Prayer of the Trees

We will cover the hills where our fathers once stood,
By the millions we'll wave to the sun.
Men who plan for a lasting great garden of wood
Are our friends, and their work is well done.
We will furnish them rafters and shiplap and beams,
They can build all the homes they desire,
If they'll just curb the demon who blasts all our dreams,
That red scourge of the timberlands—Fire!

We will add to the streams that flow down to the sea
For we help to keep moisture in store.
We will paint a rare picture that towns never see,
Give a tang to the air you'll adore.
You will surely be proud of our sweeping advance
As you pause on your way to admire,
And we only ask that you give us a chance,
That you stem our old enemy—Fire!

—Van Boling.

Navy Day Will Aid Work Result

All persons engaged in the manufacture of ordnance equipment for the United States Navy have been urged by Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, U. S. Navy, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, to celebrate Navy Day, October 27, by turning out on that occasion the biggest one-day production in the history of the company for whom they work. Said the Admiral "Navy Day is coming. The Navy has designated October 27 as Navy Day — a day on which all branches of the Naval Service will bring before the public a forceful reminder of the important role of the Navy in the life of the Nation.

"You, as manufacturers of ordnance equipment for the Navy, properly, have a part in the Navy Day observance.

"Start now to make your plans to observe the day. Consult with your local patriotic organizations and with the nearest Navy district headquarters on various methods of showing your part in making the Navy the powerful first line of the nation's defense.

"Navy Day is also an occasion which could be fittingly celebrated by using its hours for the biggest one-day production in the history of your company."
