News Received From Local Servicemen

The following are quotations from a recent letter received from Rolla Thogerson, who is stationed at the Amphibian Training Base at Little Creek, Va.:

"I am fine and like the Navy swell. They transferred us off our ship three weeks ago, so I'm now in barracks. I don't expect to be here much longer, as we are getting very rigid commando rating.

"Next Saturday I go up for Motor Machinist Mate 1-C rating. That will be as high as I can go until I make Chief. Now I'm rated the same as a staff sergeant in the army only I have more authority. A second-class petty officer in the Navy has quite a bit of responsibility. On the 404 I was in complete charge of the engine room. I had four diesel engines to look after.

"How is the weather out there? It's pretty cold here, but we have to operate anyway. I guess they want to make us tough. I'm sure glad to hear that conditions are so that you have chances for a good crop again next year. "I had planned on getting a leave to come home over the holidays, but it was too far. They wouldn't give me long enough leave."

Word has been received from Pvt. Vernon Melzer of the U.S. Marine Corps, that he has been transferred to Norman, Oklahoma, where he will take training to become an aviation mechanic's mate.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, I didn't realize till the other night when I ran across an article in the paper what a whale of a lot of industrial alcohol the government needs for the war."
"I should say it does, Chet. I understand the beverage distillers around the country are producing about 240,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol this year for ammunition, tires, and other things. I'd say it's mighty fortunate these distilleries are available to do the job. Otherwise, if we still had prohibition, the government would have had to spend millions of dollars and use up a lot of critical materials to build plants... to say nothing of all the time it would take. It might have been just another case of 'too little, too late.'"
