens are friendly and interested in making their town attractive has certain social advantages. A town that has sufficient business houses to care for the needs of the community is to be desired, but this can hardly be done unless there is a will among the people to patronize their local merchants when other conditions are equal.

Of late there is indication that buyers are taking note that it is possible to buy here as cheaply as in other towns. When all come to realize the truth of this, there will be a decided improvement.

The selection of Frank Ballard to be president of Oregon State college brings to that position for the first time a man whose major interest in life has been the agriculture of Oregon. For that reason the farmers of the state should be happy over the selection.

Statehouse Gossip

grange submitted its list of acceptable representatives on the forestry board his name was not included.

Speculation still continues around the capitol as to Ferguson's possible successor as head of the forestry department with no one apparently having the slightest clue as to who the board's subcommittee might be considering for this important post.

Members of the State Tax Commission estimate that approximately 4000 federal employees in Oregon will be subject to this state's income tax levy on their 1939 salaries. The list will include postmasters, Congressmen, and federal judges with salaries ranging from $3000 to $10,000 a year.

Besides employees of some 200 federal agencies. On the other hand some 6000 state employees will be required to file tax returns with the federal government although in many cases the income of these employees is so low as to escape the federal tax.

Victor Hasson, Portland democrat did not want to take any chance of being caught in the last minute rush of candidates who are expected to seek a place on Ore-gon's primary ballot next May.
So he filed early. Hasson, who subscribes to all the policies of the New Deal administration, and who wants to sit in the Oregon state senate to further these policies filed his formal declaration as a candidate for the Democratic nomination this week. He wants to represent Multnomah county.

Centralization of the book keeping work of all state institutions has been recommended to the Board of Control by Budget Director David Eccles, who is supported in his recommendation by Dan Fry, state purchasing agent, and S. W. Starr, chief auditor for the state department. The bookkeeping systems now in use in many of the institutions, Eccles told the board, is very cumbersome and inefficient.

Protection of civil rights is a duty of the state, in the opinion of Governor Sprague who feels that the federal government should keep its hands off this problem unless and until the states have shown them selves to be "flagrant derelict in their duty in his respect."

Unemployed workers in Oregon draw $200,450 in jobless insurance benefits during November, according to a report of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission. This, however, was approximately $100,000 below the payments made during November, 1938, indicating a greatly improved employment situation in Oregon industries.

Marvin Miller left Tuesday morning for Portland under orders to report for naval duty on a three months cruise of South American waters. During his absence his work at the local railway depot will be handled by his brother-in-law, Willis Buxton.

John Muir has traded with R. C.
Byers for the residence property in the west part of town now rented by Deputy Sheriff Hickson.

W. L. Wilson and wife were Rufus visitors in this city Wednesday. He said that the Columbia highway was not open the entire width of north Sherman county and that the gravel crews were working that day on the east part of the highway.

Monday evening he editor received a pleasant surprise when he was called over to his neighbors on an errand, and found dinner prepared in honor of his 57th birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Serrurier and daughter Thelma, Mr. J. H. Smith, Mrs. Etha Walpole and daughter, Barbara, F. L. Derby and Mr. and Mrs. Westerfield.

C. W. King and wife left Monday for Portland, where Mrs. King will receive eye treatment.

Mrs. Alexander Scott died one day last week at her home at Tigard, age 71 years. The Scotts formerly lived in Grass Valley.

From the Observer Dec. 16, 1910 E. E. Shurtle of Grass Valley and Wilbur Haggerty of Rockcut have exchanged farms and we trust each may realize their fondest expectations.

Born: November 30th to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shull at Kent, a daughter.

E. G. Webb formerly of this city, has taken the place in the Grass Valley schools made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Murdock.

J. P. Allison and wife celebrated their golden wedding December 11th.

The M. M. Co. has added a waterroom to their store on Main street.

S. S. Hayes has sold his stock in the M. M. Co. to L. K. Moore.

Deputy Sheriff J. J. Wiley and wife of Shaniko, Wasco county, have been in Portland for a week, coming down for medical treatment for Mrs. Wiley, who has been quite ill for some time.

AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

Realizing there is a growing resentment in the agricultural region against the reciprocal trade agreement and wishing to support Secretary of State Hull's policy, Cuba's propaganda machine announces what a good customer the island is for the United States.
In listing the states from which Cuba is receiving products, not one is west of the Mississippi. Among the items, 461 carloads of lumber (not a stick from the Pacific North west) shipped from Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

To carry on the sewing room projects in Oregon this winter, Mr. Roosevelt has authorized expenditure of $632,312 of WPA funds. Sponsors are the State Public Welfare Commission. The sewing rooms will make new garments, repair old clothing, weave rugs, make hook rugs, make uppers. The products will be distributed free to charitable institutions.

Here is what agriculture can expect from the war, as reported by the department's economists: Curtailed exports of farm products, but imports of farm products will not be greatly affected; some increase in prices and incomes caused by speculative buying. And the report on wheat, specifically: Exports will fall off this marketing year because of poor crop prospects for 1940 (drouth conditions), and the further reason the allies are buying from Canada, Australia, Argentina and North Africa.

Wasco School Team

Plays at Dufur

Tuesday, December 5th, the Wasco basketball team lost a hard fought game with Dufur on the Dufur floor. At the half the score stood 16-5 in Dufur's favor.
Wasco came up the second half to a final score of 22-21. The lineup for Wasco: Dutton, center; Mc-Dermid, guard; Boice, guard; Coats, forward; Richlenderfer, forward. Dutton was high point man with nine points.

The Wasco basketball team met Moro and Grass Valley at The Dalles basketball jamboree Friday evening, December 8. One quarter was played with each team.
Wasco outplayed Moro 7-3 and lost to Grass Valley 6-1.

The Wasco and Dalles bands played for the jamboree. Due to the illness of Mr. Landles, Wasco band instructor, Marion Crews acted as band master.

Monday morning the student
