Mr. and Mrs. Ed Moon and daughter, Margaret of Portland, sent Thursday in The Dalles as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fagan.

Wool Growers Meeting In Lakeview Dec. 1

Lakeview—A considerable number of problems affecting Oregon sheep growers are scheduled for discussion at the forty fourth association in Lakeview, December 1, 2 and 3. The program just announced by Mac Hoke, president, and Walter A. Holt, secretary, both of Pendleton, calls for committee meetings starting at 1:30 o'clock December 1, with the opening of the main convention at 10 o'clock Monday, December 2.

Six committees have been arranged in advance to handle the subjects of predatory animals, legislation and taxation, public lands grazing, general resolutions and organization, transportation and marketing, and national forest grazing. The first session of the regular convention will open with addresses and reports by the president and secretary, and by the women's auxiliary, Mrs. Ralph I. Thompson of Heppner. J. M. Jones, assistant secretary of the National Wool Growers association, Salt Lake City, will discuss "Increasing Lamb Consumption."

E. B. McNaughton, president of the First National Bank of Portland and chairman of the Oregon economic council, will speak on "America's Place in a New World" during the afternoon. Other speakers will be Grover C. Hill, assistant secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C., on building the Western Ranges; R. C. Rich, past president of the National Wool Growers association, Burley, Ida., on "How to Sell More Wool;" and D. R. Phelps of San Francisco on "Meat and Romance," illustrated with moving pictures. The annual banquet will follow in the evening.

Tuesday's program, in addition to committee reports, will include talks by D. E. Richards, of the Union branch experiment station, on "What is New in Sheep Management;" Dean William A. Schoenfeld of OSC, on "Land Use in Oregon;" J. H. Carkin of the Oregon public utilities commission on "Transportation Problems," and E. L. Potter, OSC, on "War and Its Effect on the Wool Market."

DISH IT OUT

The holiday season, ushered in by Thanksgiving is with us. With time and thought centered on preparation for Christmas, easily prepared, nourishing meals are planned by the modern home maker. The family's food needs must be met no matter what the season, and never was there a more appropriate time to serve casserole dishes - casserole dishes that are hot, savory and easy to prepare and furnish a good share of the daily food needs. Even leftovers seem less like themselves under cover of a few buttered crumbs, a tasty cream sauce, or a bit of cheese. A dish of this kind has the food value of the milk plus the nutrients of the vegetables, meat or fish and can be made to contain all the food values necessary for an adequate meal.

A casserole or meal in a dish has many advantages. It has amazing stretch ability, if extra places have to be made at the table; it can be put together hours ahead of time; and waits better than most things - the meal can be unexpectedly postponed at the last minute without absolutely ruining everything, just in case the family doesn't arrive for twenty minutes after they are due.

If you feel as we do that this is the time that meals should be simple yet substantial and full of flavor surprise, you will want to serve one of these casserole dishes. Dish it out from the table from one large casserole or serve in individual baking dishes. They have a delicious "hotness" which is often missed from foods served in the orthodox way.

Salmon and Cheese Casserole
One and a half cups milk
One cup soft bread crumbs
One fourth cup melted butter
Two canned pimientos, chopped
One tablespoon chopped parsley
One cup drained, cooked vegetables
One and a half tbsp chopped onion
One and a half cups grated American cheese
Three eighths tsp salt
One eighth tsp pepper
Dash paprika
Three eggs, well beaten
One 1-lb can (2 cups) salmon, flaked

Four the scalded milk over the bread crumbs. Add butter, pimiento, parsley, onion, grated cheese and seasonings. Then add the vegetables and flaked salmon in a battered casserole, and pour the milk and cheese mixture over them. Set in pan of warm water and bake about 75 minutes in a moderate oven, 325 degrees, or until firm. Serves six.

Company Fare - Chicken Casserole
Three cups of cooked rice
Two cups cooked chopped chicken
Two cups medium white sauce
One half cup toasted pecans
One fourth tsp curry powder (optional)
Combine rice, chicken, pecans and white sauce. Mix well. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg.) 20 minutes.

"Winter-draws on," says Porter, as he tucked us in.
"None o' your bizness!" we snapped, chilly-like.
Coming to a lonesome stretch of road, we sniggered, "Can you drive with one arm, Porter?"
"You bet," says he.
"Okay," says we, "have an apple."—Forest Log.
