Income Tax Questions Answered

The Revenue Act of 1941 provides a simplified method of computing income tax in the case of individuals whose gross income is derived wholly from salary, wages or other compensation for personal services, dividends, interest, rent, annuities, or royalties, and does not exceed $3,000. A new Form 1040A has been provided for taxpayers who are entitled to and elect to use such method. A table on the reverse side of this Form shows the amount of tax on increasing amounts of gross income after the proper allowance of $400 for each dependent, if any.

The tax under the simplified method is the same for each $25.00 block of gross income and the taxpayer need only ascertain in which block his gross income (less allowance for dependents) falls to determine his tax. A flat reduction of 10 percent has been made in arriving at the amount of tax shown in the table for deductions such as charitable contributions and taxes paid, so that the taxpayer who uses this method does not list these but gets an automatic deduction of 10 percent.

Under the simplified method the status of a person on the last day of the taxable year is the governing factor in determining the exemption level ($750 for single persons and married persons not living with husband or wife, and $1,500 for married persons living together) as well as the credit for dependents.

A husband and wife living together on the last day of the taxable year may file separate returns on Form 1040A if the gross income of each is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3,000, or they may file a single joint return on that Form if their combined income is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3,000.

The use of the simplified method is optional with the taxpayer but once an election has been made for any year, it is irrevocable for that year. If a taxpayer files a return under the simplified method for the taxable year he may not thereafter file a return under the general provisions of the law for that year. Conversely, if he files a return under the general provisions for any taxable year, he may not thereafter file a return under the simplified method for that year. However, a new election is allowed for each succeeding taxable year.

THE NOON DAY MEAL
Every member of the family should have a satisfying noonday meal, hearty enough to carry him through the afternoon's work without fatigue, but not enough to make him drowsy and unable to concentrate.

The family group may be smaller or at noon, for working members and high school boys and girls often cannot get home for this meal. In such cases, the thrifty home maker will want to use left overs that are not enough to serve the whole family group. The plan for this meal will vary according to what foods she has on hand, but in general might include: Soup, creamed dish or sandwiches; Bread and butter; (if sandwiches are not choice) Simple dessert, as cookies, fruit; Milk, or cocoa made with milk.

For school children whose time is limited at noon, it is important to have lunches served promptly so this meal can be eaten leisurely. The soup and cocoa should not be so hot that they must wait for it to cool, and foods that require much chewing should be avoided.

For toddlers, the noon meal should be their hearty meal, but the general plan given above will be adaptable for these small children. Their portions of soup or creamed dish will be smaller than those of older children. A soft boiled or scrambled egg or custard should be added several

And last but not least, the home maker must provide for herself at the noonday meal. Her vitality and energy for her household tasks is in proportion to the kind and quantity of food she eats and her own meals should not be neglected.

While a plain custard is usually a favorite with all members of the family, there are ways to vary them and occasional variations in any basic recipe is a good plan for holding interest. The following variation calls for apricots Strain.

Stir beaten whites and yolks of eggs in milk, add salt, nutmeg, and sugar. Flavor with grated lemon and orange rind. Butter custard cups well, place apricot upside-down, fill cups with mixture, and place in pan, surrounding cups with water, and cook until done in a medium oven (325) Cool before removing from custard cups. Serves 6. Serve with Apricot Sauce: Cook entire contents of 1 medium sized can of apricots.

Three cups hot milk
Four eggs, separated and well beaten
One fourth teaspoon salt
One fourth tsp grated nutmeg
Grated orange and lemon rind
One third cup sugar
One half apricot for each cup

Hunting Seasons
Not Changed

There will be open hunting season this year for both large and small game in so far as action of the Game Commission is concerned, according to Frank B. Wire, state game supervisor.

Rumors have been going around to the effect that the entire state will be closed to hunting this fall, but the Commission has indicated that it sees no necessity for such closure and plans to meet in June, the time specified by law, to set the hunting seasons and bag limits on game birds and animals for the current year.
