IT WAS A GOOD SPEECH

Beaverbrook talking, "In 1941 we sent out of the country 9781 aircraft and brought in only 2134. We sent abroad about 3000 tanks and imported only 200."

Thus the Associated Press reports the British production minister's statement of American aid to the Allies and the British aid to the Allies, probably Russia.

No doubt the speech of Winston Churchill before Parliament last Sunday will be remembered as one of the finest speeches in the English language. It was a masterful apology for gargantuan errors, an apology almost worthy of the causes for it.

The thought arose during his talk that the English speaking nations have so far in this war depended on talkers for leadership. They are men with rare ability to make speeches, to promise, to exhort. We have been losing the war.

It is likely that before we can win the war the leadership will have to be turned over to men whose principal ability is the production of material instead of the production of words.

Our nations have given solemn promise to Greece, to France, to Jugoslavia, and it has availed not. This man Stalin has made one speech, as we remember. The guns of his army have done the talking since then: The comparison between the effectiveness of words and guns is apparent.

Maybe our leaders have taken too literally the old saw about the pen being mightier than the sword. If the Allies could trade Churchill's speech for a few planes over Java or even a direct hit on the Scharhorst it would be a good deal.

Allied leaders might better stop talking until their management of war is showing signs of success, until production is a reality instead of a promise.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Wind has dried the country roads although the ruts are still there where the county machinery has not operated. The sun has begun to shine again, giving heart to the sun worshippers who fade and lose heart without it. These are signs of spring.

More farmers come to town to spend an hour or more of good natured rillery around the lunging places, a few hardy souls parade the streets without overcoats, the clotheslines show a greater variety indicating that ambition has spurred the housewives, merchants look doubtfully at their smooled and smeared windows, school boys build dams in the creek, the buds on the lilacs in the hotel parking strip are swelling. All are evidence that spring is not too far away for spring in this country can be foretold by the actions of the people better than by the thermometer.

There was a long period this winter when the sparrows hushed their song. Now they can be heard before daybreak. The little brown birds flutter about as if already laying plans for a nest in the stubble. And if a horse can be found it's an even bet his long hair is beginning to come out. Yes, frosty nights or not, it is getting around to the growing season. Like as not the stores will be selling garden seeds before long.

VARIABLE RATIO

There is a group of tax payers in Portland who feel that they have been unduly set upon because of the recent ruling of the Tax Commission which did away with the variable ratio for property assessments.

They entirely overlook the fact that the variable ratio gave them an advantage not in keeping with fairness and justice. Instead of thanking their lucky stars for getting by for years without paying their share of the taxes, they complain grievously when they have to start to paying their share. Property owners in Portland whose real property consists of a home will pay a larger tax this year than before. In some cases the increase is 50 percent. Previously home owners were taxed on a lower ratio of true value than business building owners or manufacturers.

The exact figures are not at hand but the following will serve as an example. A man owning a home worth $5000 would find it assessed at $2500 for tax purposes. A man owning $5000 in business property would find that his assessment was $4000 for tax purposes. The home owner is kicking because the valuations were equalized.

It is barely possible that the people of the state would like to change to a variable ratio so that home owners could be assessed less than income property owners. If they do it can be brought before the legislature or before the people—or both.

Whenever it becomes possible for an assessor to vary the ratios for taxation an opening in the law is made for injustice and inequality. Taxation must be made and kept on an equal basis.

It seems that the dissenters of Portland are letting their problem get out of hand by seeking the continuance of favoritism which was never legal nor fair.

LET THE WHEAT GROWER GROW THE WHEAT

It seems entirely possible that the present farm program (that of increasing the production of needed foods) could be of much aid to wheat growers.

When prices of dairy products, of garden truck, of eggs become high enough to draw farmers into production of those articles and out of wheat the real wheat farmer may have less competition than he now has.

For several years the wheat grower has been burdened with a type of competition which makes it impossible for him to exist without government subsidy. The subsidy is so high that everyone who can grow wheat gets in on some of it which doesn't help the wheat farmer at all, except as a temporary matter.

Any sensible adjustment of American agriculture would certainly encourage land that produces 150 percent of normal wheat crops to continue in that production. A sensible readjustment would be to discourage farmers who produce less than average wheat crops to grow something else. Also lands that can produce other crops profitably could be put to that use instead of sharing in the wheat subsidy.

If that were done the wheat grower could plan a future for his business much more securely than when, as now, he must depend on governmental graciousness for a profit.

