Multnomah County Makes Suspensions

Multnomah county led counties of the state in motor vehicle operator license suspensions for the first 11 months of 1939 while Klamath county led the state in revocations, Earl Snell, secretary of state, reported today.

A total of 1,108 Oregon drivers lost their licenses by suspension or revocation during that period, 346 being suspensions and 762 revocations. Of the total suspensions, 281 were reported by various courts in the state, 32 were ordered by the secretary of state and 33 were cases involving Oregon residents in out of state courts.

Multnomah county reported 132 cases of license suspensions, or 46 percent of the cases reported by courts in the state, Snell said.

Tax Agents Play 'Hobo'; Secure 14 Indictments

When drunken hoboes continued to clutter up the rural districts near Philadelphia, Penn., they attracted the attention of Uncle Sam's alcohol tax department. Department Agents J. B. Sceniller, inset left, and E. J. Johnson, right, were assigned to play hobo roles and ferret out the reason for the prolonged spree. They were assigned to stay in the "jungles," and to secure evidence, bought rubbing alcohol, which they were accused by the strollers, tasted better with flavoring. The federal grand jury returned 14 indictments. The suggestions to flavor the rubbing alcohol constituted a violation of the law.

Clackamas reported 20 cases, Marion county 18, Jackson county 17 and Clatsop 14.

Klamath reported 71 revocations or 10.8 percent of the total reported by courts in the state. Multnomah county was next with 70 cases, Clackamas reported 52, Lane and Clatsop each reported 39, Lincoln 38 and Coos 34.

11 WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

Santa has vanished up the chimney for another twelve months, and all too soon it will be time to carry out self-exacting New Year's resolutions. But in the meantime, there's one of the most festive weeks of the year up for enjoyment. It is a week when everyone who can manage to be in home for the holidays - when usual routines give way - when parties are planned at a moment's notice - and hostesses have no trouble getting together congenial guests.

In keeping with the air of gay informality that circulates at this season are company meals served buffet style. And at any season, buffet service is an easy way to take care of more mealtime guests than the dining table can accommodate otherwise. Every dish on the menu should be easy to serve and easy to eat. Foods to be served hot should be easy to keep hot. Have no more foods that spoil the looks of a plate or require extra serving dishes. Much of the charm of a buffet meal lies in the appearance of the food, attractively arranged against the background of snowy linen. Therefore, all food should harmonize in color.

There should be something hot at every winter time buffet meal, in addition to the hot beverage. This will be the only dish that needs to have much, last minute attention. One way to make sure that a hot dish is hot all of the time is to have it come out of the oven in two installments, one for first servings, another for "seconds." Appropriate hot dishes for these 'days in between' and easy to serve are creamed turkey or chicken served on toast or in petty shells.

Or if the meat dish consists of cold cuts such as cold roast beef, pork, turkey, baked ham, cheese—the hot dish may be a vegetable. Serve them as casserole dishes. Escalloped potatoes or even hearty macaroni and cheese or a corn pudding are substantial ones that keep hot easily. These may sound plebeian to you but they are favorites especially with the younger crowd.

Here is a perfect hot dish for buffet service:

- Chicken or Noodle Casserole: Four cups of cooked chicken, cut in inch pieces; Four cups cooked egg noodles; Two cups canned mushrooms, sliced; One small bottle stuffed olives; One cup cream; Two cups chicken broth; Two tsp-celery salt; Buttered crumbs, grated cheese, Paprika

Butter a large casserole and put in half the noodles. Combine cream chicken broth and celery salt and pour one cupful over the noodles. Mix chicken, mushrooms, stuffed olives together and place on top of noodles. Cover with noodles and pour over remaining sauce. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs, then with grated cheese and paprika. Bake in a hot oven for about 30 minutes or until crumbs are nicely browned and the mixture hot. (1 cup sliced blanched almonds may be added to chicken mixture if desired.)

"That is a fine looking umbrella," said the visitor.

"Yes, sir, that umbrella is 30 years old."

"Why, it looks as good as new."

"Well," replied the host thoughtfully, "it has been re-covered seven times and had four new handles, but with the exception of a few other minor repairs it's just the same."

Hold'ing Those Co-Eds

One marriage out of every six in the United States ends in divorce. But recent studies of marriage of couples who met while attending co-educational institutions indicate that not more than one in 75 results in failure.
