Salesman—I have a book for you, 'How to Sing in 10 Easy Lessons.'

Lady—But I haven't ordered it.

Salesman—No, but your neighbors did.

Probably you'll never need to start a tractor under "North Pole" conditions, but if you're a "Caterpillar" Diesel owner, you know how satisfying it is to be sure your tractor will start no matter what weather the morning brings.

The simple, powerful gasoline starting engine takes care of everything. It doesn't run down and its heat is used to precondition the Diesel for a quick, sure start.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT IN MEMORY OF

Sister Kate Johnson, who died January 5, 1940.

Death has entered again our Chapter Hall and called to the Eternal Home a dearly beloved sister, who has completed her faithful labor here in ministering to the cry of the orphan, to the call of want and the piteous wail of sorrow, and as a recompense has received the welcome plaudit, "well done," from the Great Master.

And whereas, the loving Father has called our beloved and respected sister home, and she having been a true and faithful member of our Mystic Order, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That Annie Fulton Chapter, No. 124 Order of the Eastern Star of Wasco, Oregon in testimony of its loss, drape its Charter in mourning and that we tender to the family of our deceased sister our sincere condolence in their deep affliction and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and one to the Sherman County Journal, and one be spread on the minutes of our Chapter.

"I cannot say and I will not say that they are dead; they are just away,

With submissive smile and wave of the hand, They have entered into that better land; And let us, thinking how very fair it needs must be, since they linger there;

And you, Oh you, who so fondly yearn For the welcome step and the glad return, Think of them living on as dear, In the land of there as the land of here."

Carpenter—Well, Willie, have you sharpened all the tools? Apprentice—Yes, all but the saw. I haven't got all the gaps out of that yet.

HI-WAYS TO HEALTH by ADA R. MAYNE OREGON DAIRY COUNCIL

In a survey taken recently among personnel directors of various large corporations, the following question is asked: What detail of physical appearance do you consider the most important to any employee or applicant?

The answer was unanimous, for every one of those experts who are trained in the art of handling all sorts of people, agreed that healthy, well cared for teeth are of the utmost importance in the commercial world. In the social world as well, attractive teeth are a distinct asset to one's appearance.

How to build and maintain sound healthy teeth and gums depends on a wise program of food and proper care. Modern dentistry can accomplish feats that are little short of miraculous. Yet, asks science, why should we leave everything to the dentist? Rather, we should cooperate with him, so that he may have a sound nutritional foundation upon which to work.

Outlined here is a program which, if followed regularly, will result in better teeth and also help to improve general health.

1. Examinations of teeth should be made at least twice a year. This enables the dentist to keep close check on all defects that arise.

2. The teeth should be brushed after each meal or if that is impossible, at least twice a day, in the morning after breakfast, and before going to bed.

3. The proper food should be eaten for teeth and bone growth. It is now known that teeth have to be fed just as any other part of the body. Tooth tissue, like body tissue, is constantly being used and must be replaced by new tissue, and this is done by foods that we eat. Decay of the teeth is believed to be, in part at least, a result of poor diet.

Build your meals around the "protective foods," - milk, fruits, vegetables and eggs. Milk, the most important of the protective foods, furnishes the two minerals, calcium and phosphorus, which are the chief tooth building materials. Lack of these minerals in the diet leads to faulty tooth construction and as a result less resistant to decay.

No one dietary factor, however, is credited with preventing or arresting dental decay and to keep the teeth in the best condition emphasis should be given to well balanced meals. Well balanced meals based on the necessary protective foods helps to keep the body and the teeth in the best possible physical condition - the result being all around healthier and happier living.