In Other Days

From the Observer, Feb. 27, 1903

Alexander Scott of Grass Valley has been in The Dalles some time negotiating with the WWM Co. for electric power for Grass Valley, Moro and Wasco, hooked onto the White River plant. A joint stock company is contemplated.

Ina, daughter of W. E. Shay, has returned from the hospital where she was successfully treated for appendicitis.

J. T. Teal has sold his Grass Valley half section to Hi Foreman of North Yamhill and moved to his Monkland place.

The legislative assembly has ruled that farmers up here in eastern Oregon should put up three wire fence with posts just so and so.

Gov. Chamberlain has signed the law repealing the scalp bounty law.

From the Observer, Feb. 20, 1913

A. R. Farfield was sentenced to from one to ten years for horse stealing by Judge Parker this week and taken to Salem by Sheriff McKean.

The dance given in Moro in honor of St. Valentine's day was a huge success with many visitors present from Wasco and Grass Valley.

Several street lamps have been placed this week in different parts of town aiding greatly those who must be on the streets after dark.

The OWR&N-Co will sell a round trip ticket from Portland to Moro for $5.70.

The farmers of Walla Walla have bought a million and a half grain bags at less price than prairie made bags of the state of Washington at 81 cents.

From the Observer, Feb. 22, 1923

Mrs. Arvid Anderson and Miss Fern White, who has been visiting in Wasco from Scappoose, were guests last week at the E. M. Badger home.

(Continued from page one) alien enemies to suit some of the congressmen, who assert that the army would be more severe. The difficult problem is what to do with the Nisei, the American born children of Japanese parents. Under the law these American born are full fledged American citizens, entitled to the rights of other citizens, but these second generation Japanese are viewed with suspicion. When Japanese bombers attacked Pear Harbor several were shot down, and on their bodies were found fraternity rings of the University of Oregon and of high schools in Hawaii.

Reclamation Commissioner John Page has been trying to have the army guard the reclamation projects in the west—Owyhee, Roza, etc.—but the army refuses, insisting that the reclamation system provide its own protection. It is possible that a battalion of military police may later be assigned to this duty.

Statehouse Gossip

While Aiken may not know a great deal about budget making on the state scale yet his canny Scotch shrewdness is counted on strongly in keeping the state purse safe from unjustified raids. While the selection of Aiken for this highly important post may not have been entirely political Aikens presence as a member of the governor's staff should be good for a sizeable block of eastern Oregon votes in his race against Secretary of State Earl Snell who comes from east of the Cascades

Residents of Oregon's smaller cities as well as those living in rural areas were overlooked by the national office of civilian defense in their allocation of gas masks and fire fighting equipment for the Pacific coast area. According to information received this week by Defense Coordinator Jerrold Owen this defense equipment is to be supplied only to cities of 10,000 population or more. In Oregon that includes Portland, Salem, Eugene, Klamath Falls, Astoria, Bend and Medford. Owen says that he is receiving numerous protests against this slight from officials of the smaller cities where the need, especially for fire fighting equipment, is said to be much greater than in the larger cities which are already fairly well prepared to cope with the emergency.

Collections totalling $2,228,366 for the last quarter of 1941 have boosted the unemployment compensation trust fund to a new all time high level of more than $18,300,000 it was reported by the unemployment compensation commission this week.

Organization of three additional units of the State Guard at Eugene, Astoria and Tillamook have been authorized by Governor Sprague. Rifles, ammunition and uniforms will be supplied from the state armory as soon as the units are organized. The governor said the state was being surveyed with a view to the organization of still other guard units in the near future. Some of these will probably be located in eastern Oregon, it was said.

There is no immediate prospect of any mass evacuation of Oregon citizens because of the war emergency. Ross McIntyre, chairman of the evacuation committee of the state defense council, declared following a conference with Governor Sprague here this week. McIntyre explained, however, that if the emergency should require evacuation plans have already been made for taking care of the situation.

Approximately 75,000 Oregon men between the ages of 20 and 44 registered for possible military service this week, according to an estimate by Colonel Elmer V. Wooten, state director of selective service. Those registrants were in addition to those listed in two previous registrations.

In front of W. K. Johnson's place and it was put out with a heavy canvas. Damage was burned wiring and wood work.

W. H. Ragsdale, T. W. Alley and W. S. Powell were visitors in The Dalles Monday and report that nearly all the snow is off the ground north of Gordon ridge.

The Wasco town basketball team defeated Moro 34-36. Moro was ahead in the first half but could not maintain the lead.

Gives Japs 'Slip'

Admiral Chan-Chak, who led 100 British and Chinese in dash from Hong Kong, in five naval speed boats, engaging Japs in series of battles for four days, finally reaching safety.

