New Tires Safer

Besides the safety feature of having tires with good treads during rainy weather, there is a definite economy in getting new tires in winter instead of in summer months, according to the public safety department of the Oregon State Motor association.

The reason is that new tires dissipate heat slowly due to their new heavy treads, and consequently run hotter and wear faster in summer than in winter. Tests demonstrate that new tires installed during winter months give about one fourth more mileage than the same type of tires installed in summer.

Mrs. E. J. Dingle Receives Letter From England

Following is the partial text of a letter received by Mrs. Eliza J. Dingle of Wasco, from her sister-in-law living in Plymouth, England. The letter was written December 2, 1940:

"We are nearing Xmas again. How quickly the time goes. We are now in the midst of a raid, our defense is firing hard on the plane, shook our windows. Have had quite a lot of damage done very near us. Last week for two nights we did not have much rest, 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning cleared off, then we went to bed. Do not mind so much in the daytime, then we watch it. Have picked up a lot of shrapnel.

"We have our family with us again from London for a rest. It was terrible around there. Scores of hundreds of houses demolished. They had not undressed for months, had not been in bed, were in a shelter. At last that was damaged and got broke and flooded, when they had to stay in the house. It is wonderful their house is standing, as others were falling around them and they escaped. Thank God. The boys are back to the same school they attended before. There is no school in London for them. Florence's husband comes for week ends, a change for him, as he is in the thick of it. In center of City.

"Down home they get the warning signal. No raids very near them. We do not feel like going any where else, as it seems Jerry will get everywhere and our defense is good.

"Our supplies are very good, can get most things rationed, of course. Seeing there are so many extra soldiers, etc, we do very well.

"Florence and I have been in the City this afternoon. Plenty of nice things but very expensive. Some goods three times the price. "Elsie and hers at Worcester are very well, they do not get raids yet, but planes go over to Birmingham in crowds, pass over them. It is very trying."

Men will be men . . . They are divided into two classes—the found-out and the not-found-out.

After the Holiday

A merchant addressing a debtor, remarked in the course of his letter,

That he chose to suppose a man knows what he owes and the sooner he pays it, the better.

"Did you give your wife that little lecture on economy you talked about?"

"Yes."

"Any results?"

"Yes—I've got to give up smoking."

It is far, far better to have loved a short man than never to have loved a tall.