Captures St. Pierre

Adm. Emile Muselier of the Free French navy, whose capture of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon proved embarrassing to the U. S. state department, who feared it might anger Vichy to the extent of complete collaboration with Berlin.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry Pownall, new British chief in the Far East, who succeeded Sir Robert Brooke-Popham. His first job was to stem the Jap invasion of Malaya.

Food Stamp Plan Will Continue

The fact that the Food Stamp Plan is going to continue was stressed today by Lincoln P. Bloomfield, Acting Area Supervisor of the Surplus Marketing Administration, in announcing the discontinuation of the use of continuation cards for retailers. Hereafter, all stamps received by retail merchants are to be placed on master cards only, for the purpose of redemption. All continuation cards now in the hands of wholesalers and banks must be submitted to the Portland Audit Office for redemption, Bloomfield said.

"Some retailers have misunderstood this change in procedure to mean that the Food Stamp Plan is going to fold up," he continued. "This is definitely not the case. The Stamp Plan is going to continue."

PRICES SET FOR CANNING VEGETABLES

Minimum fair prices to growers recently announced for the 1942 canning pea and tomato crops do not in any way constitute maximum or fixed prices, Robert B. Taylor of Adams, chairman of the Oregon USDA war board, emphasized in a statement this week.

These minimum prices of $16.50 a ton for tomatoes and an increase of $17.50 per ton above the 1940 price for peas for all sieve sizes, are the lowest prices which canners can pay growers and are certified to sell any of their 1942 pack to federal purchasing agencies.

These minimum prices to growers and the recently announced price scale for government purchases from canners, are aimed at obtaining a 25 to 30 per cent expansion in the 1942 pack of these two crops. Reports show that many canners are writing contracts with growers at prices above the minimum figures, Taylor said.

Gathering Place Arranged For Useful Scrap

All scrap paper is to be brought to the Tum-A-Lum building, and the scrap iron will be stored behind the J. E. Norton store. Loretta Bennett and Mrs. Marcus Eslinger of The Dalles visited Mrs. B. A. Hogue and Gertrude last Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. E. Norton and daughter Carol and Eugene Norton spent three days of last week visiting relatives and friends at Tangent and Corvallis.

Verne Baker of Canby, former resident of Sherman county, spent Sunday night at the J. M. Wilson home. He was en route to Seattle to visit his sons, Taylor and Charlie and families.

Miss Esther Cammack and Mrs. Floyd Miller motored to Salem to spend the week end with relatives. Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sather Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sather and family and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Miller and family of Moro.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Howell and George Howell were business visitors in The Dalles Thursday.

Kent Grange members are invited to Harlandview Friday, March 13th when the Harlandview grange will put on the third and fourth degrees for the following new members: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John Reckmann, Eugene Norton, Mrs. Floyd Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bekkedahl and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jeffries.

Fred Cox and Warren Mongan of Grass Valley were dinner guests at the Louis Sather home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schilling of Goldendale, Wn., spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the R. E. Schilling home. They went to Antelope Thursday where they visited at the Millard Thomsen home until Sunday, when Mrs. Schilling started work at the Roy Forman home. Mr. Schilling returned to Goldendale Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilson and sons were business visitors at Grass Valley Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Jay McKay and family were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Schilling Friday.

A. A. Dunlap of Grass Valley was a brief caller here Sunday morning.

The Kent basketball teams went to Rufus Friday night when both teams were defeated. Those attending from here were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lyons and daughters Mary Lou and Sammie, J. C. Wilson, Charles Purchase, Doris Stiles, Helen Halvorson, Merrill Sether, Eugene Norton and Hugh Hoskinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank von Borstel attended the formal dedication of the new home of Portland Post No. 1 Saturday night, February 14, in Portland. Many Department officers of the Legion and Auxiliary were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson spent Wednesday at Moro at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Douma.

Mrs. Maudie Schadewitz and family spent several days visiting at the George McKay family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Davis were in The Dalles Monday when Mrs. Davis received medical attention. She is confined to her bed from an injury caused by falling on the frozen ground. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson called at the J. L. Davis home Friday.

Frank Pike of Grass Valley was here on business Monday. Charles Purchase went to The Dalles Saturday and his wife returned home with him. She has been in a hospital for several weeks. Mrs. Grace Gregg, mother of Mrs. Purchase, also returned with them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson went to Bend Saturday where they spent the night at the H. C. Nelson home. They returned to Kent Sunday evening.
